French Communists Urge Nation-Wide Strikes To Aid Blum Government.

VIENNA, March 26.—(UP)— Goering "must get out" of Austria, as a measure of hatred "but not necessity," Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering declared yesterday in a speech which opened the campaign for the April plebiscite to ratify the union of Austria and Germany.

Speaking at a mass meeting,
Goering said he had instructed authorities to "undertake the necessary steps legally and quietly to bring Jewish firms into Aryan hands."

"Vienna is a city in which 300,000
Jews live and cannot be called German," he said. "But Vienna must become a German city. It is to fulfill tasks in cultural and economic fields. In neither can Jews be employed."

"Jews must know that they must get out. . . . This has nothing to do with hatred but it is a necessity."

Lays Fraud to Schuschnigg.

Turning to other questions,
Goering said the proposed Schuschnigg plebiscite was a fraud and will be dealt with by the courts. He charged that the former chancellor had double-crossed and lied to the Austrian people and added "if Schuschnigg had been subjected to pressure, he is untrue. . . . When we saw that a plebiscite fake he was planning, we took things into our own hands."

Referring to the Catholic church, Goering said "We are not against the church and still less against religion. If we had been Godless, we would not have blessed
. . . ."

"We want internal peace and harmony. Catholic church quarters understand. We give the church protection, but the church must not mix in affairs which do not concern it. No compromise is possible in this respect."

He pointed out that no personal vengeance will be permitted and "in Germany only those are killed from the court sentences to death, and only the Fuehrer can decide on life or death. I want warn anyone who might entertain false ideas."

LEIPZIG, Germany, March 26.—
Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler took up the cudgels against the tattered treaty of Versailles yesterday, sarcastically scorning German frontiers set up by the pact.
"Who imagined the great German Reich would stop at the ridiculous frontiers drawn at Versailles?" he shouted.

A crowd of 28,000 Saxons cheered the Fuehrer in the second appearance of his electioneering tour around the Reich. He convinced masses that his union of Austria and Germany was the "fulfillment of a thousand-year-old dream."

Riotous Diet Nationalizes Electricity

Japan Far Along Road to Totalitarianism as Stormy Session Ends.

TOKYO, March 26.—(AP)— Japan's parliament ended a historic session tonight, having taken the nation far along the road to totalitarianism.
The last bill enacted was a government measure to transfer entire control of Japan's huge electric industry from private hands to the state.

Also voted was the bitterly contested national mobilization bill to give the government unlimited power to draft Japan's manpower and economic resources in a war emergency.

The whole session, the regular 1937-38 meeting, was marked by conflict between the cabinet and the legislature, dissension between the houses and strife among the parties in the lower house.

Rescript From Emperor.

The session was to have ended yesterday but a rescript from Emperor Hirohito was necessary to prolong it one day so that a deadlock over the electric power bill could be broken.

The bill was the last of 86 which the government introduced.
All but ten were adopted. The session already had approved the regular 1938-39 budget of $833,- 000,000, of which about half goes to the army and navy, and also a supplementary budget of about $1,400,000,000 for expenses of the war in China.

Passage of the electric power bill came after 36 hours of furious debate which had exploded into a small riot in the diet chamber.
The uproar broke as the first deadline, last midnight, approached. Members of the major parties, Seiyukai and Minseitō, rushed the aisles to block the way of a Social Mass Party representative who tried to fight his way to the speaker's platform.

Opposed by Peers.

Premier Prince Fumimaro Ko-noe, in the meantime, had obtained the Emperor's sanction to continue the session one day, ending the disturbance.

The bill had passed the lower house smoothly but encountered heavy opposition among the peers many of whom represent large business interests. Like the national mobilization bill, it was backed by the army as a war measure.

he had been taken after Nazi au-

Red Cross Drive Opens Tomorrow With Special Flight by 25 Planes

Planes, nurses and Red Cross officials stood poised yesterday for the "take-off" which will launch the annual Red Cross roll call at noon tomorrow.

A special opening ceremony will be held at Five Points at 12 o'clock. A speakers' stand has been erected, and city and county officials will take part in the ceremony.

The American flag and the Red Cross flag will be raised to mark the official opening date, and during the ceremony a fleet of 25 planes will soar above the city and county, dropping 100,000 circulars with an appeal for Atlan-tans to join the Red Cross.

Mayor Hartsfield will raise the flag and read his proclamation of-

WIDE REBEL DRIVE PUSHES TO WITHIN 25 MILES OF SEA

Nationalist Army Under Aranda Crosses Into Province of Castellon

BARCELONA-MADRID LINE THREATENED

Loyalists Retreat Before
250,000 Franco Troops to San Marco Mountains.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish, Frontier, March 26.—(UP)— Nationalist forces cut through the crumbling Loyalist defenses along a 125-mile front tonight and reached a point less than 25 miles from the Mediterranean in the maritime province of Castellon.

Troops under General Miguel Aranda crossed the Castellon frontier south of Alcaniz. They were the first Nationalists to fight their way into a coastal province in the present drive, which may prove the last great offensive of the 20-month-old Spanish civil war.

Loyalists Retreating.
Unless Aranda's troops can be thrown back, the vital communications and last highway connecting Barcelona with Madrid will be severed. And it was indicated tonight that they could not be halted, for the Loyalists were retreating rapidly into the San Marcos mountains.

Aranda's Galicians advanced simultaneously from Castellote and Aquaviva. They reached the border on the road from Alcorisa at a point called Molino del Chorra-do, crossed the Bergantes river and pushed on into the province.

Pounding with artillery and airplanes, motorized units and more than 250,000 infantry, General Francisco Franco's forces were engaged in four major operations in an effort to crush Loyalist resistance and end the war.

Nationalists claimed that the Loyalists, including international brigades, were falling back in great haste. They reported that Major R. H. Merriman, of Berke-
forms, papers and money in the retreat. He is a member of the general staff of the Canadian Mackenzie battalion of the 15th international brigade.

Aided by 100 Planes.

The thrust was being carried out by cavalry and motorized columns, aided by a squadron of 100 airplanes. Whenever the columns encountered resistance they deployed and used a heavy grenade attack. If that proved insufficient, planes were signalled. They would diverge to within 50 feet of the government lines bombing and machine-gunning until the resistance weakened sufficiently for the mobile columns to dash forward and attack before the retreating republicans could regroup.

Man Robbed, Shot by Two On Gun Range

Gordon Haston, 30, Held Up by Negroes as He Goes to Rifle Practice.

Badly wounded by a charge from a shotgun, C. Gordon Haston, 30, of 6 Roxboro road, was found in a semi-conscious condition yesterday on a rifle range where he had gone for target practice. He was apparently the victim of hold-up men.

"Two negroes shot me," was all he was able to tell Fulton county police.

He was found by a group of boys who heard him groaning as they passed the range, about 100 yards east of Cheshire Bridge road near the Seaboard Air Line railroad.

The shotgun charge had struck him full in the face. At Emory University hospital physicians described his condition as "very serious." Some of the pellets had pierced one eye.

Haston, who went to the range regularly to shoot, left his home about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With him he took his two high-powered rifles.

The boys found him lying groaning on the ground about 5:15 o'clock. Missing was his automobile, his wallet and his watch.

County Policemen R. E. Flournoy and J. O. Smith, who answered the boys' call, said he was unable to give a description of the negroes he said shot him.

They theorized Haston must have shown signs of resistance when the negroes attempted to hold him up and that the negroes shot, escaping in his automobile.
A general description of the auto was broadcast.

Four Workers Killed In Mexican Oil Fight

MEXICO CITY, March 26.—
(UP)—First violence in connection with the government operation of the expropriated $400,000,000 oil industry was reported tonight from Puerto Mexico, where four workers were said to have been killed and several others injured when part-time employees complained that they were not included in the full-time list of workers.

MEXICO, D. F., March 26.—(AP)—
Financial circles predicted today Mexico would be forced to resort to controlled inflation to ease the monetary situation precipitated by expropriation of the foreign oil industry.

The predictions came from bankers who said they were based primarily on the tightness of credit which has put business almost on a 100 per cent cash basis.

Gas Cloud on Sun Rises 970,000 Miles

PASADENA, Cal., March 26.—
(AP)—A huge fiery cloud of hydrogen and calcium gas which shot up 970,000 miles above the sun's atmosphere, the greatest height yet observed, was reported by the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson Observatory today.

The huge, hot gas cloud, or prominence, started away from the sun's chromosphere, or atmosphere, at a speed of 65 miles a second, and when last seen was traveling 200 miles a second.

Mrs. Roosevelt Flies Here This Afternoon

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will at 4:35 o'clock this afternoon enroute to Warm Springs, where she will join the President.

Mrs. Roosevelt is flying from Spokane to Chicago, changing there to an Atlanta-bound plane. She will go to Warm Springs by automobile from the airport.

SURVEY DISCLOSES PRESTIGE OF F. D. R. DROPS WITH TRADE

Popularity of President Remains High, However,
According to Report of Public Opinion Institute

STILL SUPPORTED BY 58 OUT OF 100

Vote Is Stressed as Not Measuring Sentiment on Third Term Prospects.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, March 26.—President Roosevelt's strength has dropped sharply in the latest monthly presidential index of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

The Institute's study, which is part of a continuous measurement of the President's popularity since 1934, shows graphically the extent to which Roosevelt's prestige has been affected by the business slump which began in October.

As of today, the Institute finds,
Roosevelt has the support of a little more than 58 voters out of a hundred, whereas he had more than 63 voters with him last October and approximately 61 at the end of January.

This is the fifth successive decline in the President's strength in the five months of the depression, and the sharpest decline so far. In spite of these declines, however, President Roosevelt still commands an impressive majority.

He is almost as strong as he was in November, 1932, when he defeated President Hoover; and if today's percentage is applied to the actual vote cast in 1936,
Roosevelt would still poll 25,000,- 000 votes as compared with 27,- 000,000 then.

Trend of Sentiment.

It is the trend of sentiment that may give the White House concern.

Will Roosevelt's popularity wane further between now and next November's congressional elections? Will there be an upturn in business, and will it improve the President's standing?
These are some of the questions that can be asked in the light of present-day trends.

It is significant that the President's strength in today's Institute index is the lowest since his re-election in 1936. Even at the bitterest stages of the supreme court fight last year Roosevelt's personal popularity did not drop below 60 per cent in Institute
Roosevelt's majorities in the elections of 1932 and 1936, too, as the following table shows:

% of Major-Party
Vote for Roosevelt
1932 Election 58.5
1936 Election 62.5

5,000 Will Hear Mrs. Roosevelt At Women's Conference Tuesday

By FRANK DRAKE.
Country and town women from every county of Georgia will come to Atlanta Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss with city women the ways and means of improving rural life throughout the state.

It will be the occasion of the first rural-urban conference ever held in the south.

Approximately 5,000 women are expected to hear Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and other distinguished speakers talk directly to farm women of their problems and how city women can help solve them.

The meeting will be held at the city auditorium.

FULTON LIQUOR VOTE WEDNESDAY

42,380 Persons Qualified To Cast Ballots on the Wet-Dry Question.

Repealists and prohibitionists yesterday prepared to decide the wet-dry question at Fulton's polls Wednesday.

With 42,380 persons qualified to cast votes in the local option referendum, leaders on both sides made appeals for support.

No effort will be made by drys to enjoin the scheduled election,
W. W. Gaines, chairman of the Consolidated Forces for Prohibition, declared yesterday. They will fight the issue at the polls and in the supreme court, where one or more cases will be carried on constitutional grounds.

Atlantans and residents of Fulton county were urged to cast ballots by Stuart P. Murray, chairman of the county repeal committee.

Murray declared a heavy vote is highly important in Fulton county.

All arrangements for the election have been made by Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries. It was announced yesterday by Claude Mason, chief deputy in the ordinary's office. The same voting hours as in the sheriff's election will be observed.

Macon said 25,263 white persons are eligible to vote in the city of Atlanta, and 15,336 white persons in the county. In Atlanta, 1,626 negroes are registered and 155 in the county. In the county primary March 2, only 37,740 persons were qualified.

7 to 6 O'clock.
With the exception of 11 county precincts, all polls will be open in Fulton county and in the city from 7 o'clock Wednesday Persons Are Barred.

Announcing rules and regulations governing the distribution and sale of liquor, including provisions for the licensing of whole-salers and permitting them to store their goods in their own warehouses, Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head yesterday officially completed plans for the opening of liquor stores in Georgia.

Liquor stores will be permitted to remain open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night. They must remain closed on Sundays and primary and general election days or any other days ordered by the commissioner.

Sale Tomorrow.

Liquor will go on sale tomorrow morning in Dougherty county. Commissioner Head will be present in Albany to supervise the licensing of dealers and to see that the rules and regulations issued yesterday are carried out.

Five other Georgia counties have voted for the sale and distribution of liquor.

These counties are Pierce, Coffee, Muscogee, Chatham and Baker.

Fulton and Terrell counties will vote Wednesday of this week. In Fulton Stuart Murray, a leader of the legalization group, said yesterday that he expected a vote of more than two to one for repeal.

Private Warehousing.

The long-awaited regulations not only permit wholesalers to obtain licenses but also provide that after their liquor has been taxed, tested and approved at the state warehouses it may be removed to private warehouses, from which it can be distributed to retailers.

The commissioner also set forth regulations governing advertising of distilled spirits. Newspaper and magazine advertising, under supervision of the commissioner's office, is to be permitted. All other forms of advertising including billboards, electric signs, novelties and the like are barred.

CHAMBER REQUESTS SURVEY DELEGATES

92 Organizations Asked To Co-operate on Reed Report.

To expedite adoption of recommendations made in the Reed survey of Atlanta and Fulton county governments, 92 citizen organizations have been asked by the Chamber of Commerce to appoint representatives to a citizens' survey committee, J. P. Allen, chairman, said yesterday.

The representatives will be asked to co-operate in discussion of the survey, he said, adding that certain organizations have been asked to take the lead in giving special study to various recommendations in the report.

"We have received, in the last few weeks, a number of queries from citizen organizations as to ways in which they can help in the adoption of recommendations made by Dr. Reed," he said. "Therefore we have decided that, in order to give effect to the genuine desire on the part of many citizens to learn more about the Reed survey and to do their part in making plans for putting it to work, the survey committee should be made broadly repre-

A total of 1,100 Georgians were placed in jobs during the week ending March 19, it was announced yesterday at offices of the Georgia State Employment Service and the National Re-employment Service.

'REAL' TVA INQUIRY URGED ON SENATORS

Bridges Wants to Serve on Committee Because He Has 'Many Leads.'

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—Senator Bridges, Republican, New York, said today the proposed congressional inquiry into the TVA "can be a whitewash, a farce, or a real investigation, depending upon the personnel of the investigating committee."

Bridges recently sponsored a resolution to investigate the Power and Planning Agency, and some of its provisions were included in an investigation resolution approved by the senate yesterday.

The resolution, which must be approved by the house and signed by the President to become effective, would authorize a committee of five senators and five representatives to look into activities of TVA and opposing power companies. The committee would be named by Speaker Bankhead and Vice President Garner.

Bridges told reporters he would like to serve on the committee because he had many "leads" concerning TVA activities which should be studied.

American Troops Home From China To Miss Luxuries

TACOMA, Wash., March 26.—(P)—Eight hundred soldiers, sleep from many years of low-cost luxury in China, today began figuring how to live like mandarins on $21 to $45 a month.

It was good to be home—in so far as America could be considered home to the 15th infantry which had spent 38 years in the Orient—but several things appeared a little out of line.

Beer, for instance, was 30 cents a quart. They got suds in Tientsin for 6 cents and servants at $8 or $6 a month.

Sunday School Goer Hasn't Missed Since '79

WASHINGTON, N. J., March 26.—(P)—Barring the unforeseen, Herman K. Petty will go to Sunday school tomorrow to round out 59 years of perfect attendance. He thinks that is some kind of a record.

Illness, death in the family, blizzards, epidemics and operations haven't kept the 69-year-old Petty from Sunday school since the last Sunday in March, 1879. On one occasion he postponed an operation until Monday so he wouldn't miss school in the Washington Methodist Episcopal church, where he has been secretary for 51 years.

Governor Rivers has issued a special proclamation indorsing the Red Cross Roll Call and calling on all citizens to take part in the campaign. Following is the proclamation:

"The annual membership Roll Call for the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross will begin on Monday, March 28, and end on Saturday, April 9, 1938.

"The citizens of Georgia need not be reminded of how vital the Red Cross is in the life of our nation. Conceived first as ministering aid to the soldier wounded in battle, it has grown to be the greatest of all the peace-time agencies of mercy and help.

"But the Red Cross does not only find opportunity for service in the emergency of flood or fire or hurricane. The local activities of each Red Cross chapter are well worth noting. The preparation of thousands of garments and surgical dressing for the needy in homes and hospitals, training in swimming and life saving activities, preparation of thousands of pages of reading matter in Braille for the benefit of the blind, the assistance of thousands of veterans and service men, are but a few of the multitude of duties these workers find.

"The Red Cross is a truly Democratic organization. It belongs to you and to me. We can be justly proud of its record, and can voice our appreciation of it by continuing our membership. The dues are but one dollar per year; little enough to ask when yielding such a tremendous contribution to the general welfare.

"Therefore, it gives me great pleasure, as Governor of Georgia, to hereby indorse this Red Cross Roll Call and sincerely urge those who are asked to participate in this great program, by paying the relatively small membership, to respond in a spirit of good neighborliness. I hope all will take part in this work by becoming members."

planes are W. F. Underwood, H. H. Culler and Owen McRobert; Ray Smith will pilot his plane and J. H. Gray will broadcast from the loudspeaker calling on Atlantans to join the Red Cross. Nurses included in this feature of the drive are Misses Patricia O'Kelley, Eugenia Hooper and Lois Stoutamire.

Meanwhile, today leading Atlantans will make radio addresses in behalf of the campaign. Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, will interview Dr. Boland on the work of the organization at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon over WSB.

At 2:30 o'clock, over WATL, Dr. Herman L. Turner, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the roll call, will devote his regular 15-minute period to the Red Cross.

Major Trammell Scott, president of the Southern Association of Baseball Clubs, will speak over WAGA at 4:30 o'clock, giving a general description of Red Cross service.

At 5:30 o'clock Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, long associated with the Junior Red Cross, will speak over WGST. The closing address will be given by W. A. Dobson, regional executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who will speak over WATL at 7:15 o'clock.

'AIR MAIL WEEK' TO START MAY 15

Planes Will Touch 60 Towns
Each Day.

Georgia Air Mail Week will be held this year in connection with the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the air mail service, May 15 to 21, Lon Livingston, Atlanta postmaster and chairman of the Georgia Air Mail Week committee, announced yesterday.

During the week, planes will make daily flights throughout the state picking up air mail at 60 Georgia towns. Each of the cities will have special cachets with which to stamp mail for these flights, the postmaster said.

Livingston received a request from Representative Mead, sponsor of the house resolution establishing air mail week, asking that he be sent a cachet from Atlanta during the celebration.

MRS. W. T. HENRY DIES; FUNERAL RITES TODAY

Robinson Crusoe, 82, Gives Boys 'Battle' in Kite Contest

Veteran Fancier and 'Friday' Win Second Prize in Tournament.

By LEE ROGERS.

Gray-haired Robinson Crusoe, now in his 83d spring, and his man, Friday, stumbled in on the WPA kite tournament in Piedmont park yesterday and ran away with the second prize ribbon in the "steadiest flyer, tailless kite" competition.

Laughing youngsters filled the park when he arrived. Forty-nine boys handled with pride kites they had made and were confident would bring victory in the tournament. Hundreds of friends and kite enthusiasts had gathered to watch the contest.

As the March winds blew moderately and the kites took the air, the sure sign of spring was here. But, the beauty of the flying kites and the enthusiasm of the youngsters failed to take attention from the 82-year-old entrant.

"I didn't know the boys were having a tournament when I walked down to the park this morning, but since there was no age limit, I thought I might give the lads a few points on flying real kites," Crusoe smiled.

"That's my helper, Friday," he said, pointing to his nephew, who aided him in launching his kites.

Petrahedron Kite. His entry was a petrahedron kite made with four triangles, and he was the happiest, gayest, most active entrant in the tournament, the officials said.

Mrs. Crusoe said her husband didn't know about the contest, but she certainly was glad he entered. "The pleasure he gets from his kites has been responsible for his long life, I do believe," she added.

"These boys don't know how to make kites, they disappointed me," Crusoe said. "I wish I had had my good kites down there, then those boys could have seen how March winds blew a sure sign of spring to Atlanta yesterday when the youngsters let their kites to the breeze in a kite tournament sponsored by the WPA recreational division. And the spryest entrant of the 82-year-old shown above with his petrahedron kite, right, with which he won second place in the judging of the steadiest flyer. He is Robinson D. kites should be made. Out of the 50 entries, there wasn't a good kite in the lot."

When General Leonard Wood reviewed the troops here during the World War and made an address at Five Points, Crusoe said he flew over the speaker's stand, red, white and blue kites on the same line to which was attached a large American flag and smaller English and French flags.

"I began making kites after reading a book on kites in 1916 and becoming interested in them," Crusoe said. "It was after reading of Alexander Graham Bell's experiments in Newfoundland with the petrahedron kite in his attempt to find the secret to making an airplane that I began this type. You can't make them too big and they are the prettiest ever in a good breeze."

Mr. Crusoe makes kites as a hobby. Once finished they are given to children in the neighborhood.

Tournament Winners. Other winners in the tournament were:

Steadiest flyer, tailless: Rudolph Copeland, first; Crusoe, second; Paul Henry, third.

Smallest flyer: Arthur Bere, first; John Fewell, second; Paul Moon, third.

Largest flyer: Seaborn Tibbets, first; Melvin Berner, second; Charles Odom, third.

Highest flyer with 100 yards cord: Alex Poolos, first; J. B. Moon, second; Paul Henry, third.

Most artistic: Melvin Berner, first; Paul Moon, second; John Moore, third.

Messenger race: Rudolph Copeland, first; Charles Copeland, second; Paul Henry, third.

The tournament was sponsored by the recreational division of the Works Progress Administration area office here.

T. M. MIDDLEBROOK KILLS SELF IN HOME

Wife Finds Body on Floor Beside Shotgun After Hearing Shot.

T. M. Middlebrook, 59, prominent East Point civic leader and a candidate for the county commission in the special election last fall, was found dead by his wife shortly after breakfast yesterday in their home at 2999 Roosevelt highway.

He had been shot through the top of the head. A double-barreled shotgun lay on the floor beside him. At a coroner's inquest conducted by Coroner Paul Donehoo, it was found that he died as the result of a self-inflicted wound.

In Poor Health. County Officers Harrison and Byrd, who investigated, said they were told Mr. Middlebrook had been despondent and in poor health for several weeks.

According to their report, he finished an early breakfast and went upstairs. A few minutes later Mrs. Middlebrook heard a shot, rushed up to his room and found him lying on the floor. The body was taken to the funeral home of A. C. Hemperley & Sons at East Point.

Friends of the family said he had been worried about his financial condition for some time and sold out his mercantile business in East Point less than two weeks ago. He had moved into a new home near College Park a year ago last fall.

A native of Covington, Ga., Middlebrook enlisted in the army at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. He had reached Tampa, Fla., en route to Cuba when he contracted typhoid fever and was sent to Fort Thomas, Ky., where he was mustered out of the service.

Served in Philippines.

A few months later he re-enlisted and served for some time in the Philippines. He later returned to Tampa, where he entered the mercantile business. He moved his business to East Point about 10 years ago and had been active in civic affairs since that time.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Minnie Middlebrook; his mother, Mrs. L. L. Middlebrook, of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. John Boyd, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. R. Cook, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Hemperley chapel, with the Rev. J. T. Robins officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

CHINESE RECAPTURE VITAL RAILROAD CITY

Position on Yellow River Gained Through Jabbing at Weakened Forces.

SHANGHAI, March 27.—(Sunday.)—(P)—Chinese today reported capture of Menghsien, on the north bank of the Yellow river, a vital position for defense of the Lunghai railroad.

The town, they said, was taken through a strategy of jabbing at Japanese positions left exposed by withdrawals to the east to bolster the still-deadlocked Japanese offensive against Suchow.

Menghsien is in Honan province inland from Coughchow, where the east-west Lunghai and north-south Peiping-Hankow railroads intersect.

On the same front, in the northwest corner of the Lunghai corridor, Chinese reported capture also

LOBBY CHALLENGES GANNETT ON PROBE

'Lobby Committee Won't Be Frightened,' He Says.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—Senator Minton, Democrat, Indiana, challenged Frank E. Gannett in a radio address tonight to seek federal prosecution of the senate lobby committee.

In a broadcast earlier in the week the Rochester (N. Y.) publisher suggested the senate take steps to have the committee prosecuted for "conspiracy" to violate constitutional rights of citizens.

Minton said Gannett would not seek federal prosecution of the committee because "Mr. Gannett knows that's just another one of his horrible stories to try to frighten someone. The lobby committee will not be frightened. And yet he talks about intimidation."

This is a good time to buy a
1938 FORD V-8

Now that National Used Car Exchange Week has reduced dealers' used car stocks, this is an opportune time to buy the new 1938 Ford V-8 you have been wanting. There are three excellent reasons for acting now.

First, the ability and desire of your Ford dealer to accept additional cars in trade—now.

Second, the fact that spring arrives officially this week, and it's a real thrill to meet it with a new car.

Third, the 1938 Ford V-8 itself. It is a great value at its present low price—and the value seems even greater when you learn how much equipment is included in the advertised price.

The big 85-hp. De Luxe Ford V-8 offers a new standard of luxury at a low price. The newly styled Standard Ford V-8, even lower in price, is available with either engine size. With the 60-hp. V-8 engine it is "Public Economy No. 1"—owners are reporting 22 to 27 miles per gallon.

You are invited to see your Ford dealer this week for an appraisal on your present car—and a chance to drive a new 1938 Ford V-8—the Quality Car in the Low-price Field.

FORD V-8 PRICES

FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT—TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe, $599; Tudor Sedan, $644; Fordor Sedan, $689. Standard Ford V-8 (85 hp.)—Coupe, $629; Tudor Sedan, $669; Fordor Sedan, $714.

De Luxe Ford V-8 (85 hp. only)—Coupe, $689; Tudor Sedan, $729; Fordor Sedan, $774; Convertible Coupe, $774; Club Coupe, $749; Convertible Club Coupe, $804; Phaeton, $824; Convertible Sedan, $904.

Both Standard and De Luxe cars come equipped with front and rear bumpers and bumper guards, spare wheel, tire and tube, tire lock, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

In addition, De Luxe cars are equipped with an extra tail light, windshield wiper, sun visor*; also de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock and clock, and rustless steel wheel bands, at no extra charge.

CONTINUANCE URGED OF WORK PROJECTS AIDING STATE NEEDS

Georgia Committee Reports on Benefits of Federal Relief Programs.

Federal work relief programs in Georgia have met local needs, prevented distress and suffering and should be continued, the Georgia Community Improvement Appraisal Committee said in its report to Governor Rivers and the state planning board yesterday.

"Projects carried out were sponsored generally by local authorities and therefore conformed to community planning programs; met local needs and employed the types of eligible labor available in the localities," the report declared.

The committee was seeking to measure the extent to which the state and communities have been able to "create lasting improvements and valuable services through constructive use of the abilities of their own destitute unemployed, made available by the various federal job-giving programs."

Reports from 148 counties. County commissioners, state departments, mayors, school superintendents, and other agencies sponsoring federal work relief projects were asked to make reports to the committee. Reports were received from 148 out of 159 Georgia counties.

The committee found that under the work relief program thousands of miles had been added to the state road system and farm-to-market roads had been opened so that farmers might have easy access to their markets.

"Rural rehabilitation, land utilization, soil erosion and forestry projects have served not only the families and workers involved, but will have far-reaching effect upon the state in exemplifying sound agricultural practices," the committee reported.

Specifically, the committee found, among other things: the number of libraries in the state have been increased from 83 to 14 since the program began in 1933, and circulation of publications through WPA libraries reached a high of 138,233 volumes in January; that 1,642.9 miles of truck trails have been constructed; 68 lookout towers erected and 571 miles of telephone wire have been put into service in Georgia.

55,000 Adults Taught. Through educational projects 5,000 adults have been taught to read and write; vocational teachers have given group instruction to 25,000 adults in one school term (1936), and thousands of physical-handicapped persons have been furnished training and artificial appliances which enabled them to become self-supporting, the committee reports. Funds were provided to approximately 14,000 boys and girls to continue their education in 1936-37.

Repairs and improvements have been made to state institutions at Milledgeville, the Georgia Training School for Mental Defectives, Georgia Training School for Boys, Georgia Training School for Girls, Confederate Soldiers' Home, Georgia Academy for the Blind, Georgia School for the Deaf. From 30,000 to 130,000 unemployable families have received foodstuff, clothing and household articles, the report continued.

The report, which throughout praised the work relief program, declared it preferable to a report, was mailed the United States Community Improvement Appraisal, in Washington, D. C., by Governor Rivers.

FEBRUARY SALES SHOW GAIN HERE
Increase of 6.5 Per Cent Is Shown in Report.

Retail sales of 66 independent stores reporting from Atlanta showed a 6.5 per cent increase in February over January but indicated a 3.4 per cent decrease as compared with February, 1937, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the Department of Commerce reported yesterday.

In Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina the bureau reported a 4 per cent gain in sales in February over January and a 10 per cent decrease in dollar volume compared with February, 1937. The smallest decrease was shown in Georgia where 441 stores reporting showed only a 7 per cent decrease from February, 1937. The latest decrease noted was in furniture sales and the largest increase was in sales by women's specialty shops.

Teams Argue Different Sides, Both Win From Others

These smiling students last week debated the question: "Resolved, That Georgia should adopt a unicameral system of legislation," with teams at Druid Hills High school and Decatur High came out victorious in both cases—although upholding different sides. Members of the debating squad of Chamblee school, the students are, from left to right, Patricia Head and Louise Wallace, of Chamblee, who formed the negative team, and their coach, Miss Sue Bess Jones, also of Chamblee; John McElroy, of Doraville, and Vera Wilson, of Dunwoody (both Chamblee schools), affirmative debaters.

ARMY TRUCK'S VICTIM

MAY RECEIVE $10,000

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—The senate passed and sent to the house yesterday a bill directing the treasury to pay $10,000 to the guardians of Dorothy Anne Walker for injuries she received May 19, 1937, when struck by an army truck near Eastman, Georgia.

Another bill sent to the house would lift from the state of Georgia the responsibility for government property valued at $4,491 destroyed during 1936 tornado relief activities at Cordele, Gainesville and Washington, Ga. The property was loaned to the state for use by the Georgia national guard.

SCHOOL DEBATERS WIN ON BOTH SIDES

Chamblee Student Teams,
One Negative, One Positive, Vanquish Rivals.

High school students throughout the state argued last week as dozens of schools participated in the debating contest of the Georgia High School Association.

Statesmen of Georgia would have been pointed to confusing directions, if they had heard the debates on the subject: "Resolved, that Georgia should adopt a unicameral system of legislation," for both affirmative and negative teams won in the various districts. Two teams from one school, meeting teams from Druid Hills high school and Decatur high school in the fifth district, won both debates, although each team had a different side of the question. The teams, representing Chamblee schools, debated Charles McCain and George Cress at Decatur High, while debaters at Druid Hills High were Sarah McFall and Billy Kilpatrick.

On Chamblee's negative team were Patricia Head and Louise Wallace, coached by Miss Sue Bess Jones. The affirmative team was composed of John McElroy and Vera Wilson, coached by Professor J. K. Mitchell. Mark Smith is president of the Georgia High School Association.

JURY WILL RESUME INQUIRY INTO GRAFT

Sessions of Investigation by County Body To Start Again Tomorrow.

The Fulton county grand jury, after a week end recess, will hold another special session tomorrow to resume investigation of charges of graft in local law enforcement agencies and illegal release of prisoners from public works camps.

More than 40 witnesses have been called since the inquiry started two weeks ago. Additional subpoenas were prepared yesterday by the office of Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews, who has been in charge of the probe. Special sessions are to be held every day this week, in addition to the regular meetings set for Tuesday and Friday.

Andrews said yesterday he was "greatly disappointed" at the clemency shown Clayton Hall and Curtis J. Hazelrigg, alleged "big shots" of the lottery racket, and expressed the fear their release might be an incentive to others to get back into the "bug" game. Hall received a conditional pardon by Governor Rivers while serving a 5-year sentence and Hazelrigg was freed by the pardon and parole commission while serving six months.

Students Given Tests To Determine Musical Talents

Phonograph Records Used To Sound 'Pitch' for Juniors, Seniors.

"They laughed when I sat down to play" has been the subject of jokes long enough, think Atlanta school officials.

When Atlanta school children sit down to play or express themselves musically, it will be nothing to laugh about because their musical ability will be full well known.

It comes about in this way. Musical ability tests are being given students of the junior and senior high schools. Not to all the students now, but Miss Anne Grace O'Callahan, supervisor of music in junior and senior highs, hopes to test them all before long to develop latent musical talent.

Tests Are Encouraging. She and Dr. H. H. Bixler, director of research and guidance of the city schools, said yesterday the tests have proved extremely encouraging in development of music in the schools thus far.

The tests were invented by Dr. Carl Seashore, a professor at the University of Iowa. They provide a measurement for the innate musical sense of the student.

For instance, a phonograph record sounds two tones. Schoolboy Johnny and Schoolgirl Mary are asked to tell which is highest. It comes out quickly that they are tone deaf if they miss the first ones. But in this study of pitch, the notes come closer and closer together. It's hard to distinguish between them. So, if Johnny in other tests reveals he has plenty of rhythm in his bones but cannot distinguish the finer tests of pitch, he goes to the drums and percussion instruments and not to the strings.

To Study Violin. If Mary can distinguish the finest difference in pitch and passes other tests, she will be encouraged to study the violin. Or some other stringed instrument.

There are several other tests, all designed to discover whether the student, no matter how interested he may think he is in music, really has the ability.

Miss O'Callahan says those who have no ability and those who have exceptional ability are easy to discern with these tests. In the middle, it becomes harder.

ITALIAN, BRITISH ACCORD DELAYED

French, Russian Agreement in Spain Awaited.

ROME, March 26.—(P)—Informed quarters said today completion of the Italo-British accord was being delayed by the necessity of obtaining French and Russian agreement to withdraw volunteer fighters from Spain simultaneously with Italy.

Italy has agreed to Britain's demands that she withdraw combat-

This is the way Atlanta school students test their musical ability to determine whether they can play instruments. Harkening to the notes of a phonograph in a pitch test are (left to right): Haskell Boyter, professor of music at Commercial High, and Bates Bowers, Carolyn Stribling and Mary Jane Parham, students. The recorded tests reveal quickly if a pupil has musical ability which should be encouraged.

Serious 'Disturbances' Predicted As Result of U. S. Refugee Plan

BERLIN, March 26.—(P)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper, Der Angriff, commenting on President Roosevelt's proposal for joint European-American action to aid political refugees, today prophesied that America would experience serious domestic disturbances as a result of letting refugees enter the United States.

"America still is a young nation," Der Angriff said, "and its political body already has digested a many a difficult morsel."

"What now, however, is to be added to the American blood stream's foreign strength carries the same common poison—Moscow poison. In healthy strength of Anglo-Saxon folk has destroyed or absorbed immigrant injections."

"But is that in the spirit of 'Mr. Smith of Middletown'?"

The reference—"Mr. Smith of Middletown"—recalled sociological studies of a midwestern American city, a hypothetical Middletown believed in actuality to be Muncie, Ind., made by Robert S. and Helen Merrill Lynd.

Last April, the second book based on the Lynds' study was published: "Middletown in Transition," a reappraisal of the "typical" community they had examined in "Middletown: A study in contemporary American culture."

The first book covered the years 1880 to 1925 and the second, succeeding 10-year period, including four years of boom and six of depression.

The Lynds' second book included a study and tabulation of Middletown's sources of information some of which, it is said, were in the hands of the small economic group in control. It said "herein one glimpses once more the possible seeds of an eventual coercive control which in Europe today goes under the name of Fascism."

By "Mr. Smith," Der Angriff apparently meant the average man of the average American city. The Lynds' studies stressed that this average man was a fabric of American breeding and American thought—"logans and all."

At the same time, the British government was giving priority to its quickened rearmament drive and France wrestled with spreading strikes and the problem of exactly how to pay for her rearmament.

Organized labor's millions of workers in Britain apparently were ready to negotiate on a non-political basis with the government on their part in the greater rearmament effort.

The prime minister arranged to lay the government's general plan for intensified speeding of defense preparations before industrial leaders Monday.

COMMUNISTS IN FRANCE PLAN GENERAL STRIKE

PARIS, March 26.—(P)—Communists tonight proposed organization of nation-wide general strikes as the best means of backing the Popular Front government's fight for life.

The Paris Communist party unit declared in a letter to Paris metal workers that the senate's "reactionary" opposition to Premier Leon Blum must be met by a "powerful demonstration by the masses."

The Communist letter was considered by many labor leaders as an open demand for strikes greater than those of June, 1936, when an estimated 1,500,000 workers occupied French factories.

It came as a rising tide of strikes and France's chronic financial troubles put high obstacles in the government's path.

Paris Communists agreed to join Socialists and the General Confederation of Workers in strikes "not only in Paris but throughout France."

MISSING ELEPHANT BACK IN QUARTERS

MARIANNA, Fla., March 26.—(P)—"Miss Marianna," 800-pound baby elephant, was back in her quarters at the winter home of the Haag shows here today apparently none the worse for a night and day of freedom.

After her escape Thursday, 200 men searched the Chipola river area, fearing the elephant was trapped in quicksand. She was found in a fenced area on the river bank.

CARDINAL VOICES LOYALTY TO HITLER

Directs Austrian Catholics To Follow the 'Greater German State.'

VIENNA, March 26.—(P)—Theodore Cardinal Innitzer, in written instructions, today laid down the attitude of the Catholic clergy and laity toward the Nazi regime.

This was taken as indicating Austrian Catholics are ready to come to an arrangement with that regime while in the rest of Germany the struggle still went on. The cardinal directed that Catholics "follow the greater German state and its Fuehrer unreservedly."

The first phase of the cardinal's instructions was:

"... The fight against the dangerous heresy of Bolshevism that believers support in order thereby to make life in Germany secure, to help the people to obtain work and bread, and to vouchsafe unity to the German people, is visibly an object of blessing by Divine Providence."

The cardinal's instructions continued with an admonition to the clergy to mind their religious business and strictly keep away from all political activity.

NAZIS SAY JEWS MUST QUIT AUSTRIA

BRITAIN AND FRANCE CONCERNED OVER SPAIN.

LONDON, March 26.—(P)—British and French security in the Mediterranean became a more vital issue tonight as sweeping insurgent advances put the Spanish government in perhaps the most dangerous position of the 20-month civil war.

How much longer the defending Spaniards could hold out unless the tide turned unexpectedly in their favor, or outside aid came was a matter of wide speculation.

But despite fears held by many British and French that a victory by the insurgents with Italian and German help would seriously endanger the security of both democratic nations, neither government indicated any change from the policy of non-intervention.

The British government, seemingly less concerned than France over Spain's future, pressed on toward an attempted settlement with Italy, seeking thereby to preclude possible Italian domination in Spain.

Accord Being Delayed.

Informed quarters in Rome, however, said completion of an Italo-British accord was being delayed by the necessity of obtaining agreement of France and Soviet Russia, from whom aid has gone to the Spanish government, to the proposal for withdrawing foreign combatants from Spain.

At the same time, the British government was giving priority to its quickened rearmament drive and France wrestled with spreading strikes and the problem of exactly how to pay for her rearmament.

Organized labor's millions of workers in Britain apparently were ready to negotiate on a non-political basis with the government on their part in the greater rearmament effort.

The prime minister arranged to lay the government's general plan for intensified speeding of defense preparations before industrial leaders Monday.

COMMUNISTS IN FRANCE PLAN GENERAL STRIKE

PARIS, March 26.—(P)—Communists tonight proposed organization of nation-wide general strikes as the best means of backing the Popular Front government's fight for life.

The Paris Communist party unit declared in a letter to Paris metal workers that the senate's "reactionary" opposition to Premier Leon Blum must be met by a "powerful demonstration by the masses."

The Communist letter was considered by many labor leaders as an open demand for strikes greater than those of June, 1936, when an estimated 1,500,000 workers occupied French factories.

It came as a rising tide of strikes and France's chronic financial troubles put high obstacles in the government's path.

document set forth general rules for compliance of the act and specific regulations governing distillers, wholesalers and retailers, in addition to advertising features.

All distilled beverages containing more than 21 per cent alcohol are included in the provisions laid down by Commissioner Head.

All such liquors must be at least 12 months old.

The head regulations provide that all distillers manufacturing or shipping liquors into Georgia shall clear them through the state warehouses where the tax stamps will be affixed and from which the liquors may be withdrawn only after they have been tested and approved.

Distillers as well as wholesalers are permitted to store their liquors in the state warehouses but the revenue commissioner retains supervision over the distillers' representatives just as he will have supervision over wholesalers.

Unbroken Packages.

Commissioner Head ruled that the liquor may be sold in unbroken packages only.

All applicants for a retailer's license must have been a resident of Georgia for the three years immediately preceding the application and for at least 12 months in the county from which the application originates.

No state licenses will be issued to retailers until they have been approved and licensed by the municipality or county in which they intend to operate.

Only one license will be granted to a retailer and no license will be issued to any person convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude.

The main points of the commissioner's rules governing retailers follow:

"All retail dealers shall sell for cash only, and each purchaser shall subscribe his name in a book to be kept by such retail dealer showing the amount and kind of liquors purchased and the price paid therefor. And each retail dealer, once each week, at the close of business, shall forward to the Department of Revenue at the state capitol, Atlanta, Ga., a summary showing the amount of liquor sold, the amount purchased, and the number of customers, or persons to whom such sales were made."

No Female Employees.

"No retail licensee shall employ any female in the store where alcoholic beverages are sold, nor shall he sell any alcoholic beverages or liquors to any person under the age of 21 years, nor to any person in an intoxicated condition, nor to any person known to such licensee to be an habitual drunkard, nor shall such licensee sell any such alcoholic beverages to any person or persons known to such licensee to be of intemperate habits or of unsound mind. No delivery of alcoholic beverages shall be made by any retail licensee by messenger in any manner, except by delivery to the purchaser in the premises of the licensee."

Moral Turpitude.

"No license shall be granted by the commissioner for any person when it shall be made to appear that such applicant has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude. If a license shall be granted by reason of the conviction of such conviction, the license shall be cancelled when the commissioner is advised of the fact of such conviction."

"No retailer's license will be granted to any person whose record of business does not comply with, or meet the requirements laid down in Section 2 of these rules governing retail licenses, if granted through mistake, advertisement, or otherwise, the licensee shall be subject to being suspended by the commissioner until such place shall reasonably meet the requirements of said Section, and if such place of business is remodeled and revised to meet the requirements of Section 2, then the time set by commissioner, such license will be re-issued."

City, County Approval.

All wholesale dealers must be approved and licensed by the city and county in which they intend to operate before they apply to the venue commissioner for a license. They must post a bond of $5,000 with the state.

As in the case of retailers, a wholesaler must have been a resident of the state for three years and a resident of his operating county at least 12 months.

No deliveries are to be made except between sun-up and sundown.

The wholesale provisions of the regulations were inserted after Attorney General M. J. Yeomans had ruled that a previous plan set up by the commissioner was illegal.

Wholesale Provisions.

The provisions governing wholesalers follows in full:

"All applicants for wholesale dealer's or distributor's license, shall at the time of making application to the Commissioner of Revenue, present a license granted by a county or municipality in this state and at the same time, shall present a bond signed by the applicant as principal and by a surety company authorized to do business in this state as surety, in the sum of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars, which bond shall be conditioned among other things that such principal shall pay promptly to the State Revenue Commissioner all license fees, taxes and rentals, warehouse charges that may accrue against, or be assessed, or become due by said principal under the terms of the act to tax and control alcoholic beverages and all rules and regulations of the State Revenue Commissioner of the state of Georgia which may now or hereafter be issued and promulgated."

Resident 3 Years.

"No wholesale license will be granted to any applicant who has not been a resident of the state of Georgia for a period of three (3) consecutive years next preceding his application, or who has not resided in the county where the applicant desires to conduct such business for a period of twelve (12) months or more, and no wholesale dealer's license will be issued in the name of a partnership, corporation or association of persons, but must be issued in the name of an individual."

"Wholesale dealers, as well as retail dealers, making application and receiving licenses from the commissioner, accept the same under all the terms, powers and conditions of the act and of the rules and regulations, and by the acceptance of either a wholesale or retail license, the licensee agrees to be bound by the terms and conditions of the act and rules and regulations conforming with the act made by the commissioner, pursuant to the powers granted therein."

Through State Warehouse.

"All alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors owned, possessed or controlled by wholesale licensee, shall be only those alcoholic beverages and liquors shipped to and through state warehouses. Such liquors will be shipped by the distiller to the wholesale licensee in care of the warehouse in the territory or county where it is desired such liquor be received. Every wholesale dealer upon placing an order for alcoholic beverages and liquors, taxed by the act to tax and control such alcoholic beverages and liquors shall file a copy of his order to the distiller, with the Department of Revenue at the state capitol, and purchase from the State Department of Revenue the proper amount of state stamps to indicate the payment of the tax, levied by the act, and in proper denominations for the order filed with the Department of Revenue, which stamps will be shipped by the Department of Revenue or the commissioner to the distiller, and the distiller shall affix the revenue stamps accompanying such order filed by the wholesale dealer with the commissioner to all whiskeys and liquors included in such order, and such whiskeys and liquors will be shipped by the distiller to the wholesale dealer in care of the warehouse selected by the wholesale dealer being Georgia state warehouse number."

State Inspection.

"All alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors shipped by the distiller to wholesalers or wholesale dealers through any state warehouse, shall be received in such state warehouse, shall be properly inspected by such inspection as the commissioner may authorize and direct from time to time to determine that such liquor has been properly stamped and for such other inspection purposes as the commissioner may desire. After such liquor has been thoroughly inspected the wholesale dealer may make application to the commissioner or his agents and withdraw from the state warehouse, any or all of such alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors and store them in his own private warehouse. At the time of withdrawal, the wholesale dealer shall pay to the commissioner or his agents, all warehouse charges, which shall be due on such alcoholic beverages and liquors."

"Wholesale dealers' licenses granted by the commissioner will be subject to the condition that the wholesale dealer or licensee will procure all necessary licenses and permits from the Federal Alcohol Administration, or any other proper federal agencies, and if the applicant fails to meet all requirements of the Federal Alcohol Administration or any other agency of the federal government, on notice of such fact to the commissioner the license granted by the commissioner to such wholesale dealer or licensee will be immediately revoked and cancelled and the right of the wholesale dealer or licensee to operate in such state shall cease immediately after notice to such licensee that his license has been cancelled or revoked by the commissioner of revenue. Should any license be granted by the commissioner through misrepresentation of any material facts by the applicant to any wholesale dealer or licensee, such license shall be immediately cancelled by the commissioner on receiving satisfactory evidence that such license was procured by fraud or misrepresentation of any material facts."

Sunup to Sundown.

"Wholesale licensees selling alcoholic beverages and liquors to retail licensees shall deliver such alcoholic beverages and liquors after the hours of sunup and before the hours of sundown and any wholesale dealer or licensee possessing or controlling any alcoholic beverages at any place other than state warehouses or at his own warehouse, which warehouse will be licensed by the commissioner and which license must be on display on the premises of such wholesale dealer, shall be deemed to be in possession of such alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors in violation of the act and of the rules and regulations and the same will be subject to confiscation by the commissioner or any agent of the commissioner and a repetition of the offense will subject the wholesale dealer or licensee to cancellation of his license."

Section Eight.

In Section 8, the commissioner ruled that "All alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors shipped by distillers to a wholesale dealer or licensee in this state will be the property of the wholesale dealer at the time the same is received in such state warehouse selected by the wholesale dealer or licensee as the warehouse for delivery to the wholesaler by the distiller, and all such alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors stored in such state warehouses by wholesale dealers being the property of the wholesale dealer will be held and stored in such state warehouses by the commissioner and his agents for such wholesale dealer, and neither the commissioner of revenue nor any agent of the department of revenue will be responsible to such wholesale dealer if such alcoholic beverages are destroyed by fire, or if such beverages are stored in such state warehouse, nor will the commissioner or his agents be responsible to such wholesale dealer for any loss of such alcoholic beverages or liquors as against burglary or the breaking or entering of any state warehouse and the removal of alcoholic beverages by any person or persons unauthorized to enter such state warehouses and remove such alcoholic beverages, whiskeys and liquors. For lack of ordinary care in the handling and receiving of such alcoholic beverages and delivery of the same to the wholesale licensee to whom the same are shipped and whose property the same is, employees of the state warehouse will be personally responsible to such wholesale dealer or licensee."

Section Nine.

Section 9 sets forth: "Wholesale dealers or licensees may withdraw from state warehouses all alcoholic beverages shipped to such wholesale dealer or licensee immediately after the state warehouse has received inspection to determine if stamps of the proper denominations have been placed on each bottle and such other inspection as the commissioner may require from time to time."

"The state warehouses shall be open from 7:30 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. They shall be closed on Sundays, legal holidays, primary election and general election days and, like retailers, will be closed any other days the commissioner directs."

Close at 4 O'clock.

"Under no circumstances will liquor be removed from the warehouses after 4 o'clock in the afternoon."

"Distillers and other persons storing liquor in the warehouses will be charged 50 cents per square foot for their storage space. The charge, in no event, will exceed 50 cents per case. The charge will cover a period of four months after which the charge will be 10 cents per square foot per month."

Section Three.

The removal process is set forth in the following language: "Section 3. Alcoholic beverages as defined in the act to tax and control such beverages can be withdrawn from state operated and controlled warehouses only in the following manner: The licensee seeking to remove such beverages from such warehouse shall file with the manager or person in charge, an application for removal, which application shall list the quantity, by cases, of the sizes and varieties sought to be removed, which application shall show the total number of cases, the total number of bottles of the various kinds, the amount of revenue due thereon, and all warehouse charges, and such application shall be accompanied by a check drawn by such licensee on a bank within the state of Georgia, which check shall be made payable to the Commissioner, Department of Revenue, which check shall cover all items, warehouse charges, or tax due on

Here Are the Major Provisions Of Georgia Liquor Regulations

The salient features of Commissioner T. Grady Head's regulations for the distribution and sale of liquor follow:

Distillers: To be licensed and regulated according to the liquor law approved by the general assembly.

Wholesalers: To be licensed by the commissioner only after they have received municipal and county licenses. Wholesalers must have been a resident of Georgia three years and of the county in which they intend to operate at least one year. No delivery of liquor to retailers except between sunrise and sunset. Must remain closed on Sundays, primary election and general election days as well as on other days ordered by the commissioner.

The beverages sought to be removed from state warehouses of any liquors or alcoholic beverages shall be on any form other than the form provided by the Commissioner of the Department of Revenue, and information requested on such form shall be furnished by the dealer seeking to withdraw such alcoholic beverages, and such application, when received by the commissioner, shall be considered until such information provided on said form is furnished. The check herein provided shall not constitute payment of charges due on such alcoholic beverages until the same shall have been honored and paid by the bank on which the same is drawn, and should payment of such check be declined by the bank upon presentation, the commissioner shall, after notice of such nonpayment, immediately notify such licensee by registered mail, and if said check is not then paid at the office of the commissioner in full within three days, the commissioner shall issue an order suspending and revoking the license of such licensee. The application for removal as herein provided shall be filed with the manager of such state warehouse prior to the time of removal, in order to provide for the stamping, or to allow time to check proper liquors.

Stamps have been affixed on the alcoholic beverages, as described in said application, and if the amount sought to be removed can not be properly stamped or inspected by the time delivery or removal is desired, the manager of such state warehouse shall advise such licensee of the time such alcoholic beverages will be ready for removal.

Stamping Provision.

"Section 4. The alcoholic beverages to be taxed and controlled as provided in the act approved as herein set out, shall be stamped in the actual presence of a bonded state employee as herein provided, when stamps are affixed in state warehouses, and no stamps shall be affixed on such alcoholic beverages until after application for removal from the state warehouse to which application is made, and all containers of alcoholic beverages opened to provide for stamping, as herein provided, shall after proper stamps have been affixed as herein set out, be closed and such cases or containers shall be delivered by the wholesale dealer to the premises of the licensee and just as they were delivered for transportation by warehouse employees."

"All employees of the state warehouse must be bonded to the extent of $10,000 and no person except those bonded with the commissioner shall have authority to release any liquors from any state warehouse."

Advertising Section.

The commissioner's section governing advertising follows: "There shall be no advertising of alcoholic beverages, whiskeys, and liquors taxed by the act, by the means of any billboard sign of any kind or character, including neon electric signs, for the purpose of attracting the attention of any person or persons within this state to any alcoholic beverage, whiskey or liquor taxed by the act that might be sold within the state or elsewhere, nor shall there be any advertising of such alcoholic beverages, whiskey or liquor by means of any motion picture, or motion picture slide, or like or similar device, nor shall there be any advertising of such beverages, whiskeys and liquors by means of trade novelties of any kind or character, such as napkins, key rings, watch fobs, or like or similar novelties for the purpose of bringing to the attention of any person or persons within this state such advertisements as may appear in national magazines and such advertisements as may be approved by the commissioner for newspaper advertising, and no advertisement to appear in any newspaper in this state will be approved that contains any ambiguity, or contains any false or untrue statement, and no advertisement shall contain matter offensive to the good order or dignity of the state or its citizens."

BRYAN COUNTY TO VOTE APRIL 6

PEMBROKE, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—A local option liquor election today was called for Bryan county for April 6.

The election previously was set for March 18 but it was temporarily enjoined. Later Judge J. T. Grice dissolved the restraining order.

morning to 6 o'clock Wednesday night. The precincts of Grogan, Campbellton, Goodes, Old Ninth, Rivertown, Sandtown, Union, Big Creek, Little River, New Town and Old First open their polls at 8 o'clock and close at 3 o'clock. These precincts have fewer than 200 registered voters.

A special country ballot box will be provided at the courthouse basement for rural dwellers who wish to vote in the city.

Except for a few changes, voting places will be in the same locations as in the sheriff's race March 2.

Chairman Murray, who has maintained headquarters at 85 Forsyth street N. W., yesterday appealed to Fulton residents to vote for legalization and control of liquor. "It is better to control and tax it than to have it illegally," he said.

Six Counties "Wet."

Six counties, Baker, Muscogee, Dougherty, Pierce, Coffee and Chatham, have voted wet. A number of other counties are scheduled to hold elections this week.

"We are not going to try to enjoin the Fulton county election," Gaines said yesterday. "We think there is no sufficient reason to do so. Our one central purpose in these injunction suits has been to get the question of the constitutionality of the liquor bill squarely before the supreme court."

"One or more of these suits are now on their way to that court. And the more our able lawyers study the act, and there are a dozen or more of these lawyers, the more confident they are that the law is unconstitutional and that the court will so hold."

CITY TO DEDICATE AUDITORIUM TODAY

Atlantans Invited by Mayor To Attend Program From 2:30 to 6 P. M.

An invitation for Atlantans to see their remodeled "million dollar" auditorium at dedication exercises this afternoon, was issued yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield and Councilman John A. White, chairman of the building committee.

City and federal officials and Atlanta leaders will participate in the dedicatory program, which begins at 2:30 o'clock and extends until 6 o'clock tonight. The mayor and council will be hosts.

Organ Recital.
A "dedicatory organ recital" by Mrs. Ed Akin, assistant city organist, and other music by Dr. Ben J. Potter, organist of Trinity Methodist church, the Georgia Tech Glee Club and the Federal Theater orchestra, under the direction of Walter Sheats, will feature a part of the program.

Mayor Hartsfield, Councilman White, Colonel F. C. Harrington, assistant WPA administrator of Washington, D. C.; Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator; Herbert Rawlings, WPA engineer, and others will deliver short addresses. White will give a history of the auditorium while Rawlings will tell of engineering features of its construction.

Sitting on the stage with the mayor and councilmen will be city and county officials and heads of various civic organizations who have been invited to be special guests during the program.

The WPA and the city remodeled the municipal building, spending more than $600,000 to make the auditorium one of the most beautiful in the south, Councilman White said.

Dedicatory Program.
The official program follows: 2:30 P. M.—Auditorium opened for the public to be seated.
3:00 P. M.—"Dedicatory Organ Recital," by Mrs. Ed Akin, assistant city organist, as follows:
(a) "Triumphal March," from the opera "Aida," by Verdi.
(b) "Laudate Dominum," song of praise, by Sheldon.
(c) "Coronation March," by Meyerbeer.
(d) "Contrast," by Browne.
(e) "Star-Spangled Banner," by Francis Scott Key.
Note: At the sound of "Star-Spangled Banner" the audience will rise and stand and remain standing until finished, and invocation has been pronounced by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor, Druid Hills Baptist church.
3:05 P. M.—Introduction of Mayor Hartsfield by Councilman John A. White.
3:10 P. M.—Georgia Tech Glee Club, under direction of Dr. Ben J. Potter.
3:15 P. M.—"Shout Aloud in Triumph," Sir Ed El.
3:20 P. M.—Introduction of Miss Shepperson by Mayor Hartsfield.
3:40 P. M.—Dr. Ben J. Potter, organist, Trinity Methodist church, "Military March in D," Fr. Schubert.
4:15 P. M.—A full orchestra of building and various talks over speaker system and music by Federal Theater band, under direction of Walter Sheats.

NAVAL WAR PLANE IS DOWN IN PACIFIC

Officers Refuse To Give Details; 500 Planes in Maneuvers.

HONOLULU, T. H., March 26. (UP)—Navy officials announced tonight that one of their planes from Pearl Harbor had been forced down at sea during current Pacific fleet maneuvers which are expected to develop into a theoretical attack on Honolulu tomorrow.

Although high naval chiefs confirmed the plane had been forced down, they refused to give any details as to the size of the ship or the number of men aboard.

Secrecy of the maneuvers, now reaching a climax as the naval and army chiefs work out their tactical problems of offense and defense of the Island of Oahu, on which Honolulu is located, was given as the reason for refusal of the navy to give details of the crash.

Five Essay Prize Winners in Civitan Contest was a trick by J. H. Smith, done with the guillotine. Here a volunteer from the audience was called on the stage to risk his neck as the magician proved flesh and bone could withstand an attack of falling steel. The blade fell without harming the "victim"—but the trick remained a trade secret.

Children screamed with delight as A. P. Heck, utility executive, swapped soda pop bottles from the hands of assistants and back again. Heck calmly repeated words of magic and liquor passed from a large bottle through four magazines into a glass.

Guest artist on the program was Goodlette Dodson, of Birmingham, who performed card tricks, making the figures disappear and reappear on the cards.

Amazing were the ghost scenes in the "spook room," produced by Mrs. Mildred L. Hulse, the only woman magician on the program. On the darkened stage she made the skeletons dance at her commands and the flowers sprout from pots on the table.

Money Has No Home.
Tricks of "presto-change" saw Fred J. Coolesee Jr., insurance man, moving coins from the hands of one member of the audience to the hands of another without his ever touching them. Aldine L. Terry, telephone executive, produced rabbits from empty boxes and gave them to two children in the audience, and Robert H. Wolcott, another telephone executive, mixed eggs and paper and set fire to them to produce a rabbit. Tricks of changing objects from table to table were performed by Evans D. Morgan, too.

Julian V. Boehm acted as master of ceremonies and kept a rapid-fire line of talk running in between the change of scenes. Twice he performed tricks himself to the pleasure of his audience.

The Atlanta Society of Magicians was founded September 26, 1924, by Atlantans interested in the entertainment of the magic arts. W. D. Doak is president of the society.

GIRL PUPILS WIN AWARD BY CIVITAN

Laura Walton Receives First Prize, $200 Scholarship in Essay Contest.

Miss Laura Walton, a pupil at Girls' High school of Atlanta, won first prize over 300 high school seniors competing in the Civitan Club's annual citizenship essay contest and will receive a $200 scholarship to the Draughon School of Commerce, it was announced yesterday.

Runner-up in the contest was Miss Dorothy Harbin, student at Sacred Heart Parochial school, who will receive a $100 scholarship to Agnes Scott College. Miss Mabel Markowitz, another Girls' high student, won third prize and will receive $25.

Other Prize Winners.
Fourth and fifth prizes were won by Miss Dorothy Cremin, senior at Sacred Heart school, and Miss Berneva Rush, of Russell High school, East Point, respectively. Miss Cremin will receive $15 and Miss Rush $10.

The more than 300 high school seniors who entered the contest were required to write on the subject: "Why does our form of government provide so much greater liberty, freedom and opportunity for happiness than that of a communistic or dictator form of government?"

Only the two best entries from each school were handed to the judges for final grading. Judges were Charles F. Palmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Herman Turner, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church, and L. L. Austin, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association.

In International Contest.
Essays winning the first three prizes will be entered in the Civitan International contest, awards from which are to be announced during the three-day international convention to be held July 3-6 in Cincinnati, Ohio. The committee in charge of the contest included Clark Harrison, chairman; Dean Raimundo de Ovies, Chester Martin, Bruce Moran, W. Earl Quillian, Charles Watt and Jere Wells.

Bond Almand Seeks Judgeship To Succeed John D. Humphries

Assistant City Attorney Announces Vigorous Campaign.

Bond Almand, assistant city attorney, will be a candidate in the September election to succeed Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton superior court, he announced yesterday.

Almand, a member of the Atlanta bar, is widely known in Atlanta and Fulton county. Before becoming assistant city attorney, he was a member of the legislature from Fulton county.

Almand's Statement.
He issued the following statement:

"I announce my candidacy for judge of the superior court of Fulton county to fill the vacancy to be caused by the expiration of the term of office of Judge John D. Humphries."

"My decision has not been reached hastily but only after mature deliberation and a careful survey of the situation have convinced me beyond reasonable doubt that the people of Fulton county desire a change in this office."

"I will conduct an intensive, aggressive and vigorous campaign in keeping with the dignity of the office I seek."

Almand has been honored by fellow members of the bar by election as president of the Atlanta Bar Association and of the Lawyers' Club. He was president of the Young Men's Democratic League in 1928, and is now a member of the state Democratic executive committee. He has long been prominent, identified with Democratic activities.

Native of Lithuania.

A native of Lithuania, he was graduated at Emory and Columbia Universities and was admitted to the bar in Atlanta in 1916. He entered the first officers' training camp at Fort McPherson in 1917 and received his commission as a second lieutenant. He served during the World War with the 326th infantry and the 82nd division. After his honorable discharge from the army in 1919, he became associated with the law firm of Branch & Howard, with whom he practiced until 1935. It was from this firm he withdrew to be-

PUPILS END STRIKE TO SEE GOVERNOR

Full Term To Be Sought in West Virginia County.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 26. (AP)—Marion county's striking high school students called off their walkout today and decided to talk things over with Governor Holt to see if a shortening of their term can be avoided, at least for next year.

Denver Curnette, whose colleagues at Mannington High school wanted the strike last Wednesday, said after a conference with representatives of other county high schools "I hope everyone will be back in classes Monday." The strike started after the school board announced funds available would permit only an eight-month term instead of the regulation nine.

SOVIET PAPER PLAYS BRITISH PROGRAM

Asserts Chamberlain Is Delaying Struggle.

MOSCOW, March 26.—(UP)—British foreign policy was assailed today as "capitulation before the forces of war," the newspaper Izvestia, reflecting the Soviet government's view. Prime Minister Chamberlain "apparently wants to delay a struggle against the forces of war until he considers the British armament program completed, but the aggressor does not intend to wait for this moment. Chamberlain knows this better than anyone," Izvestia said.

Rivers and Party Entertained in Cuba

Georgia Executive and Friends Arrive in Havana.

HAVANA, March 26.—(P)—A party of Georgians led by Governor Rivers arrived here today on a mission of good will and were entertained by officials of the Cuban government.

Governor Celestino Baizan Lobos, of the Havana province, entertained the party at an affair at his palace at noon today as one of a round of fetes planned for the good-will ambassadors. Tomorrow they are to be treated to sightseeing including visits to Moro Castle and the Havana Yacht Club.

Cuban cabinet members will attend a lunch in their honor Sunday. The party plans to leave here Sunday night for Miami en route homeward. They are due back in Atlanta Tuesday morning.

HEALTH PROGRAM WILL BE PLANNED

Conference Called at Suggestion of F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—Development of a national health program will be studied at a forthcoming public conference here, Josephine Roche, chairman of the President's interdepartmental committee to co-ordinate health and welfare activities, announced today.

She said the conference was arranged at the suggestion of President Roosevelt.

In a letter to her she suggested "that your committee give consideration to the desirability of inviting at some appropriate time representatives of the interested ture of Roosevelt's popularity and not an indication of third-term sentiment. In specific studies of third-term sentiment the Institute found as recently as last January that only 33 per cent of the voters approve a third term for Roosevelt. The Institute is conducting a new survey of third-term attitudes at the present time.

Of great immediate concern politically is the question of how Roosevelt's popularity will affect the congressional elections this fall. Roosevelt has always run ahead of his party, and the latest study the Institute has made of Democratic party strength, early this month, indicated a loss of about 85 seats in congress as compared with the 1936 elections.

Will the strength of the Democratic party continue to decline? The answer, when it is available, will vitally affect the whole house of representatives and a third of the senate, whose seats are to be filled this November.

Will Roosevelt Recover?

The 1938 political die is not yet cast at this stage of the race, however. Just as the business decline seems to have caused a decline in Roosevelt's popularity, so a business upturn may help him to recover lost prestige.

Early this month, on his fifth anniversary in the White House, President Roosevelt told newspapermen that "the old ship of state is still on the same course." He emphasized that the government has been doing everything possible to assure hesitant business.

The President and his lieutenants in congress are also speeding the adjournment of congress by restricting the amount of legislation to be passed at this session to a minimum. Three times the institute has found that Roosevelt's standing improved after the adjournment of congress.

In 1935 the President dropped to the lowest point ever recorded on the Institute index—50.5 per cent—after a long-drawn debate in congress over the utility holding company "death sentence" and other presidential measures. Immediately after the adjournment of congress, however, the President's popularity rallied. A similar rally occurred in 1934, when congress adjourned after disputes over relief and the NRA; and last year the President's

City Power Affected.

While there is no single factor that explains the downtrend in Roosevelt's popularity, much of the present decline is traceable to the effect of the business slump.

City voters have been Roosevelt's staunchest supporters, especially persons at the relief level, but today these voters, too, are not so overwhelmingly for Roosevelt as they were. The following table shows how their vote today compares with previous index:

	Today	Previous Survey of Change
City Voters	59%	61% —2
Farm Voters	58	61 —3
Urban Voters	57	59 —2

ROOSEVELT IS ISSUE IN TWO CAMPAIGNS

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—A hint of the battle cries that will ring through the nation this fall in congressional election campaigns testing the President's prestige came today from Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, and Representative Randolph, Democrat, West Virginia.

Bridges will be the keynote at the Republican state convention in Maine next Thursday, Randolph at the Democratic convention in the same state April 9.

The New Hampshire Republican told reporters he would demand that President Roosevelt "be stripped of the power gained by usurpation, coercion, threats and the sabotage of independent commissions."

The West Virginia Democrat said he would "show the people of Maine how the administration has benefited them."

Women Would Ban Scrub Board On Farms

Washing with a scrub board is a part of the drudgery of farm life the Rural-Urban conference is designed to eradicate. Here is Mrs. Louise L. McEachern, assistant to Mrs. Robin Wood, director of the Rural-Urban conference, here Tuesday, illustrating how many farm women spend one day each week, bobbing up and down over the scrub board. With greater earning power, farm women could afford modern washing machines to relieve their labor.

visitors to the rural-urban conference," he said.

In addition to numbers of prominent Georgians who will appear on the program, Mrs. Wood has obtained Julia Peterkin, author and operator of a 5,000-acre farm; Judge Camille Kelley, noted juvenile authority from Memphis; Dr. Charles H. Herty, the chemist who brought the pulp wood industry to Georgia, and Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, as speakers.

They will speak specifically on ways that city women can help the woman who lives on an R. F. D. route to increase her income by better marketing of her products, on ways country mothers can help their children at home on the farm, on how better medical and nursing facilities can be obtained for rural residents at more reasonable prices, and how country women can reach "the more abundant life" through cultural studies, hobbies and an increased budget.

Exhibits Planned.

Farm women will be encouraged to produce more marketable goods and city women will map plans for organizations to help sell them. Exhibits of this nature will be shown at the city auditorium by the Pine Mountain Valley Federal Project, the University of Georgia, the State Department of Forestry, the State Health Department and the Dodge County.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who is scheduled to pass through Atlanta today en route to Warm Springs to join the President, is to be introduced by Governor Rivers. She speaks at 7:50 o'clock Tuesday night on "Rural-Urban Co-operation." Mayor Hartsfield will extend the welcome of the city, and Columbus Roberts, commissioner of agriculture, will introduce Rivers.

The program begins at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning with registration. Mrs. Wood's arrangement calls for rapid movement. Music will intersperse the speeches, most of which will be short. The Union of Georgia Glee Club, under the direction of Hugh Hodgson, of Atlanta, will be on the program Tuesday night.

Luncheons for Delegates.

Luncheons will be given the delegates Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. Country women will be guests at a reception given at the auditorium Tuesday night by the Fulton and DeKalb County Democratic Women's Clubs.

Thousands of Atlanta women will have as their guests Tuesday night on Wednesday breakfast the rural women who attend the conference.

Judge Kelley, who is judge of the Memphis juvenile court, will talk at 11:05 o'clock Tuesday morning, following greetings from Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield and Councilman John A. White. Commissioner Roberts also will talk Tuesday morning.

Registration Necessary.

The DeKalb County Democratic Women's Club will be in charge of registration Tuesday morning at the auditorium. Cards and badges will be given to every delegate upon registration. Registration is necessary since admission is by badge only, it was said.

Mrs. Frank B. Pond is president of the DeKalb County Democratic Women's Club. The committee serving with her will be:

Mrs. Joseph M. Toomey, chairman; Mrs. Frederick Barre, treasurer; Mrs. W. R. Simpson, chairwoman of badges; Mrs. A. J. Woodruff and Mrs. Cleve Webb, information; Mesdames J. O. Anderson, J. B. LAYING HENS URGED FOR GEORGIA FARMS

Source of Revenue Year Round Cited by University Professor.

By PROF. FRANK E. MITCHELL, Head of Poultry Department, University of Georgia.

A well-managed flock of laying hens can make a contribution to the farm income, and where the chickens are properly handled, there will be a source of revenue at all seasons of the year from chickens.

Some of the difficult problems that poultry growers had to face have been conquered. There are still some problems that we must face, and constantly we are meeting new ones that seem to rise up and take the place of the ones that knowledge has made us able to cope with.

Today poultry raising is on a sounder basis than it has been at any time previously. High egg production has been bred into most of the popular breeds of chickens, and by controlling chicken pox, artificial incubation, and brooding, we are able to expect from a flock of chickens a fairly uniform egg production throughout the year.

There are several simple things that most of our farmers can do which will increase their income from chickens.

1. If the farmer is keeping chickens, does he have a productive strain? A well-bred flock of Leghorns should average on the farm around 160 to 180 eggs.

2. Increased egg yield can be obtained by carrying a large percentage of pullets. This means hatching chicks each year. Here in Georgia, the best time to hatch Leghorns is from the middle of March to the first of April. Rhode Island Reds, Barred Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Orpingtons should be hatched about March 1. Records show that there is a decline in egg production from year to year of about 12 to 20 per cent. A safe rule for a farmer to make is not to keep any hen longer than two years unless a hen has a particular value in breeding.

3. Vaccinate Chickens. If you have had chicken pox, which is commonly called sorehead, on your farm, you should vaccinate your young stock when they are between the ages of six and 14 weeks with chicken pox virus. Vaccination will prevent a serious outbreak of chicken pox in the fall months. Such an outbreak interferes seriously with fall egg production.

4. Artificial lights can be used to stimulate egg production in the late summer and fall and winter months. According to records, approximately eight eggs more can be obtained from a hen kept under artificial lights as compared to one on which artificial illumination is not used. The cost is relatively low, and the poultry keeper gains by producing more eggs at a season when prices are higher.

LATIN TEST FINALS TO BE HELD APRIL 23

Georgia Schools Will Select Students To Compete.

Finals in the state-wide Latin tournament sponsored by the Classical Association of Georgia, will be held April 23, it was announced yesterday by Miss Estelle Martin, of Washington Seminary, fifth district chairman.

The tournament is open to all white schools in the state, and examinations will be given at designated cities in each of the 12 congressional districts.

Schools competing will select the representatives for each division, through competitive tests in each school. School principals are required to mail the student's eligibility certificate and registered blank to the district chairman not later than April 2, according to Miss Martin's announcement.

NEW RECORD IS SET UP IN AUSTRALIA IN FLIGHT

CROYDON, England, March 26.—(P)—Flying Officer Arthur Clouston and Victor Ricketts, amateur aviator and newspaperman, today set a new record for flying time between Australia and England.

They landed at Croydon airport three days and 20 hours after leaving Port Darwin, northern Australia. They trimmed more than 28 hours off the previous record for the 12,000-mile flight, established in 1934 when Cathcart Jones and the late Ken Waller made it in five days and 15 minutes.

Sweethearts of Techwood Homes—Ronald and Donald—Enjoy the Return of Glorious Spring With Their Elders

Sweethearts of Techwood Homes—Ronald and Donald Bramblett, the only twins at the Homes and the first twins born on the project. Their smiling mother is Mrs. E. Bramblett. The identical twins were born last August. They like the fresh air at Techwood. The twins are popular with other residents of the project.

It's springtime and playtime for these cheerful youngsters who live at Techwood Homes, the government's low cost housing project. The cameraman happened along at the moment the boys piled up on each other on a broad lawn in front of their homes. Of the population of 1,978 persons at the Homes, 800 are children under 16 years of age. They're smiling, happy "kids," who get plenty of fun.

What do you mean by taking my picture? seems to ask this little girl whom the cameraman surprised in sandpile for smaller children at Techwood Homes. She is typical of the tots who find childish delight building castles in the sand piles. They make mud pies, too. There's plenty of play space out at Techwood.

LEADING SCIENTISTS OF STATE AND DIXIE WILL CONVEENE HERE

Georgia Academy and Mathematicians Will Meet Friday, Saturday.

By LUKE GREENE.

Results of research investigations in agriculture, botany, chemistry, geology, mathematics and other sciences will be discussed at the 16th annual meeting of the Georgia Academy of Science and the southeastern section of the Mathematical Association of America here Friday and Saturday.

More than 300 visitors, including leading scientists from all over Georgia as well as a number from the other southeastern states, are expected for the meetings of these two organizations. All of the sessions will be held on the Georgia School of Technology campus.

The opening meeting of the Academy of Science will be held at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Georgia Tech Y. M. C. A., following a meeting of the executive council at 9:30 o'clock at the same place. The first session of the Mathematical Association is scheduled for 3 o'clock in Knowles hall, biology lecture room.

Affecting Layman. Papers covering a wide range of scientific subjects will be read by members of the Georgia Academy. Although some of them will be of interest only to the scientist, a great number are expected to reveal recent discoveries vitally affecting the layman. Agriculture figures prominently in the list of subjects, and farmers throughout the state probably will benefit from the information gleaned from research carried on by the scientists.

Early Breeding Sheep. "Early Breeding Sheep" will be discussed by F. R. Edwards, of the Georgia Experiment Station. K. T. Holley, of the experiment station, will outline the "Manganese Requirements of Cotton," and W. A. Jenkins, another member of the experiment station staff, will discuss "The Fungi Causing Peanut Leafspot."

Possibilities of Flax. The agricultural and industrial possibilities of flax in the southeast will be reviewed by C. G. Worthington, of the Georgia State Engineering Experiment Station, and B. H. Hendrickson, of the Soil Conservation Service, will present his findings on "Agricultural Research in Soil Conservation Subjects for the Southeast."

The deadly elixir of sulfanilamide which took a heavy toll in deaths throughout the nation last fall, will come in for its share of discussion. George T. Lewis and Thomas W. Kethley will read papers on "The Toxicity of Elixir of Sulfanilamide and of diethylene Glycol."

Turning to a more appetizing subject, Mary Speirs, of the Georgia Experiment Station, will outline "The Availability of Calcium in Various Greens"—probably of more interest to the housewife or dietician who struggles to provide a balanced diet for the family.

Sleepy-Heads. "Sleepy-heads" who get frowns from the boss every morning because the alarm clock didn't go off, would probably welcome the "Study of Ability to Wake at a Specified Time" which will be presented by Katherine T. Omwake, of Agnes Scott College. Emily S. Dexter, also of Agnes Scott, will give her idea of "Personality Traits Relating to Radicalism and Conservatism."

Then there will be "A Study of Flame Characteristics in a Closed Chamber," by R. L. Sweigert, of the Georgia School of Technology, and "Ten Years of Teaching Organic Chemistry to Freshmen," by Osborne R. Quayle, of Emory University.

Dr. F. D. Murnaghan, of Johns Hopkins University, an authority on relativity, will be the visiting guest speaker at the Mathematical Association meeting. Professor J. B. Jackson, of the University of South Carolina, will be chairman of these sessions.

Arithmetic and Algebra. Dr. Murnaghan will deliver the principal address at a joint banquet of the Academy of Science and the Mathematical Association at 7:30 o'clock Friday night in Brittain dining hall. His subject

Adults keep watchful eyes on the youngsters at play, and turn idle moments to good use by sewing and quilting. will be "The Value of the Basic Ideas of Arithmetic and Algebra."

For a number of years Dr. Murnaghan was editor of the American Journal of Mathematics. He has published numerous research papers and books on the theory of relativity, vector analysis and theoretical mechanics. Saturday he will speak on "Finite Deformations of an Elastic Solid."

Mathematicians from seven states will be present for the conference. Twenty-nine research papers, of which nine are by Georgians, will be read.

Local professors who will present papers are W. E. Sewell, D. H. Bullou, F. H. Steen, D. L. Webb and D. M. Smith. Others from the stage are Dean R. P. Stephens, P. R. Hill and H. M. Cox, of the University of Georgia, and Miss Verdie Miller, of Young Harris.

Professor Henry A. Robinson, of Agnes Scott, is executive secretary-treasurer of the mathematical group. Dean Floyd Field, of Georgia Tech, and Professor J. F. Messick, of Emory University, will preside over parts of the conference.

Open to Public. The meetings will be open to the public.

Dr. W. V. Skiles, dean of Georgia Tech, will welcome the scientific group, and Dr. H. P. Stuckey, director of the Georgia Experiment Station, will deliver the address of the retiring president.

Others appearing on the academy program from Emory University, Georgia Tech, the University of Georgia, Wesleyan College and other institutions are William B. Redmond, John H. Venable, Raleigh M. Drake, George T. Lewis, Evangeline Papageorge, J. L. McGhee, Emory Lower, Ralph J. Bushnell, Donald C. Boughton, Harold B. Friedman, Herman Seelig, W. F. Gresham, Carl Bordenca, Carolyn Audrey Taylor, R. R. Estes, K. Owen, Herbert Burrows, Paul Weber and Paul Seydel.

WILSON AIRPORT DEDICATED. PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(UP)—S. Davis Wilson airport was dedicated today with more than 1,500 persons gathered in a slight rain to hear the mayor, after whom the field was named, make the principal address.

Propaganda Blamed For Building Drop

"Unreliable and misleading propaganda from Washington" regarding the cost of building was blamed for the rapid decline in building volume during the past year by E. H. Batchelder Jr., of Minneapolis, Minn. Batchelder was principal speaker last week at the three-day convention here of the Southern Building Material Association. "The real facts are that prospective home owners today obtain more value for their building dollar than ever before," he said.

Boys and adults also share in communal programs.

2 U. S. BUILT PLANES ACCEPTED BY RUSSIA

FARMINGDALE, N. Y., March 26.—(UP)—The Soviet government accepted for delivery today two airplanes, one of which was described as the deadliest aerial weapon ever devised. The planes, built by the Seversky Aircraft Corporation for $780,000, will be crated and shipped to Russia, where Soviet technicians will reproduce them. They were approved by a representative of the Soviet government after successful test flights.

11 Chinese Found Hidden in Ship

NEW YORK, March 26.—(UP)—Customs and immigration officers raided the steamship Lössiebank today and found 11 Chinese allegedly being smuggled into this country. The Chinese had been hidden among crates in the ship's cargo, it was said. An agent tipped over a crate and one of the Chinese let out a yell which led to the discovery of himself and his countrymen.

VANDEMBERG ASKS BAN ON SALES OF HELIUM

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P)—Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, urged today that congress prohibit sales of helium for airships traveling to foreign countries. Mentioning the pending billion-dollar naval expansion bill, Vandenberg declared: "In view of the fact that we are being asked tremendously to expand our defenses against an unidentified enemy, it seems only fair not to give away anything that might become a vital defense factor."

Life Goes On at Enjoyable Pace For 800 Youngsters at Techwood

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Another spring has come to Techwood Homes.

And the kids revel in it. They tumble in play on the broad lawns in front of their homes. They roller skate, push coaster wagons, ride bicycles and scooters.

They build castles in the sandpiles and soar toward the sky in the swings on the playgrounds. They exercise by turning and twisting on horizontal bars.

The more sedate youngsters, those in baby carriages, have their fun, too, getting the fresh air and the healthful sunshine, watching their bigger sisters and brothers at play.

Population of 1,978. There is a population of 1,978 persons occupying the 604 apartments comprising Techwood Homes, a Federal Housing Project for workers in low-income brackets.

Of these, 800 are children under 16 years. These include the sweethearts of Techwood—the Bramblett twins, the only twins at the homes and the first twins to be born on the project.

The twins are Ronald and Donald, who were born August 21, 1937. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Bramblett, who live in apartment No. 12 at 472 Techwood drive.

Most of the tenants who moved in when the project was opened in August, 1936, are still there.

Small Turnover. "We have a very small turnover in tenants," said K. S. McAllister, housing manager. "Since the project was opened, only 12 per cent of the tenants have moved elsewhere."

There are nine small playgrounds on the grounds, besides the large playground facing Techwood drive. The happiness angle is stressed, McAllister said.

"There are just a few 'keep off the grass' signs," he explained. "We don't mind folks sitting and playing on the grass, especially now that spring has come. After all, the lawns are their front porches."

Community Life. Community life goes on the year round. Three forum discussions a week are held in the auditorium. An expert seamstress teaches classes for women twice a week.

Then there is the Techwood Tenants' Association, headed by T. T. Gunter, president. The association holds dances twice a month. Last week, a bingo party was held.

Once a week, the bridge club meets, and every three months, the Techwood Dramatic Club gives a play.

For the youngsters, boys get vocational training in a little workshop in a basement of one of the buildings. There is also a Boy Scout troop. The girls have a Girl Scout troop and a Girls' Patrol and Drum Corps.

Kindergarten. Younger children attend the kindergarten, a part of the city school system, on the Techwood grounds. Five murals depicting characters of Joel Chandler Harris' famous creation, "Uncle Remus," are on walls of the kindergarten. The murals were painted by Carl Neff, of Cleveland.

Another artistic source of delight to the children is the fawn on Techwood drive, sculptured from red granite by Ben Shuehl, a New York artist.

There are three tennis courts on Athletic Association is the spearhead of the community's organized athletic life. Basketball, table tennis, shuffle board are popular recreations.

Now that spring has come, 75 benches are placed on the grounds, where residents may sun at their ease. The trees are growing well, too, McAllister said. Dogwood, Chinese and American elms, water oaks and mimosa are on the grounds.

CONGRESS ASKED TO AID BUSINESS Administration Seeks Self-Liquidating Loans for Public Bodies.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(P) The administration asked congress today to authorize a virtually unlimited program of government loans to business and a resumption of self-liquidating loans to public bodies.

The administration's proposal would enable the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make business loans on a long-term basis, meeting directly the complaint of many businessmen that such credits were not available.

The RFC would be given power to buy securities of private corporations, opening the way for capital loans for expansion and new construction. Small businessmen have complained to the government that capital for those purposes was difficult to obtain except in large quantities.

Making public a letter from Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, requesting that the new authority be granted, Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, said he already had introduced legislation designed to carry out the administration's recommendations.

Jones said in his letter President Roosevelt had authorized him to make the request.

Under existing law the RFC is prohibited from making loans maturing later than January 31, 1945. The total of all private loans outstanding cannot be more than $300,000,000. Both restrictions would be eliminated under the administration proposal.

The new provision would empower the RFC to "purchase the securities and obligations of and to make loans to any business enterprise when capital or credit, at prevailing rates for the character of loan provided for, is not otherwise available."

The corporation would be restricted only by its judgment as to the solvency of the borrower and the soundness of the loan.

The corporation would be permitted to lend money to states, municipalities and other public agencies for projects authorized by federal, state or municipal law.

is a bulletin board, telling of the daily community activities. Here also is a suggestion box, where residents may register complaints or constructive criticisms.

"It's a happy, well-regulated community," said McAllister. "Everybody seems to get along with his neighbor and there is a fine spirit of co-operation. Adverse criticism is a rarity. Folks like it out here."

28 PER CENT GAIN SHOWN IN BUILDING OUTSIDE NEW YORK

Marked Decline in Big City, Says Secretary Perkins in Report.

Valuations of total building permits issued in February, outside of New York city, were 28 per cent larger than in January, although in New York city there was a marked decline, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced Saturday. "The volume of new permits issued in New York city in December and January had been unusually large because of the new building code which became effective late in January, and a decline in February was anticipated," she said. "The total for all kinds of building construction for New York and other cities combined showed a reduction of 44 per cent."

"New residential building permits in 2,030 cities, exclusive of New York, showed a gain of 26 per cent from January. This expansion in building was widespread and was reported from cities in all geographic divisions except the Middle Atlantic states, in which New York is located, and the Pacific coast states. When reports for New York are included, the value of permits for residences was 67 per cent smaller in February than in January."

Non-Residential Gains. "There was an increase of 34 per cent in the value of new non-residential construction, excluding New York, and a gain of 20 per cent in additions, alterations, and repairs to existing structures. For the country as a whole, including New York, permits for new non-residential construction showed a decline of 20 per cent, while additions, alterations and repairs were up 15 per cent."

"Compared with the corresponding month of 1937, the value of residential buildings for which permits were issued in cities including New York, declined 50 per cent. There was also a decline in the value of new non-residential buildings increased 15 per cent. Excluding the figures for New York city, the comparisons are as follows: New residential buildings decreased 27 per cent, new non-residential buildings increased 16 per cent, and additions, alterations,

Board Mourns Death of Evans

The following resolutions on the death of R. W. Evans were passed Thursday by the board of directors of the Atlanta Real Estate Board:

"Whereas Richard Weldon Evans had long been a faithful and active member of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, having been one of the signers of the petition for a charter in 1922, and whereas he served this organization very efficiently as president in 1937, and where, because of his loyalty to the Real Estate Board and its code of ethics, his high standards of fair play, and his friendly co-operation at all times, he held a place of great admiration and love in the hearts of all realtors, Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Atlanta Real Estate Board, as an organization, and as individual realtors, deeply mourns the loss of this fine member, and wishes to express to members of his family sincere sympathy in their great sorrow."

GEORGIA REALTORS ON TAX COMMITTEE

Stout, of Atlanta, and Nash, of Macon, To Attend Chicago Conference.

Two prominent realtors of Georgia will represent this state at a national conference on real estate taxation called to meet in Chicago on April 6.

G. M. Stout, Atlanta realtor, will represent the Atlanta Real Estate Board, while Charles E. Nash, realtor of Macon, will represent the state of Georgia.

The Chicago conference is called by the committee on real estate taxation of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and Joseph W. Catharine, of Brooklyn, president of the association, has named the two Georgians as members of the national committee.

Who Will Participate. Former Governor Myers V. Cooper, of Ohio, chairman of the committee, states that the coming national conference to be held at the Palmer House, Chicago, in which the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, and the National Association of Building Owners and Managers have been invited to participate, will center on the question of best present action to achieve readjustment of the real estate tax system to a just and economically sound basis.

"A system which levies three-fifths of the total costs of local, state, and national governments against a commodity which produces only one-fifth of the total national income is manifestly illogical, unfair, and dangerous," he says. "Yet that is the position of real estate today."

To furnish a fulcrum on which legislative levers can shift the entire tax structure to a broader base, the National Association of Real Estate Boards, after six years of study of the tax structures of the 48 states, adopted a program of suggested action for every state outlined in a statement just issued by the committee as follows:

Remedies Proposed.

1. We propose that each state and territory adopt a constitutional amendment specifically limiting the tax on real estate to a fixed percentage of its true value.
2. We propose that in valuing real estate for tax purposes its income should be the basis for computing its assessed value.
3. We propose the drastic restriction of the use of the special assessment as a means of financing new public improvements, and the ultimate abolition of the special assessment laws.
4. We propose that the cost of maintaining state minimum requirements in public schools should be transferred from the local units of government to the state government, and that federal financial aid be invoked to accelerate such action.
5. We propose that funds obtained by state governments from gasoline and motor vehicle taxes should be used for the maintenance and improvement of roads in municipalities as well as for rural highways.

"We propose that there shall be vested in a state agency the right upon appeal to review any proposed tax levied on real estate and to revise that appeal, or in the case of bond issues to veto them entirely, such findings to be binding on the local authorities unless reversed by a direct vote of the people."

No. 17 Hunnicutt Street Goes to New Owner.

A one-story and basement brick building, 102x45 feet, at 17 Hunnicutt street, between Spring and West Peachtree streets, has been purchased by E. G. Thomssen for the sum of $16,000.

The property was bought from Nora L. and Helen Cunningham. It has been occupied by the Cunningham Motor Vehicle Company, who will vacate the building on May 1. The Thomssen Products Company will occupy the structure after that date.

THREE NEW MEMBERS JOIN REALTY BOARD

The Atlanta Real Estate Board announces the names of three new members just added to the roster for 1938. They are:

Mace J. Green, of the Sweet Realty Company, as an active Class B member; George F. Gann, of Chapman-Baldwin Company, as an associate member, and T. E. Johnson, of the Atlanta Title and Trust Company, as an associate member.

The board now has a total membership, including firms, salesmen and property owners, of 183.

PRIVATE BUILDING GAINS IN FEBRUARY

Month's Total in the Atlanta Metropolitan Area Reached $639,000.

February was a good month for private building contracts in the Atlanta metropolitan area. They were well ahead of the January figures, and overshadowed the contracts to be financed from public funds. R. M. Hairton, local manager of the Dodge reports division of F. W. Dodge Corporation, points out that "residential building contracts made up a large part of the Atlanta private total for February. In a survey of the 37 eastern states, it was found that residential contracts moved to the 40-million-dollar mark in February, from 36 millions in January. The current general emphasis on home building is credited with a large part of that gain."

In a grouping of all types of building and construction, the February total for the Atlanta metropolitan area was $639,000. This includes a gain of 30 per cent over the January figure, which was $491,000. This gain compares very well with the average drop of 39 per cent in the building and construction of the 37 eastern states.

The privately financed February contracts in the Atlanta metropolitan area, which includes Fulton and DeKalb counties, reached $529,000. Here, the gain was 12 per cent over January's figure of $474,000. The average for the 37 eastern states was a decrease of 9 per cent from the private contracts of the preceding month.

Big Jump for Atlanta.

There was a general and heavy decrease of 58 per cent in the publicly financed contracts of the eastern states. Those of the Atlanta area jumped to $110,000 from January's $17,000.

The movement in residential contracts during February, with a total of $412,000, gave the month a 17 per cent rise over January's $353,000. This gain in and around Atlanta was ahead of the average gain of 10 per cent recorded for the 37 states.

The local non-residential contracts for February, $227,000, were ahead of the January figure, $138,000. For the greater part of the country an average drop of 15 per cent is reported.

PRETTY HOME SOLD ON OAKDALE ROAD

Business Property and Lots Listed in Adams-Cates Sales.

A residence, a business parcel, an acreage tract and two lots were sold last week by Adams-Cates Company, as reported Saturday by Henry Robinson, sales manager.

The residence, a two-story brick home on a lot 100x600, located at 1089 Oakdale road, was sold by Mrs. Albert H. Bailey to Ray Williams for a price reported to be $12,000. This sale was handled by W. Hoke Blair.

The property at 15-19-23 Georgia avenue, size 50x100 feet, and containing three frame dwellings, was sold by C. E. Newton, of Spalding county, to Andrews Point Company, for a consideration of $7,500. It is understood that the purchaser plans to demolish the present dwellings and improve the property with a business structure at an early date. This sale was handled by Harrie W. Dewes.

One hundred acres in land lots 801, 802 and 854 of Cobb county were sold by Mrs. J. R. Miller to Otis A. Brumby for a cash consideration of $5,500, this sale having been handled by Josiah Sibley. The Peters Land Company sold to Mrs. C. R. Daniel a lot on Techwood drive for $900, also through Mr. Sibley.

The Trust Company of Georgia sold to H. L. Whitman a lot 50x160 feet on the south side of Ninth street, east of Argonne W. T. Perkinson Jr. handled this sale. On the last two lots the purchasers plan to erect a home immediately.

FAIR STREET SITE BOUGHT FOR $8,000

Draper-Owens Announces Sale of Property.

Purchase of property at Fair street and Grant street, improved with five stores and two apartments, by Ellis Mansour, was announced yesterday by Harvey J. Reeves, of the Draper-Owens Company sales staff.

The seller was Associated Mortgage Companies. The buildings occupy a lot 100 by 88 feet, and is assessed by the city at $8,000. The property is known as 336-342 Fair street, and was sold for slightly less than $8,000, it was reported.

WILDER JR. LEASES 847 SPRING STREET

A lease extending over a period of years, involving several thousand dollars, has recently been made by the Richardson Properties to Eugene Wilder Jr., for property at 847 Spring street, N. W.

A large orange-shaped building on the lot has been completely remodeled and modernized and Mr. Wilder, former young Atlantaan, has returned to the city and opened a soft drink and luncheon stand on the property. The place is to be known as "847."

PRESIDENT KEEPS IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH WASHINGTON

Discusses Market Decline With Morgenthau by Phone From Cottage.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt kept close to his Pine Mountain vacation cottage today, consulting Washington authorities by telephone on foreign and domestic developments, particularly about the current stock market decline.

Friends of the chief executive reported he had talked with Secretary Hull on the European situation and with Secretary Morgenthau and congressional leaders concerning the sharp break in the market and business conditions generally.

Gets Direct Information.

Although there was no outward evidence that the President was especially concerned over the trend of events here and abroad, it was pointed out that he felt they were sufficiently important to warrant his taking personally with Washington instead of obtaining his information indirectly through aides.

His direct wire to the national capital was reported busy most of the morning. Later he took an automobile ride with William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, and stopped at the infantile paralysis foundation's private glass-covered pool for a swim and exercise treatment.

Bullitt, who has given the President a first hand report on conditions in France, which some Wall Streeters described as a factor in yesterday's decline of from 1 to 5 points in ending securities, will leave here tomorrow for Washington. The ambassador has also talked with the President about methods of improving the efficiency of personnel in the government's career services.

Mrs. Roosevelt Arrives Today.

Mrs. Roosevelt will arrive here late tomorrow. She is flying from Seattle. Elliott Roosevelt, a son, also is expected tomorrow for a short stay. He is on the way back to Fort Worth, Texas, from New York. In the morning the President will participate in ceremonies in connection with dedication here of a little white chapel, constructed in the last few months for use by its crippled patients and Warm Springs Foundation guests. After lunch today on the broad veranda of his mountain cottage, the President began a study of a report from his special committee of three interstate commerce commissioners proposing emergency railroad legislation.

Report This Week.

The report will be made public this week in Washington. It will be referred to several authorities in Washington for opinions before Mr. Roosevelt formulates a message to congress for prompt action.

The President's talk with Morgenthau was believed to have dealt with the work of the new committee headed by the treasury secretary regarding plans for assisting business, particularly small businessmen who have experienced difficulty in obtaining bank credit.

President Roosevelt's speech at Gainesville, Ga., this week reiterated his desire for such legislation. Some administration supporters interpreted it as a bid for action at once.

Opposition from many southerners and the desire of legislators to forsake the capital for home-state hustings may block action in the current session, however.

Another of President Roosevelt's recommendations—regional planning—has slight chance of enactment. A house committee only recently began consideration of it.

TVA Inquiry Approved.

The senate approved a resolution yesterday for a joint senate-house inquiry into the Tennessee Valley Authority's administration and this probably will be acted on in the house Wednesday.

Messages from President Roosevelt still are expected on methods of relieving debt-ridden railroads, proposals to put government controls on the bank holding company structure and an anti-monopoly program.

Nevertheless, congressional leaders still are hopeful that the session will end between May 15 and June 1.

MRS. BEN PURSE HEADS CANCER RADIO GROUP

Mrs. Ben Purse has been named state radio chairman for the Georgia division of the Women's Field Army for Control of Cancer, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, state commander.

Mrs. Purse's committee, which has arranged for a series of broadcasts from March 28 to April 27, includes Mesdames Stephen T. Brown, George M. Murray, John Bonar White, Edgar Green, James S. Brawner Sr., W. A. Sellman, Eustas A. Allen and Miss Fannie B. Shaw.

CATHOLICS TO HEAR LAITY PLAN TODAY

Unity of Georgia Members of Church To Be Urged at All Masses.

Talks on the organization of the Bishop's Confraternity of the Laity will be delivered at all masses in Catholic churches of Atlanta today.

The organization, an effort by Bishop O'Hara to weld Georgia Catholics into a unified body capable of effective action, has for its purpose development of the Savannah-Atlanta diocese.

The recent census, which showed there were approximately 25,000 Catholics in the state, convinced the bishop that the church was not ministering to her own constituency adequately.

Program of Expansion.

He plans, with the advice and assistance of the laity, a program of expansion, especially in rural districts.

Main points include the equipment of trailer chapels to reach isolated Catholic families, extension of the parochial school system, enlargement and increase of vacation camps, establishment of a fund to educate Georgians for the priesthood, reduction of the debt on St. Mary's Orphanage, Savannah, extension of the functions of the Catholic Laymen's Association, and expansion of religious, educational and charitable work among negro Catholics.

Dinner to Bishop.

A dinner, honoring Bishop O'Hara, will be held Wednesday night at the Piedmont Driving Club. More than 400 north Georgia Catholics have made reservations, and nationally known speakers are expected to attend. The Rev. John F. White, "chaplain of Broadway," and wartime chaplain at Camp Gordon, will be one of the principal speakers, both in Atlanta and at the banquet to be given the bishop by south Georgia laymen in Savannah tomorrow night.

Atlantans prominent in the campaign are James L. Dickey and Estes Doremus.

HARVARD ALUMNI GIVE SCHOLARSHIP

Is Offered.

A $300 scholarship to the Harvard Business school is being offered by the Atlanta Alumni Club to graduates of colleges or residents of Georgia, Florida and Alabama who plan to attend the school in September. R. W. Chambers, president of the club, announced yesterday.

The scholarship, which amounts to approximately one-fourth of the total expenses for the school year, will be granted on the basis of scholastic standing and the financial need of the applicant. Applications will be considered by the scholarship committee of the club, headed by Professor L. E. Campbell, of Emory University.

FEIDELSON TO SPEAK ON LABOR RELATIONS

Judge Charles N. Feidelson, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, will speak on "Highlights of the Labor Relations Board" at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Commercial High School auditorium. His will be the first in a series of addresses to be sponsored by the Workers' Education Program of the Works Progress Administration.

Following the address, a period will be devoted for discussions and questions, it was announced. The public is invited to attend. The next address in the series will be Sunday, April 3, when Dr. C. R. Stauffer will speak on "Labor and the Church."

WILL INVITE HULL.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 26.—(AP)—William Rule, president of the Knoxville Clearing House Association, said today Secretary of State Cordell Hull would be invited to address the Tennessee State Bankers' Association convention here in May.

OGLETHORPE DRIVE NEARS CONCLUSION

100 Volunteers Redouble Efforts for Final Dinner Tomorrow.

More than 100 volunteer solicitors in the Oglethorpe University campaign for $155,000 are redoubling their efforts over the week end to complete their assignments in time for a full report by 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the closing report dinner of the campaign will be held.

Judge Edgar Watkins, president of the university board of directors, has appealed to each worker in a letter which says, in part: "I trust you will join me in an earnest endeavor to conscientiously interview each of our people and render a final report Monday. To extend the campaign would be expensive and should be unnecessary." Over 1,600 calls remain to be made, Judge Watkins said. He estimated nearly 1,000 contributions would result from the campaign, including about 800 already received.

The money is needed to make final payment on the cost of the college campus, including 600 acres of land, three buildings, the stadium and other equipment. President Thornwell Jacobs has been assured of generous donations for endowment purposes as soon as the debt is finally liquidated, leaving approximately $2,000,000 worth of property free of encumbrances. A new charter, just drawn up, prohibits the incurring of further liens against the property.

SCHOOL HEAD RENAMED.

EDISON, Ga., March 26.—J. A. Pickard, superintendent of the Edison public school, has been re-elected by the local school trustees for the next school year.

COURT CASES MADE TO CLEAN UP LOTS

City Sending Out Crews of Workmen To Remove Debris.

Progress in cleaning vacant lots throughout the city was reported yesterday by H. J. Cates, head of the city sanitary department.

Cates said about six recorder's court cases have been lodged against owners of property who refused to clean up their lots, but all of them had changed their minds and improved the property before the cases reached court.

Crews of workmen are being sent out to remove debris and clean vacant lots owned by large corporations at the request of Cates. The sanitary chief conferred last week with officials of several large concerns who volunteered to co-operate in the movement.

Cates said every out-of-town owner of vacant lots notified had readily made provision to have them cleaned.

"While the work is slow, we are certainly making progress," he declared. "The improvement in appearance of the city will be apparent before long."

13 MERCHANT SHIPS STRANDED NEAR POLE

VADSCO, Norway, March 26.—(AP)—A group of merchant vessels and icebreakers carrying 800 Soviet Russians were reported in a wireless message today to be in a critical position and drifting helplessly in polar seas off Siberia.

The group originally included seven merchantmen and two accompanying icebreakers. Four additional icebreakers which set out to aid them subsequently became stranded.

Fulton County Census Of Schools Begins April 4

The regular school census called for by the State Board of Education will be taken in Fulton county beginning April 4 and will require about two weeks to complete, Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, announced yesterday.

"The census this year will be more comprehensive than formerly," Wells said, "in order to list the names of children under school age as well as adult illiterates. This will enable us to find out what must be done in order to eliminate adult illiteracy before the regular census of 1940. In addition, an enrollment of children of preschool age will help us in planning for the future."

MEDICAL GROUPS TO MEET THURSDAY

Fifth District Society To Hear Prominent Visiting Physicians, Surgeons.

The first of the semi-annual meetings of the Fifth District Medical Society will be held at 6 o'clock Thursday night at the Academy of Medicine, 38 Prescott street, N. E.

Prominent physicians and surgeons from different parts of the country will speak to the medical group, which is composed of the medical societies of Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties.

Dr. Dean H. Echols, in charge of neuro-surgery at Tulane University, New Orleans, will explain the widespread prevalence of high blood pressure and the newer surgical methods used in its treatment.

Dr. Echols gained a wide reputation for his work in the prophylaxis of infantile paralysis and in brain tumor while associated with Dr. Max Peet at the University of Michigan.

Discussion of Emyema.

Chronic empyema, recognized as a difficult problem to surgeons, and the surgical treatment of this disease will be discussed by Dr. B. N. Carter, associate professor of surgery and the chief of chest surgery at the University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dr. Charles R. Rein, special consultant serologist of the United States Public Health Service and attending dermatologist and syphilologist, New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, Columbia University, will give an interpretation of the serology of syphilis, with particular reference to rapid routine diagnosis.

Having published more than 20 papers on syphilis, Dr. Rein has

LOUIS UNTERMAYER TO TALK AT EMORY

Poet-Author Will Speak on American Reading.

Louis Untermeyer, poet, author, critic and humorist, will speak at 8:15 o'clock Friday night in Glenn Memorial auditorium under auspices of the Student Lecture Association of Emory University.

His topic will be "What Americans Read—and Why."

Untermeyer is one of the few literary figures who have been successful both in business and artistic worlds. He retired from a large manufacturing jewelry business, of which he was vice president and factory manager. His anthologies and original works are in public libraries, and he has been widely acclaimed by critics. His most recent work is two volumes on the life and poetry of Heinrich Heine.

Flagship meet—the NEW YORK greeting the BREMEN

Men fight for the right to sit by the tempestuous New Orleans belle, Bette Davis, in "Jezebel," but here Henry Fonda appears to have won the beautiful lady's favor. "Jezebel," the current feature at the Fox theater, is a romantic story of swirling Louisiana society in the decade preceding the War Between the States.

Boy, that must have been a good one. Just look at the expression on Fred Allen's face as Louise Hovick finishes telling that secret. These two will be seen in "Sally, Irene and Mary," at the Paramount this week.

Songs and music predominate in "The Girl of the Golden West," which reunites Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald at Loew's Grand this week. But, here Buddy Ebsen seems to have ousted Eddy from his accustomed place beside the lovely singer. The story is of the western frontier in gold rush days.

Southern Drawls Used by Players In Two Moving Pictures This Week

"Girl of Golden West" at Grand; "Jezebel" at Fox; Paramount Plays Musical; "Reckless" at Rialto; "Snow White" to Georgia; "City Girl" at Capitol.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.

Affected southern drawls have prominent places in two of the leading moving pictures at Atlanta theaters this week.

In "Jezebel," which stars a fiery Bette Davis at the Fox, Louisiana University professors were imported to Hollywood to teach the cast to speak with an authentic New Orleans dialect of the 1850s. The picture's fine and the drawl is the nearest natural yet to come from Hollywood. Jeannette MacDonald, the singing girl bartender in "The Girl of the Golden West" at the Grand, affects a southern drawl too.

The late Jean Harlow is featured in the Rialto film, "Reckless," which shows the life of a show girl crashing society. With her are featured Franchot Tone and William Powell. Three stage-struck girls, "Sally, Irene and Mary," is the musical feature at the Paramount. The girls in this are Alice Faye, Joan Davis and Marjorie Weaver. Tony Martin has the romantic male lead.

"City Girl," a story of rackets and racket breaking, opens today at the Capitol. Eight acts of vaudeville are on the stage. "Snow White" has been moved to the Georgia as it begins its third week at Atlanta.

Fiery Southern Heroine of 'Jezebel' Well Portrayed by Bette Davis.

"I am thinking of the woman Jezebel, who did sin in the sight of God."

All of the fire of Scarlett and the beauty of Troy's Helen have been combined in the character portrayed by Bette Davis, a New Orleans belle of the 1850s, whose pride is her ability to make men fight for her. And it's Bette's picture all the way through as she portrays the "Jezebel" of New Orleans.

The one-time academy award winner plays her role well in "Jezebel," which now stars her at the Fox theater, supported by Henry Fonda and George Brent. And the remonstrance quoted above, from which the film draws its name, comes from an aunt after Brent was killed in a duel which the heroine forced him to fight. Margaret Lindsey, cast as a proud northern girl whose romance conflicts with the desires of the selfish Julie, is a little too retiring.

Bette truly loves Henry but does not find it out until she drives him away when she wears a red dress to a dance, much to the shock of all present. The heroine feels confident he will return and Fonda does—with a wife. Later she tries to atone for her earlier sins by volunteering to accompany Fonda, sick with yellow fever, to the leper's island to which all the sick are ordered.

Throughout, the scenery seems very typical to the period and the main characters show the efforts of the studio to train them in the correct dialect and pronunciation of the old New Orleans. University professors from Louisiana were imported to coach the stars. But, with it all, the drawl doesn't sound natural.

Those of you who like good singing, especially when the singers are Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, will find the movie version of "The Girl of the Golden West," at Loew's Grand, entertaining and amusing.

M-G-M has taken the play of David Belasco and the music of Sigmund Romberg and Gus Kahn and made an enjoyable picture despite the false idea that Miss MacDonald must effect an awful southern drawl and walk with long swinging strides that aren't the least bit natural. Even Eddy is forced to affect a Mexican accent that's not so good, but not quite as bad as his singing partner's "you alls."

The story concerns the love of a California frontier town's only girl (Jeannette) and a dashing bandit (Eddy). The girl is the darling of the gold miners, who think it their duty to protect her. Generally, she is regarded as the sheriff's property. (Walter Pidgeon) until the bandit comes along with songs of love.

Excellent performances are given by Pidgeon, Leo Carrillo and Buddy Ebsen. Songs include "Shadows on the Moon," "Senorita," and "Who Are We to Say?"

Rialto Feature Shows Harlow In One of Her Best Roles.

"Reckless," a story of a show girl marrying millions, is made entertaining and appealing by capable acting on the part of the late Jean Harlow. William Powell and Franchot Tone, who played the late Harlow in the Rialto theater, there's a local angle to the picture in that Man Mountain Dean appears in a wringing scene.

Jean portrays a showgirl who marries the rich Tone after refusing to become his mistress. Tone's father seeks to buy her off, but she tells him she loves his son. Bill Powell is Jean's manager, who is secretly in love with his star. Tone's friends turn against him for marrying Jean and finally he commits suicide, and Jean returns to the stage to earn money to support her son. Bill backs her. The first-night audience boos, but is won over by a heart-to-heart appeal from the blond actress.

Others in the cast are May Robson, Ted Healy, Ned Pendleton and Rosalind Russell. Short subjects complete the program.

Songs, Comedy and Names Featured In Paramount Musical.

Presenting a star-studded cast, "Sally, Irene and Mary," Twentieth Century-Fox's new rhythm picture, is playing this week at the Paramount theater. In the leading roles are Alice Faye, Joan Davis and Marjorie Weaver.

Miss Faye and Tony Martin sing well together and Fred Allen, Jimmy Durante and Louise Hovick supply laugh lines. Among the songs from the picture are "Half Moon on the Hudson," "I Could Use a Dream," "This Is Where I Came in," and "Got My Mind on Music."

The story: Alice meets Tony in Greenwich Village where both are working and soon they fall for each other. Alice is "Sally" of the trio managed by Fred Allen. Joan is "Irene" and Marjorie is "Mary." Fred induces Louise Hovick to back a show for Tony. Louise goes for Tony, too. At the same time Gregory Ratoff falls for Alice. Then Louise withdraws her money from the show when she learns of the Tony-Alice affair. But Marjorie inherits a side-wheel steam boat and the girls and their friends begin anew their attempt for fame.

'Snow White' Is Moved To Georgia Theater

Atlantans, who missed seeing "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" during its two-week run at the Fox, have another chance to enjoy the sensational new motion picture development presented by Walt Disney.

The Lucas & Jenkins management has moved the picture to the Georgia theater for another week's run.

This picture version of the Grimm brothers' fairy tale set attendance records at the Fox. The management announced and has been held over for those who haven't seen it and those who wish to see it again.

Stars in Center Film

Leslie Howard and Bette Davis have the leading roles in "It's Love I'm After," which plays Thursday and Friday at the Center theater.

TED SHAWN'S GROUP RETURNS APRIL 19

Dancers To Give Performance at Erlanger.

Ted Shawn, the virtuoso of the dance stage, will bring his male dancers to the Erlanger theater for a night's performance before Atlanta's Tuesday, April 19.

The appearance of the dancers here is being sponsored by the Atlanta Theater Guild. This will be the dancers' second visit to Atlanta, the last having been in 1936.

This year the dancers will present "O Libertad," an American saga portraying the past, the present and the future. The past, depicting the "Noche Triste de Montezuma," dramatizes the fateful night when invading Spaniards invite Aztec chieftains to a banquet where they are treacherously slain, and continues the progress of the dance through the square dance of the "Gold Rush" days.

Visualizing the period just before 1914, the present takes the dance from the prewar college campus, through the war, the jazz age, the depression and the mobilization for peace.

Act three presents the supposed form of dance of the future American. Strife, death and the things beyond death constitute the subject matter for the last act.

JEWISH TALKIE BOOKED AT ERLANGER APRIL 17

"Green Fields," the talking movie of Jewish life in old Russia, will be shown Sunday, April 17, at the Erlanger theater for three performances.

The movie, done in the Jewish language, is taken from the stage play written by Peretz Hirshlein.

Executives Forget Young Players Old-Timers Hog Select Roles

By Sheilah Graham

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Hollywood is not doing right by its younger film players. All the well established old-timers are sitting pretty on the nest-egg of "A" pictures, and it's a lucky starlet who is allowed the opportunity of front-ranking productions.

Take the sad story of Marjorie Weaver. Remember her in "Second Honeymoon," when she stole the picture from Loretta Young and Tyrone Power? Like me, you probably expected to see her rise from that jumping-off point. But she went down—and it wasn't her fault. The "bit" she performed in "Sally, Irene and Mary" was suicidal from an aspiring actress' point of view. She is now playing an unimportant role in "Kentucky Moonshine," starring the Ritz Brothers. Her next picture, "Three Blind Mice," stars Loretta Young and Joel McCrea, and leaves little opening for Marjorie's talents.

Also in "Three Blind Mice," is June Lang. When June was the leading lady of "Road to Glory," with Fredric March, Lionel Barrymore and Warner Baxter, everyone predicted "another star." As far as Miss Lang was concerned, it was just "another disappointment." During the past year, she played minor parts only—her latest in "International Settlement," a "B" picture, starring George Sanders and Dolores Del Rio.

Anne Shirley is the perfect example of a young player who cannot get to first base with big-time pictures. The last time she proved her acting mettle was in "Stella Dallas," a year ago. Since then, she has appeared in one minor picture, "Condemned Women."

It seems only yesterday that Hollywood was congratulating James Ellison for his "Buffalo Bill" in "The Plainsmen." That's all he received—unless you count "B" westerns and a small part in "Vivacious Lady," which stars Ginger Rogers and Jimmy Stewart.

Joan Fontaine started off with a bang of publicity that swept her into the romantic lead opposite Fred Astaire in "A Damsel in Distress," plus a $500-a-week salary. She has done nothing since then except an insignificant second feature picture titled "Maid's Night Out."

I receive many inquiries regarding the whereabouts of pretty Marsha Hunt. She appeared in a "C" grade western, "Thunder Trail," four months ago. Her future in Hollywood is covered with a question mark.

Dixie Dunbar drew the fans and critics with her first film appearance here. But the last two years she has been made to play cutie roles in college pictures and musicals that were smaller with each film. And have now disappeared entirely.

Patrick Knowles had a good beginning here as Errol Flynn's brother in "The Charge of the Light Brigade." The studio promised to star him. Nowadays, you can

MAJOR BOWES' SHOW COMING TO GEORGIA

"First Anniversary Revue" To Open Saturday.

Major Bowes' "First Anniversary Revue," presenting 10 acts featuring 30 people who won recognition on the amateur programs, will open Saturday at the Georgia theater for a week's run.

Heralded as "an hour of mirth," the show will present melody and merrymaking by the Youman brothers, impersonators of leading name bands; Ann Palmer, pianist and torch singer; Jimmy Bolster; Helen Diller, Canadian hillbilly singer; Sid Raymond, master of ceremonies and mimic of radio, stage and screen stars.

The Van Zandt Sisters, accordion players; Bill Broadway, boy soprano; Frances Gibby, violinist; Windy Jack, musical novelties; Harmonica Jacks, five "rascals" on the harmonica, and others.

In addition to Major Bowes' "First Anniversary Revue," the Georgia theater will offer a screen attraction to be announced later. At the present time, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is showing on the Georgia screen.

Women Jurors Will Pass Justice In Federal Theater Play Tomorrow

"Night of January 16th" Opens at 8:30 O'Clock at Atlanta Theater.

There will be an all-woman jury sitting in Atlanta tomorrow.

When the Atlanta Federal Theater's production of "The Night of January 16th" opens its run at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Atlanta theater, the jury which will try Karen Andre, the leading lady, will be drawn from members of the Business and Professional Woman's Club.

And on each succeeding night of the run, members of the audience will be chosen to sit in judgment of Karen, confidential secretary of the murdered Bjorn Faulkner, financial tycoon.

But, since it is unlawful for women to sit on the jury in Georgia, the women jurors will become "citizens of New York" for the evening so they may try the case.

Later in the week a jury of men only will be drawn from the members of an Atlanta men's club. Each night the audience will decide for itself whether or not the accused is guilty and thus the outcome of the play will be clouded with mystery.

"The Night of January 16th" is a murder-melodrama based on the famed "Krueger Match-King Saga." The play deals with the trial of the secretary for the financier's murder.

Playing the role of Karen will be Adele Albert, of New York, who will be remembered for her performances in "The Adding Machine" and the "Man in the Tree." Clyde Waddell will portray the district attorney, and John Williams will be the judge.

"The Night of January 16th" was a hit of the 1935 theatrical season on Broadway. It is being presented here by the Federal Players under the direction of Albert Lovejoy, who staged the "Man in the Tree" and "The Adding Machine."

The players think they will offer Atlanta audiences a chance to determine the respective merits of men and women as jurors as both sex will be given a chance to serve on the jury which will condemn or free Karen Andre.

LONG ISLAND SEARCHED FOR CLUES ON LEVINE
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 26.—(UP)—Federal agents searched four islands in Long Island sound today for clues to the whereabouts of Peter Levine, 12-year-old New Rochelle school boy who was kidnapped February 24 for $30,000 ransom.

The search was part of a widespread and so far fruitless hunt which started two weeks ago when Murray Levine, father of the missing boy, had failed in repeated attempts to renew contact with the kidnappers.

Racket girl meets racket buster. Here are the leading players in "City Girl," which opens today at the Capitol presenting a dramatic story of a girl trying a racket on the district attorney. The girl is Phyllis Brooks, in her first big role, and Ricardo Cortez is the lawyer.

Dopey goes exploring. The little dwarf who doesn't talk found out there wasn't a tie under the beard after all. These two and their brothers will be seen in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" which has been brought to the Georgia theater to continue its run for Atlanta audiences.

After Dark in Atlanta

The "mystery song" that is so popular with the dinner-dance set at the Rathskeller is to get a name this week. Jack Miles and his orchestra introduced it without a name two weeks ago as their theme song and it became an immediate hit.

Dancers have inquired frequently for the name of the song, but Jack holds it secret. The song was written by an Atlanta girl, Eleanor Van Fleet, who is now in school at Washington. Her mother asked Miles to play it if he thought it any good. It's the orchestra's theme song now, but they don't like its title. . . . Eleanor is coming home this week, she'll write new lyrics for the music and give it another title, then the name will be announced at a party to be given at the Rathskeller. She first called the song "Mummy's Darling."

Incidentally, the new Biltmore orchestra has been advertised in Atlanta as "Jimmie Richards and his orchestra" when, in reality, the band's name is "Jimmie and Billy Richards." The brothers own the band.

Painters have begun work at Peacock Alley getting the terrace dining hall ready for the summer and spring diners, who like the open air. It will be opened within the next few weeks. . . . The management is also enlarging the pantry.

Spring hit the Rathskeller this week. The management opened up a new room in which the walls are finished in materials that give a silvery sparkling effect. . . . The orchestra blossomed forth in light blue jackets and sun burns, too. . . . The burns were authentic, obtained on the golf links.

Fred Waring and his orchestra finished their last performance at the Georgia theater last Sunday and toured out to the Biltmore, where the musicians joined Hal Berdun's boys in a jam session, much to the delight of diners.

Most popular request songs at the Rathskeller during the past week continued to be "Whistle While You Work," "Star Dust" and "You're a Sweetheart."

Gay crowds, returning from the theater, stop by Peacock Alley on their way home each night to laugh and joke with friends who had the same idea—and they stay as long as they like, regardless of the fact the doors are locked and the Alley is supposed to close at midnight.

One young lady in a dark dress and red hat asked the Rathskeller boys to play "One Song," from "Snow White." They told her they'd play "Whistle While You Work" for her but that they didn't have her request. She declined the substitute. "It's too flippant," she announced seriously.

Ever since Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took "Fighting Pilot" to March Field for flying sequences, the company, impressed by the praise high-ranking officers accorded the star's military and aviation knowledge, have dubbed him "Colonel."

LONG ISLAND SEARCHED FOR CLUES ON LEVINE
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 26.—(UP)—Federal agents searched four islands in Long Island sound today for clues to the whereabouts of Peter Levine, 12-year-old New Rochelle school boy who was kidnapped February 24 for $30,000 ransom.

The search was part of a widespread and so far fruitless hunt which started two weeks ago when Murray Levine, father of the missing boy, had failed in repeated attempts to renew contact with the kidnappers.

G-Man Movie Is Booked At Cameo

"Federal Bullets," a picture showing adventures of the federal agents of the Bureau of Investigation, will open tomorrow for two days at the Cameo theater. Today's feature is "Melody Trail," which stars Gene Autry and his partner, Smiley Burnette.

The G-man picture shows an agent going to prison on a murder charge so he can align himself with the vice gang headed by wealthy Mrs. Crippen, whose reputation as a humanitarian makes it impossible to convict her of the numerous crimes of which she is suspected. The old lady gets him out of prison to help free a notorious gangster. That gives him his evidence but discloses his identity.

In the leading roles are Milburn Stone and Terry Walker. Featured Wednesday will be "Shadows of the Orient," which stars Regis Toomey and Esther Ralston. Thursday's feature is "Idol of the Crowds" with John Wayne.

Friday and Saturday another western will be shown, "Boothill Brigade," with Johnny Mack Brown in the leading role.

These are the Youman Brothers who impersonate leading name bands on the "First Anniversary Revue" of Major Bowes at the Georgia theater opening Saturday. They are, reading down, Jack, Skipper and George.

Racket girl meets racket buster. Here are the leading players in "City Girl," which opens today at the Capitol presenting a dramatic story of a girl trying a racket on the district attorney. The girl is Phyllis Brooks, in her first big role, and Ricardo Cortez is the lawyer.

Dopey goes exploring. The little dwarf who doesn't talk found out there wasn't a tie under the beard after all. These two and their brothers will be seen in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" which has been brought to the Georgia theater to continue its run for Atlanta audiences.

VICTORY CLAIMED FOR EXECUTIVE BILL

Opponents Hope To Shelve Reorganization Measure in Senate Monday.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's senate leaders tonight claimed more than sufficient strength to pass the government reorganization bill when the measure to "streamline" the executive agencies reaches a final vote Monday.

The ability of administration leaders to win approval of the reorganization bill, giving President Roosevelt power to transfer executive agencies into a "streamlined" setup in 11 cabinet departments, was disputed by opponents. They claimed a total of 44 votes for recommitment, two of them somewhat doubtful.

It would take a majority of the senate—49 votes—to recommend the bill and kill it for this session, unless a number of senators failed to vote because of absence. Despite this claim, Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, sponsor of the bill, said he was "not at all worried" as to the outcome.

Under a unanimous consent agreement, the senate will vote not later than 2 p. m. (Atlanta time) Monday on a motion by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, to send the bill back to the reorganization committee. If that motion fails, the senate will vote at 4 p. m. (Atlanta time) on the bill itself.

GIRL DOOMED TO DIE BATTLES IN IGNORANCE

DETROIT, March 26.—(UP)—

Blond 16-year-old Jean Cavanaugh fought a brave but losing battle tonight against lymphatic leukemia, with doctors admitting her case is hopeless.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cavanaugh, has not been told she is doomed to die. She has submitted to seven blood transfusions at Harper hospital and believes she is suffering from anemia.

Masters' Tournament Gets Under Way Friday at Augusta

(Editor's Note: Break o' Day is written today by Jack Troy, acting sports editor of The Constitution, pinch-hitting for Ralph McGill.)

SAVANNAH, March 26.—Dick Niehaus, the old left-hander, who hasn't missed a prediction on where the Crackers would finish in the three years he has been with the club as trainer and coach, sees the Paul Richards outfit as one-two in the Southern league race.

Niehaus picked the '35 team to win the pennant, selected the '36 team to repeat and pegged last year's team for third place. He just hasn't missed. And his predictions naturally aren't based on guesswork.

"Understand," he said, "they may need a little help. Additional power might not be amiss. But mostly it is a good ball club as it is."

Niehaus says the difference of a good catcher (Richards) back of the plate in most of the games should mean many more victories from the young pitchers.

"Richards only caught part-time last year," Niehaus added. "And you will see the difference this summer."

Veterans as a rule are allowed to pitch their own games. They know their way around, so to speak. But a smart catcher can make a big difference to young hustlers.

Sir Richard Niehaus will be on the coaching lines for the Crackers this year. Formerly, he has directed his talents mostly to rubbing kinks out of the boys in the dressing rooms.

But Sir Richard knows his baseball. And he will pass the signs for Manager Richards. He will have one different set entirely for a certain Cracker player, who finds it a bit difficult to catch on.

Which is nothing unusual in athletics. There have been many great football players who went through their entire career without ever learning the signals.

They'd simply say, "Show me I'm supposed to go, and I'll go." And it is not unusual in baseball for players to have trouble with signs.

So Niehaus, in addition to the other signs, will have to remember the additional set for the one Cracker player.

"One-two," he says. "Put it down. If old Dick misses, it can't be any worse than that time at Mobile when he threw one down the middle with the bases loaded."

WHAT ABOUT THIS, JOE?

There has been a lot of talk about the Chattanooga Lookouts, their power and all that—Joe Engel always talks a good game—but Manager Paul Richards can't see anything but an outside chance for the Engel elephants to finish in the first division.

Richards thinks Memphis, with a little help, will be a threat to win the pennant, along with Atlanta. He feels sure New Orleans will be in the first division.

But outside of that he is not so sure. "It looks like Little Rock and Chattanooga may fight it out for the other place in the first division," he declared.

That definitely relegates Birmingham, Nashville and Knoxville to the second division. The Crackers are going to be a winner. Richards is very outspoken on that point.

They're certainly cleaning up in the spring coastal league, at that.

HOW RICHARDS VIEWS STAFFS.

Richards thinks possibly the Cracker pitching staff, as it stands, is as good as any other in the league.

But where the catch comes, he says, is when help comes to the other clubs later on. They may be better then.

The Crackers have some fine prospects who may develop into real winners. I mean among the younger hurlers. But for safety's sake they may be fortunate enough to get an established pitcher like, say, Bud Thomas, to plug the gap left by the drafting of Emil Leonard.

Pitching is about 70 per cent of baseball success. And when a manager has what he needs and doesn't have to trust to chance and a young fellow's expected development, it makes matters a lot safer.

Richards is sure the club will do with just a little help. He is pleased with most departments. He plans to give Eddie Rose a bit of rest from here on out and see if it won't help his batting. Rose has been working too hard.

"I don't think there is any question but that we have accomplished a great deal this spring," Richards says. "We should be as ready as the next one when the season opens."

THERE WAS NO LAST OUT.

The Savannah Indians were staging a mild rally in their half of the eleventh inning Friday afternoon when someone yelled, "Come on, team, the game's never over until the last man's out."

Jake Levy, who has been pitching baseball for 17 years, spoke up and said, "You're wrong there, buddy. I was playing for Charlotte once against the Athletics in a spring exhibition. The kids around the park stole all the balls and we had to quit in the seventh inning."

Levy is one of the Jewish boys the late John McGraw tried out in his everlasting search for a real drawing card in New York city.

He was still trying to get through college and did not want his amateur standing impaired, so Levy took the name of Jack Leroy.

"Mister McGraw would have none of that. He made me go by the name of Jack Leroy Levy. The Giants had a great staff and I didn't have much of a chance to make the grade. And I sure have been around since then."

Levy, in his 17 seasons, never has had a losing year in baseball. He always has won more than he lost. He won 20 games for the Savannah Indians last year.

"I sometimes think of retiring to a farm somewhere when my pitching days are over," he says, "but whoever heard of a Jewish farmer?"

AGUA CALIENTE SLATED TODAY

Seabiscuit Heads Field of Nine Thoroughbreds in $12,500 Race.

AGUA CALIENTE, March 26. (P)—Nine thoroughbreds, headed by Seabiscuit, were named today to run in the mile and one-eighth $12,500 added renewal of the classic Agua Caliente handicap tomorrow.

The handicap champion of 1937 will pack top weight of 130 pounds.

Arrayed against Seabiscuit are a South American campaigner of class, Amor Brujo, and seven middle-grade American handicappers. Making up the field in addition to Seabiscuit and Amor Brujo, are Marynell, Little Nymph, Warfellow, Sir Ridgway, San Luis Rey, Top Radio and Gray Jack.

The race finds Seabiscuit going into action a prohibitive choice, being quoted at 1 to 5.

Sir Raleigh Choice At New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 26. (P)—Horses from the California and Florida campaigns loomed tonight as favorites in tomorrow's renewal of the Louisiana Derby at a mile and one-eighth for 3-year-olds with an added value of $12,000. Ten seemed certain starters with the possibility 12 might go.

Anthony Pelletieri won the event last year with Grey Count, and his Sir Raleigh loomed as the overnight favorite at 8 to 5. He showed to advantage in California. Second choice at 5 to 2 promised to be Hal Price Headley's Bourbon King, shipped here from Florida. Eddie Arcaro, until the last few days the nation's leading jockey, will ride with him.

R. L. Vedder, 18-year-old benedict and the country's leading jockey, will have the mount on a 10-to-1 shot, E. K. Bryson's filly, Bunny Baby.

Tomorrow's racing will end a 113-day season at the beautiful Fair Grounds track.

With Prince Argo and William Palmer listed as doubtful starters, tomorrow's lineup promises to be:

Horse	Wt.	Jockey	Probable Odds
Sir Raleigh	122	C. Corbett	8-5
Bourbon King	122	E. Arcaro	5-2
A-Wing	114	J. Longden	4-1
a-Pelter	111	A. Bodini	4-1
Pen	116	R. Young	10-1

Kellsboro Jack Wins at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, England, March 26. (UP)—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's American-owned Kellsboro Jack, winner of the Grand National Steeplechase in 1933, today captured the Liverpool Championship Steeplechase. Mrs. H. M. Hollins' Lucky Penny was second, followed by Lord Penrhyn's Belted Hero.

McSpaden, Snead Lead at Greensboro

Stars Shoot Sub-Par Rounds of 66; Revolta Posts Score of 68.

By EDDIE BRIETZ. GREENSBORO, N. C., March 26.—(P)—Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Winchester, Mass., and Sammy Snead, of White Sulphur, shot sub-par rounds of 66 today to hop into the lead in the first round of the $5,000 Greater Greensboro golf tournament.

The record for the Starmount course, over which the first two rounds of the meet are being played, was cracked twice today as the cream of the nation's golfing talent bore down on the tricky traps and greens. Monday's 36-hole final will be fought out over the Valley Brook course at Sedgefield Country Club.

Before McSpaden, runner-up in the 1937 P. G. A. tournament, and the long-hitting Snead posted their sizzling rounds, Johnny Revolta had come in with a 68 to better by one stroke the record set in 1932 by Henry Picard in beating the veteran Walter Hagen in the play-off for the Carolinas' open championship.

Snead's performance was tops for the day. After touring the first round of the course in one over par, he got down to business and made the last nine in six under. He picked up one birdie on the out-going nine and five on the route home.

The day's disappointment was Victor Ghezzi, of Deal, N. J., winner of the north and south open at Pinehurst yesterday and a red hot favorite. He bogged down on the sensational pace he set in the Sandhills meet and the best he could do today was a 75, which left him far back in the field.

Revolta's well-shot 68 put him in a threatening position for tomorrow's second round. Two strokes behind him came Bill Heinlein, of Indianapolis, Leo Mallory, of Wee Burn, Conn., and Johnny Bulla, a former High Point, N. C., amateur now playing out of Chicago.

Harry Cooper, the Chicopee, Mass., stylist, and Horton Smith, of Chicago, were in the next bracket with 71's, and behind them were grouped Maurice Walsh, of Scarsdale, N. Y.; George Slingerland, Greensboro professional; Denny Shute, the P. G. A. champion, now playing out of West Newton, Mass.; Tony Penna, of Dayton, Ohio; Ky Laffoon, of Chicago; Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa.; Ralph Guldahl, of Chicago; Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y.; and Tony Manero, of Peabody, Mass., former open champion.

The King brothers, Ralph and Charlie, along with Stevenson, led the 12-hit assault by accounting for eight hits. Ralph King had three hits, a single, double and triple, with the single and triple coming in the big second inning when the Petrels scored 7 runs.

Phil McCullough, who has been on the ailing list for several days with a sore shoulder, returned to his best form today and was invincible for the five innings he worked. He allowed only two hits and struck out five.

YATES CARDS 68 AND WINS BOGEY

Charlie Also Shares Prize in Weekly Blind Bogey.

Charlie Yates shot a sub-par 68 on the number one course at East Lake yesterday afternoon to gain one-tenth of the top prize in the weekly bogey. The winning bogey number was 74.

Yates played with J. H. Irwin, Scott Hudson and Arch Martin. He leaves for Augusta early Tuesday morning for a few practice rounds Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in preparation for the Masters' tourney.

Atlanta's other prominent entry—Bobby Jones—has been attending the Pinehurst tournament and will go to Augusta Monday for some practice, in addition to some business duties prior to Friday's opening.

Ten Share Prize At East Lake.

Charlie Yates and 10 other golfers tied for top honors in the weekly blind bogey at East Lake yesterday with 74's. The golfers sharing the prize with Yates were: A. G. Huston, J. Michael, M. B. Brandt, L. P. Taylor, W. Burns, J. R. Harris, S. M. Davidson, E. E. Lyons, J. P. Wilhoit and F. H. Whiting.

Tied for second place with 73's were A. W. Heden, Roger Martin, W. P. Branch, George Giles, W. B. Farnsworth, A. A. Orren, L. H. Ralls, C. H. McFee, J. L. Moore, J. A. Harris, Dr. W. E. Bland, and Carl Strang.

With 75's were E. A. Thornwell, Dr. L. H. Kelly, Cliff Curry, P. G. Hanahan, R. E. Richards, C. C. Gray, J. H. Starr, M. R. Stallings, M. R. Stallings, M. W. Rodier, George Bradford, George Suggs, Gene Brooks, A. M. Perkerson, C. Y. Smith, H. White, L. D. Thompson.

The booby prize was won by Dr. C. L. Douglas.

The weekly dogfight is set for tomorrow. Entries must be in the golf shop by 12 o'clock and play will start at 1:15.

Qualifying Ends At Ansley Today.

Ansley Park's golfers will complete qualifying rounds today for the best ball tournament, the opener on the 1938 program.

Four teams came in late Saturday with N. E. to share the lead with W. E. Woodrow and Hubert Surratt, the early pace setters, in qualifying for Ansley Park's best ball handicap tournament.

Those in the tie were William Lohse and Guy Whitehead, R. J. Cunningham and Dr. R. D. Robinson, G. W. Butler and William Stafford and W. G. Bowen and R. F. Anderson.

Two teams are tied for second place with 64's. They are Professor W. O. Cheney and L. F. Kent.

Bobby Jones Makes Lone Tourney Stand

Nelson, Dudley, Cooper Seen As Favorites Charlie Yates Will Head Amateur Entries.

By ROY WHITE. A championship of champions—the fifth annual Masters' Invitation tournament—will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday on the Augusta national course, with the strongest possible field of golfers entered. There will be 18 holes Friday, 18 Saturday and 36 Sunday for the $5,000 prize money.

It's the only tournament in which Bobby Jones Jr., the retired emperor, competes, and the one event in which every entry puts all he has into every shot. To some of the participants the honor of winning is second to none and generally regarded as the outstanding golf event of America. Although he has never finished close to the top, Bobby is always the sentimental favorite. He is tops with the gallery, as long as he has a fighting chance to win and only in the last 18-hole round does the crowd follow the leaders.

Charlie Yates and George Sargent will leave early Tuesday morning for a few practice rounds Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Jones has been attending the Pinehurst tournament and will go to Augusta Monday for some practice, in addition to some business duties prior to Friday's opening.

And Jones, with more than a dozen sub-par rounds in recent practices may be expected to shoot as well as a man could who deserted tournament play, excepting this one, in 1930. He finished in a three way tie for 29th last year.

NELSON DEFENDS.

Byron Nelson, the tall 26-year-old Reading, Pa., pro, won last year with a 283, one stroke above the record set by Craig Wood and Gene Sarazen in 1935. Nelson has won only three big tournaments since the Masters' Nelson has won only three events since last April. He topped the field in the Thomasville open and a Florida tourney for only two wins this year. And it was a great start and a fine finish in both events which placed him in front. And last year at Augusta, Nelson started with a 66, dropped back to 72 and 75 and then shot a sub-par 70 to lead by two strokes.

Ralph Guldahl, second last year, has done nothing outstanding this year, but quietly has set his goal as the 1938 Masters'.

Ed Dudley, third last year and always close to the top, finished well in the Pinehurst event last week and playing on his home course looms as one of the leaders. He is certainly in the favored group now.

LIGHTHORSE HARRY.

Harry Cooper, leading the winter circuit, and fourth last year, is another of the top heavy favorites. Victor Ghezzi, who paced the field at Pinehurst and ninth last year, is another of those to be given a favorites role.

Charlie Yates, Atlanta's Walker

Atlantans Compete In Baylor Relays

Tech High, Boys' High and G. M. A's track teams will participate in the 10th annual Baylor relay Saturday afternoon at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The program will include more than 20 events for high school and junior high entries.

The three Atlanta schools hold 5 of the 13 records in the prep and high school division.

Cup member, heads the amateur list. Yates won the simon pure medal two straight years. Charlie finished last year with 301, two strokes lower than that of Jones.

George Sargent, who won the American open in 1909, is entered along with Jones and Yates to give Atlanta three entries, in the biggest golf event of the year in the south.

Horton Smith, twice winner. Gene Sarazen, who beat Wood in a play-off in 1935 and Byron Nelson, who won the British open, are to start play Friday morning.

The entry list is a "who's who" in golf and only players who are included in the following list have been invited.

All winners in the United States open, the United States amateur, the British open, the British amateur, P. G. A. champions, all members of the present Walker Cup team, all members of the present Ryder Cup team, the first 30 in the 1937 Masters', the first 30 in the American open last year, the quarter finalists in the American amateur last year, the first eight in the 1937 P. G. A., and the two leading money winners in the 1937 P. G. A. winter circuit, not included in the championship list.

The 12 money winners last year in the order of their finishers are: Nelson, 283; Ralph Guldahl, 286; Ed Dudley, 286; Harry Cooper, 287; Ky Laffoon, 290; Jimmy Thompson, 291; Al Watrous, 292; Tommy Armour, 293; Victor Ghezzi, 293; Jimmy Hines, 294; Leonard Dodson, 294, and Wiff Cox, 295.

KILLS 1,500 LB. WHALE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 26. (P)—Captain Roy Stuart of the charter boat Sport 2nd harpooned a 1,500-pound killer whale today, and attempted to enter it in the metropolitan Miami fishing tournament. It was rejected on these grounds: A whale is a mammal, not a fish. All entries must be caught on rod and reel. Guide are ineligible as anglers.

Crackers Return Home Friday; Oppose Athletics Saturday

MACKMEN HERE FOR SATURDAY, SUNDAY GAMES

Atlanta Fans Will Like Hustle, Spirit of Richards' Crew.

By JACK TROY.
SAVANNAH, March 26.—Trained down to their fighting weight and sporting a classy "bronze," the Atlanta Crackers will play five more exhibition games here and then return home Friday to prepare for their first exhibition contest at Ponce de Leon park.

Atlanta fans will see the boys in action Saturday and Sunday against Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics. It is thought Leo Moon and Bill Beckman will be sent against the A's in the series. Al Williams, Bud Thomas, Harry Kelly and Lynn Nelson are possible Athletic pitchers.

The fans will get a chance to see for the first time the new second baseman, Al Rubeling, who is a classy recruit, and Jack Bolling, the young and adroit first baseman who replaces Alex Hooks.

FAMILIAR FACES.
Cracker supporters are familiar with most of the others, excepting, of course, some of the young pitchers and the reserve catcher. They'll like the spirit and hustle of the entire ensemble.

Manager Paul Richards today announced the pitchers for the remainder of the exhibition series here. The lineup follows:

Sunday—Moon and Pezzullo.
Monday—Luman Harris.
Tuesday—Tom Sunkel.
Wednesday—John Michaels.
Thursday—Larry Miller.

Friday is an off day for the club. And Saturday, as mentioned, they'll pitch into the Athletic series. After the Sunday game, the Crackers will play three more games with the A's at Gainesville, LaGrange and Rome on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The remainder of the exhibition schedule follows:

Thursday—Oglethorpe at Atlanta.
Friday—Washington at Atlanta.

Saturday—Lanett at Lanett.
Sunday and Monday—Yankees at Atlanta.

Thursday (Season Opening) Knoxville at Atlanta.

Manager Richards remains hopeful that one more established pitcher can be added before the season opens. The A's may come through with Bud Thomas or another likely hurler.

Addition of a pitcher like Thomas would help a lot and leave little to chance. There also is a possibility that a bit of power may have to be added if Rose doesn't start hitting with the sound of the gong.

LOTS OF SPEED.
On the whole, however, Richards is satisfied with the Cracker club. It has a lot of speed and hustle.

A full month of training here is in prospect. There are only five more days to go and there's no rain in sight. The weather has been so fine Manager Richards has had to ease off in the training program.

Richards will make the second cut on Thursday. A catcher and one or two pitchers will be farmed out. There are 26 players on the squad now and only 22 or 23 will be carried back to Atlanta.

It is figured that Ross Van Antwerp, a nice-looking rookie catcher, will be sent to Jacksonville under Bob Smith.

Pezzullo May Face Crackers Wednesday.
SAVANNAH, March 26.—There is a strong possibility John Pezzullo, the idol of Savannah fans, will be loaned to the Indians next Wednesday and will pitch against Atlanta.

Manager Paul Richards is in favor of the idea if Manager Chick Autry will agree. The Indian pitching staff is a bit overworked, and such a plan would afford a real chance to see how Pezzullo

JACKETS FACE BUSY WEEK END

Swimming, Golf, Tennis, Track Scheduled Friday and Saturday.

Georgia Tech's minor athletic teams face a full week end next Friday and Saturday with four events in swimming, tennis, golf and track scheduled.

The tank team will journey to Knoxville for the annual Southeastern conference meet Friday and Saturday. Florida and Georgia appear to have the strongest aggregations in the swimming meet and the Jackets can hardly hope to bring the title home, since they have lost encounters to both.

The first golf match of the season will be held here Friday when the Jackets and Duke linksmen tie up at East Lake.

On Saturday, the tennis and golf teams will battle the soldiers of Fort Benning at Columbus while the track team opens its schedule at Clemson.

Richards will make the second cut on Thursday. A catcher and one or two pitchers will be farmed out. There are 26 players on the squad now and only 22 or 23 will be carried back to Atlanta.

Crackers Slow Down

Team Has Been Traveling at Fast Clip Causing Some Players To Be Overtrained; Good Weather Continues.

By Jack Troy

SAVANNAH, March 26.—The Crackers, now well into their fourth week of spring training, have had to slow down a bit in their work.

Manager Paul Richards has been carrying the squad along pretty fast and some of the players seem overtrained. Hence, the time for going to the park has been moved up and the training program has been slackened.

It's all because nature has played a trick on the Crackers. The purpose of coming down here for a month was to allow for plenty of working days in case of rain.

There has been no rain. Instead, the sun has been bearing down every day. There was only one bad day a couple of weeks ago and it did not keep the club from working for three hours. There have been only two cloudy days since March 1.

The Atlanta club has, in a sense, saved up for a rainy day. Chances are now they won't miss a single day and will return to Atlanta on April 2 having had a full month's practice.

So they could stand the possibility of a bit of rain in Atlanta during the remainder of the exhibition season.

Pitchers Run Just as Much.
A pitcher can't have too much running. It's great for the legs, a pitcher is no stronger than his legs. So they are being run just as much as formerly.

Work for the others has been reduced because since the exhibition games have started the players have been going to the park at 10 a. m. and leaving around 5 p. m.

That amounts to some seven hours of baseball a day and tends to make a hard-working player a little stale.

The spirit of the squad has been such, too, that on the off days Manager Richards allotted for rest, many of them went to the park anyway.

So Richards simply had to cut down on the time. Golf in the afternoons after long morning workouts helped the legs but increased the weariness.

It's a great situation, however, the one that now exists. It's far better to have to slow the work than to increase the tempo of the drills. It goes to show how finely trained the boys are.

It Will Help When Bell Rings.
All the work will help the Crackers to be ready to start in the right direction when Knoxville is engaged in the opener on April 14 at Ponce de Leon park.

Particularly will it aid the defense. The offense depends on the hitters having their timing down. And if they haven't, it's nobody's fault. They have had more hitting practice, perhaps, than any other Cracker club in history.

There is no question at all about the club's defense. It will be better than last year. And, offensively, increased team speed should aid in the manufacture of more runs. Provided, that is, the hitting measures up.

Paul Richards Praises Beckman.
Manager Paul Richards was high in his praise of Bill Beckman, Cracker right-hander, and classed him as the most dependable pitcher on the Atlanta staff.

Richards thought Beckman's exhibition against Savannah Friday was far and away the best pitching he has done this spring.

"Beckman was pitching without effort. He has great control and plenty of stuff. You can count on this being true, too, if Beckman starts off badly, he'll get better as the game goes along."

"He is very dependable and I look for him to have a fine year," Richards said.

ATLANTA TAKES FIFTH STRAIGHT OVER INDIANS

Durham, Evans Hurl Steadily; Mauldin and Chatham Hit Homers.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 26.—Bobby Durham and Art Evans pitched steady baseball today and the Crackers made it five in a row over the Savannah Indians, 9 to 3.

The game featured home runs by Marshall Mauldin and Buster Chatham. The bases were empty each time.

The Crackers, as is their custom, got away to an early lead and increased it as the game went along. There was a 10-hit attack. Mailho, Chatham and Richards, with two blows apiece, led the onslaught on Vickery and Mote.

Atlanta now has the Indians on the run. They lost the first game, 12 to 8, but since then have had the Indians down and won't let them up.

A very timely hit was provided by Al Rubeling in the fifth inning. Mauldin was safe on an error and Mailho beat out a bunt. Chatham sacrificed, Rose walked

Vol Strip Teaser To Draw Crowds On Opening Day

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 26. (UP)—Dan McGugin, who modestly admits he is one of Sally Rand's fans, announced tonight the famous dancer may open the Southern association baseball season here April 19 by going through her fan dance right on home plate.

McGugin, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the grand opening, figured Nashville's male population would turn out on mass for the event and that most of their wives would accompany them to see that everything came off as scheduled.

"If Joe Engel over at Chattanooga can stage a wild elephant hunt on his opening date as he said he would," McGugin declared, "we can go him one better and instead of turning the park into a jungle we can turn it into a sort of a night club."

"We've got our civic pride to think of. The way we look at it it's a civic promotion. The Junior League girls will be asked to participate and we've got a dancing troupe here that does the Big Apple."

He said he wasn't planning on asking the Junior League girls to do the Big Apple. "They'll just officiate," he said.

"Of course we'll have parades and brass bands," McGugin added. "You couldn't expect us to start in the season at Sulphur Dell without a lot of brass bands. All of the little towns near by will be asked to parade and furnish a band."

"That ought to pack in more than the 16,000 they expect over at Chattanooga—a fan dancer, the Junior League, a Big Apple troupe, brass bands, a monstrous parade."

McGugin failed to mention the Nashville Vols will be here too. They play Atlanta.

Attorneys Examine Race 'Sucker' Lists

NEW YORK, March 26.—(UP) Federal attorneys' aides examined more than a ton of secret files and "sucker lists" today in an investigation of supposed horse race tipsters accused of mulcting their victims of $80,000,000.

Documents were seized in a series of raids after indictments were returned charging 23 persons with mail fraud and conspiracy. Those indicted included Jacob Aikman, alleged head of the ring, and 12 of his relatives. Nearly 40 others were arrested on various charges.

Pulled Muscle May Shelve Vassa Cate for Rest of Season

BULLDOG STAR WILL UNDERGO EXAM MONDAY

Georgia Conference Track Hopes Receive Another Severe Blow.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26.—(AP) Georgia's ill-fated track team received another knockout punch this afternoon when Vassa Cate, Brunswick hurdler and dash star, was ordered to the sidelines with a pulled muscle in his side.

So badly is the muscle pulled, it may keep him out of track competition for an entire season, and certainly for a few weeks. Dr. H. I. Reynolds, university physician, said a thorough examination of the injury would be made Monday. He said Cate told him he had been troubled with pains in his side for a few days, but had not complained until he was forced to drop out of a 100-yard dash trial run this afternoon.

If Cate is lost for the season, he will be the third star forced to the sidelines this year by injuries and scholastic troubles. Bobby Packard, dash man who won both the 100 and 222-yard dashes last year in the conference meet, was ruled ineligible this year, and Quinton Lumpkin will not be able to compete due to a knee injury. Lumpkin may be able to take part in the conference meet, but that is extremely doubtful according to Coach Werners Backin. The Macon star, captain of this year's team, will not be able to take part in any dual meets.

G' MEN SMASH GAME VIOLATORS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 26.—(AP)—The Commercial Appeal in a copyrighted story said tonight federal and state game agents had smashed a ring of commercial hunters operating in swamps, woodlands and streams of four states with the arrest of 26 persons.

The story called the drive "the biggest raid in the history of this country's fight to conserve wild life."

Warrants were issued for the arrest of persons in northeast Arkansas, north Mississippi, west Tennessee and southeast Missouri, the story continued.

The paper said the violators were apprehended through the work of game agents who established themselves as prospective purchasers for St. Louis and Chicago markets of game birds.

"Purchases were brought to Memphis by the law violators themselves or shipped here by the agents," the story said. "Preserved in Memphis cold storage warehouses now are some 2,200 quail and hundreds of wild ducks which the agents bought within a 100-mile radius of Memphis and which will be used as evidence against the game law violators."

The majority of those arrested will be charged with violation of the migratory bird treaty, a federal offense, the story quoted agents as saying.

PETREL FROSH PLAY 4 GAMES

In the absence of the varsity, Oglethorpe's freshman baseball team will play several Atlanta high school teams this week on Hermance field.

Tech High will open the card on Monday, followed by Fulton High on Tuesday, Marietta on Wednesday and Marist College on Friday.

Sidney Seaburn, Tech High coach, is coaching the Smithie nine and is well pleased with the results thus far. The Smithies held Buford to a 10 to 3 score Friday afternoon at Piedmont park.

Lucien Hope will again lead Fulton High, with Louie Van Houten in charge of Marist in Friday's game.

Several former prep players are members of the Baby Petrel squad.

Auburn Polo Team Downs Ohio State

AUBURN, Ala., March 26.—An amazing and thrilling six-goal second half rally that was led by Captain Bob McNulty, Fred Schell and Willis Patterson enabled the Auburn Tigers to nose out the Ohio State polo team, 9-8, here Saturday in an extra chukker match and make a clean sweep of a two-game series with the Buckeyes.

At the end of the regulation six-period battle, the score was knotted at 8-8.

The race is an annual "consolidation" affair held after the Grand National. None of the horses which participated in yesterday's national, won by the American-owned and reared Battleship, competed today.

Eddie Rose Set for 10th Year in Southern Loop

Big Slugger Working Hard at Savannah; Carries Crackers' Offensive Hopes.

By JACK TROY.

SAVANNAH, March 26.—Eddie Rose, who staged a remarkable comeback with the Crackers last year, carries a big bundle of the team's offensive hopes on his shoulders.

The league's run-batted-in leader is expected to provide the power, or a good bit of it. And it's vital that he start hitting from the start of the season.

Rose is getting ready for his 10th consecutive season in the Southern league. In that time, with the exception of a couple of "off" seasons, he has done a great deal in the way of driving runners across the plate.

He has fallen only one shy of batting in 800 runs in nine seasons. Which is quite an average. It'll better anybody else's average who has been around for that length of time in the Southern league.

Rose has tried harder this spring than at any other time in his Southern league career. He has had more batting practice, and all that. In fact, he has ignored off days and worked so hard that it has become necessary for him to get it easier for the sake of not getting on too fine an edge.

Eddie hopes to be able to help the Atlanta club considerably. That's why he has borne down with such zeal and willingness and skipped off days to take advantage of the opportunity to get in more batting practice.

Hitting doubles has been Eddie's long suit in the Southern league. He has a total of 276. His home run total is 86. He has hit 86 triples.

He hit 11 home runs last season. HATE TO SEE HIM.

Pitchers hate to see him come up, because he's always a threat to knock the ball out of the park or park one for a couple of bases.

A fellow who is considered by the opposing pitcher to be a real threat to hit is always dangerous. They're always wary in pitching to him. He has been walked 268 times in his past four seasons. He drew 77 bases on balls last year.

It's always well to have the second hardest hitter on the club bat behind Rose because of pitchers' and managers' desire to put him on in a situation that might develop runs.

The big fellow is a threat. And when he's in form, he is the most dangerous batter in the Southern league with men on the bases. If Rose starts hitting immediately this summer, the Crackers will be off to the races. If he doesn't, a change may be necessary.

His Southern league record follows:

Joe Davis To Defend Southern Title Apr. 13

NEW ORLEANS, March 26.—(AP) Tulane University will hold its third annual interscholastic tennis tournament for southern high schools on April 13-16, the college announced today.

Defending champions are singles, Joe Davis, Nashville, Tenn., and doubles, Davis and John Hyden, of Nashville.

Bailey Wins Spalding Cross-Country Race

GRiffin, March 26.—Jack Bailey, Spalding High school sophomore, won the school's annual cross-country cake race here Thursday afternoon, breaking his own record which he had set in 1937. Thursday he raced the course in 13:36, bettering his 1937 record of 14:02 over the 2.4-mile course.

Bill Waller, captain of the Spalding High state championship football squad, finished second.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 26.—Leo Durocher, switching to the Dodgers this year, will give the Brooklyn infield more dash and color than it has had in many a campaign. Ten years of major league play have taken very little bounce, if any, out of Durocher. He still has pogo sticks for legs and ranges wide between second and third bases.

It was 11 years ago this spring that Durocher came bobbing up out of the bushes with the Yankees. He was hired as a shortstop, but the first assignment he had was that of emergency second baseman because Tony Lazzeri was hurt. His reputation was that of a brilliant fielder, but a light and erratic hitter. But the first couple of weeks he was in the lineup he was smacking base hits around the lot and driving runs over the plate. They weren't handle hits, either. They were real blows that must have astonished the enemy pitchers, who had heard slighting comment on his ability at the plate. I think they astonished Miller Huggins, too, because, one day, when somebody asked him why, if Durocher could hit that way over a stretch of 10 or 15 games, he couldn't hit that way always, Hug said:

"If you'll tell me, I'll give you $20,000, because, if he always hit like this, he would be worth that much more to us."

After a while, Leo settled down at the plate. He wasn't a power house at the plate, but he wasn't as weak as they had said he was. And what with one thing and another, he developed into one of the best infielders in baseball.

A Fresh Busher.

Another interesting phase of his development was on the personal side. No fresher busher ever came into the big leagues. And I must say for him that he never picked on any soft targets. His first was Ty Cobb, then approaching the end of his career with the Athletics, but still a fiery guy out there on the base paths. He tried to go from first to third on a single with two out and would have made it if Durocher hadn't given him the hip at second base, thus throwing him out of his stride so that he was nailed at third.

Cobb, walking angrily to his post in the outfield, snarled at Durocher as they passed: "The next time you try that I'll cut your legs off, you fresh busher!"

The average busher would have been terrified. But Durocher wasn't an average busher. If he had been, he wouldn't have given Cobb the hip. So he laughed at Ty's rage and a feud was on.

George Moriarty, who was managing the Tigers then and could have strangled Leo with one hand, was another object of his attention. Other managers, ball players, umpires and fans in the hostile towns inspired him to laughter and taunts, and it really was a wonder he survived that first season. But his impudence and his utter lack of fear carried him through.

In a New Role.

More recently, as a member of the Cardinals, he reversed his role and it was his impudence that softened up Joe Medwick and made him approachable by fans and newspapermen. Joe was a dour and churlish kid when he first came into the majors, and a fan who tried to kid him from the stands—even if the fan's humor was of a friendly nature, with no harm intended—was likely to have his ears blistered by Medwick's retort. Then Durocher, who roomed with him, went to work on him.

"Don't be so fresh," he said, and if Medwick had known Durocher in his early days he would have been popping at getting advice like that from him. "If the fans kid you, laugh at them. And if they get real tough with you, don't bowl them out or act as though you'd like to climb into the stands after them. Just smile and tip your hat. That takes all the zing out of them, and the first thing you know they'll be on your side."

Of course, this doesn't mean that Durocher has turned soft himself. He's just smarter than he was when he was a kid. But he still is a fighter when there is something to fight about—and a dead game fighter, at that, who would

Smithie Grid Team Cards Gotham Trip

Revised Schedule Allows One Week's Stay in New York.

By ROY WHITE.

Tech High's football team will spend a week in New York early in the season.

The 1938 schedule has been revised to include the New York trip of two games, completing a card of 12 contests, one more than that announced some time ago.

Etowah High, Etowah, Tenn., remains the first on the schedule, a Thursday night game September 15. Two nights later, September 17, the Smithies play Portsmouth, Va.

The trip to New York will open with a game with Pomton Lakes, Patterson, N. J., on Monday, September 26, and close with Union Endicott, N. Y., on Saturday, October 1.

MOVED UP.

Portsmouth had a home-and-home contract and their game here was moved up to September 17 and Pomton Lakes was moved from Saturday to Monday, to make the trip possible.

It's the most extensive trip ever planned for an Atlanta High school and players included will be forced to keep up with their scholastic work after returning, or be dropped from school. It's an educational jaunt and was made possible by playing a Monday and Saturday game in New York.

Pomton Lakes, Union Endicott, Marist and Charlotte, N. C., new to the Smithie schedule, although Marist and Charlotte have been played in past years.

THREE DROPPED.

Decatur, Columbia, S. C., and Asheville, N. C., were dropped from the 1937 card due to conflicting dates and contracts already signed.

Seven of the games are with members of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association and six of the 12 games will be played away from home. It's the most games the Smithies have played on foreign soil in many years.

All of the games with the possible exception of the Thanksgiving date in Charlotte will be played at night.

THE SCHEDULE.

Sept. 15—Etowah. Sept. 17—Portsmouth, Va. Sept. 26—Pomton Lakes, N. J., at N. J. Oct. 1—Union Endicott, N. Y., at N. Y. Oct. 6—Marist, here. Oct. 13—Commercial, here. Oct. 21—C. M. A., here. Oct. 28—Savannah at Savannah. Nov. 4—Richmond Academy, at Augusta. Nov. 11—Jordan at Columbus. Nov. 18—Boy's High, at N. Y. Nov. 24—Charlotte at Charlotte.

Y' Swimming Drive Will Start Monday

The Y. M. C. A.'s annual learn-to-swim campaign will get under way Monday afternoon at the Central Y. M. C. A. Miss Myra Graves, director of physical education for city schools, will assist. The free lessons are open only to elementary school boys over 10 years of age. Five classes of 40 minutes each will be given daily for two weeks.

Tests will be given each Friday and all boys learning to swim 30 feet will be given a button to reward his efforts.

Tech and Georgia On Tide Golf Card

UNIVERSITY, Ala., March 26. The Alabama golf team, composed of Captain E. M. Rupert, Bill Burke, George Goldsmith and E. D. Taylor, has been looking exceptionally good in practice this past week. Yesterday the Rupert-Taylor combine had a best ball of 69, which is one under par for the Meadowbrook course. Burke and Goldsmith had a best ball of 68, which is 4 under par.

Matches scheduled for the Tide golf team include ones with Mountainbrook Country Club, Birmingham-Southern, Woodward Country Club, Davidson College, Georgia Tech and Georgia. The team will also be entered in the Southern Intercollegiate in Athens, Ga., which will be held late in April.

FLORIDA WINS.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 26. (AP)—The University of Florida tennis team defeated Wofford College of Spartanburg, S. C., 7-0, in an intercollegiate match here today.

DOT KIRBY, PAGE ENTER SOUTHERN AT BIRMINGHAM

May 9 Tourney Includes Outstanding Players of Country.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 26. (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, national women's golf champion, will compete for the Women's Southern Golf Association title when play starts May 9 on the Birmingham Country Club course.

The Greensboro, N. C., star, medalist in the 1936 national and title winner last fall, wrote Mrs. David Roberts Jr., tournament chairman, she would play here.

Mrs. Page's entry means possible renewal of the 1937 duel with Dorothy Kirby, as the Atlanta schoolgirl who last year defeated Mrs. Page in the Southern finals already has said she would defend her title.

Miss Kirby, 18 years old at the time, won from the North Carolina titlist by a 2-to-1 score after a heated match.

Those semi-finalist Texans of the last year's tournament, Mrs. Dan Chandler, of Dallas, and Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, of Fort Worth, are also expected in the field, according to assurance received by Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. David Gaut, of Memphis, W. S. G. A. president.

Mrs. Chandler fell before Miss Kirby and Mrs. Goldthwaite, 1933 champion, as Miss Anelia Gorczyca, lost to Mrs. Page in semi-final matches.

In addition to Mrs. Page, Miss Kirby, Mrs. Goldthwaite and Mrs. Chandler, players of national prominence expected to compete include: Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C.; Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C.; Marion Miley, of Kentucky; Lily Harper, of Portsmouth, Va.; Betty Jameson, of San Antonio, and Helen Dettweiler, of Washington.

Bill Asbell Back With Tech High After Peb Tryout

Bill Asbell, one of Atlanta's ambitious young baseball stars, who had his goal set at professional baseball, has returned to Tech High for another season in prep ball.

Asbell last week went to Little Rock for a tryout with the Travelers, but found the going a bit too tough and returned home for more preliminary experience.

Although he was given a tryout, Asbell has not played in a professional game and therefore his amateur standing has not been impaired and he is still eligible for prep baseball.

Speer, Wycoff In Finish Bout On Wednesday

After two sensational bouts that ended in indecisive fashion, Frank Speer and Doug Wycoff, football heroes of different eras at Georgia Tech, Wednesday night will clash in a finish match at the Warren arena. Virgil Warren II, matchmaker, yesterday announced that Speer, who many fans believe was extremely lucky to emerge the winner in the other two bouts, had accepted terms.

Wycoff was counted out while outside the ring in the first match and in their second meeting the roughish Speer brought out the illegal piledriver to win, after he had been in tight spots virtually all the way. Many fans believe that under able officiating, Wycoff will prove his mastery.

John Katan, polished Canadian grappler, and Ray Eckart, young Texan, collide in the semi-final. Katan has looked very good here. Eckart has won his two starts in Atlanta. The opener pairs off Newcomers George Logoski, New York, and Jim Wright, Boston, both reputed topnotchers.

Newest addition to Capital Auto Mobile Company staff is Joe Weiss, well-known local salesman, who becomes a new car sales representative for this popular organization selling Oldsmobile, LaSalle and Cadillac. Mr. Weiss' wide circle of friends will be glad to know of his new connection with Capital Automobile Company which is located at 796 West Peachtree St. N. W., opposite Biltmore hotel.—(Adv.)

ROGER CONTI WINS World Billiard Title

PARIS, March 26.—(AP)—Roger Conti, of France, today won the world's three-cushion professional billiard champion, defeating Walker Cochran, San Francisco's American champion, two matches to one.

In the final match, Conti defeated Cochran 50-42. The Frenchman's best run was six while Cochran had a cluster of nine.

Jake Schaefer, of Chicago, finished third in the tournament, which was decided on a point basis. Conti had 14 points, Cochran 12 and Schaefer 8.

JOE BROWN PLANS
VOCATIONAL PLAYStudents Present Guidance
Skits as Feature of Radio Program.

Joe Brown Junior High school students are looking forward with anticipation to Thursday, April 28, at which time they will hear delegates from their school broadcasting over radio station WAGA under the supervision of Miss Louise Bloodworth, by means of the Journal School of the Air. A skit will be presented on guidance, the reigning title of the program, and several music numbers will be rendered. Five hundred pupils will tell about their electives and why they chose them.

Recently in one of Joe Brown's assemblies there was an old-fashioned spelling bee, held to determine the best speller from the nine low classes. The words were taken from the standard high school spelling book and the winner proclaimed was Betty King, of nine low three. The runner-up was Edna Chambers of nine low five.

Friday, March 25, an amateur show was held, sponsored by the Southern Conservatory of Music. Plans are being formed concerning the Joe Brown concert to be held April 12, and the pupils are looking forward eagerly to its arrival. The tickets will cost 25 cents and the public is invited.

CONNALLY CHORUS
SINGS AT CHURCHFifth and Sixth Grade Boys in Special Service.

The boys' choir of the fifth and sixth grades sang at the Cascade Methodist church Sunday night. Rev. H. H. Dillard, the pastor, had a special children's service.

We are very sorry to hear that the father of our principal, Miss Avalene Moore, died. He came to the school every day just as a pupil would until death overcame him. His death brings sadness to all his friends at Connally school.

Second grade children are enjoying working in the ground all ready for planting.

Third grade children enjoyed going to the Cascade theater last Thursday afternoon to see Heidi. They had been studying Switzerland and, of course, the pictures were interesting to all.

Fourth grade wrote a letter to their sponsor, Mr. Aldridge.

Sixth grade missed Mrs. Taylor very much Monday but we enjoyed having Mrs. Lyons as our supply teacher.

Many children in our school are fortunate enough to have nice new bicycles. We want them to be a pleasure and not a pain. We have the poster with the safety rules for riding a bicycle placed in the hall where everybody can read it.

PRIZE FUNDS AT ADAIR
BUY SAFETY POSTERS

High 5-1 sold the most tickets to the P-T. A. minstrel show. They were proud to win the dollar and a half given as first prize.

The second prize was won by High 6. They are planning to buy safety posters with it, as they are working on a unit of safety now.

Low 4 are glad to have Dolores Moorefield, Patricia Warneke and Geraldine Wesley back in school. They have been absent on account of illness.

Low 5 are enjoying studying wild flowers.

The boys of Low 6 report that two tadpoles are frisking around the aquarium with two front legs.

The boys of High 5-2 are busy making models of early lamps in their study of light.

The chorus of Low and High 6 enjoyed going to practice with Miss Weegand and many other children from neighboring schools to Ragdale school.

WILLIAMS CLASS HAS BIRD HOUSE CONTEST

High 6 are interested in their volleyball games. They are planning to play with Luckie this week.

High 5 are having a bird box contest. We are planning to bring the boxes to school on April 1. There will be a first prize and second prize given for the best box.

High 4 are just beginning to work with clay. We hope to make pots and tiles to give our mothers. The best pieces will be baked and then painted.

High 3 had a nice time when the class went to see "Snow White."

Low 2 are planting seeds in eggshells for Easter.

Two O'Keefe Teachers Will Take Group of Students to Washington

The following groups, accompanied by Miss Colvin and Mr. Hastings, will leave Atlanta March 27 for Washington, D. C.: Walter Williamson, John Willingham, Joe Mahanay, Charles Lindsey, Brewster Sheats, Elizabeth Almon, Elizabeth Guyton, Marion Mott, Margaret Bragg, Mary Ledsinger, Patricia Edwards and Lila Russ.

They plan to visit supreme court, capitol, Annapolis, Mount Vernon and other places of interest while there, returning April 1. The science club, composed of science teachers of the city, made a trip to Hard Labor creek this week end. It is a United States government reservation for recreation with cabins and a community house.

MAKE FURNITURE
AT CAPITOL VIEW

High 6 have a beautiful polyphenus moth. They collected cocoons last fall. Some they kept and some they gave to other friends. They hope their other cocoons will open soon.

High 5 have made some interesting articles of furniture for their living room. In their room they have made some articles of communication and travel.

Low 5 and Low 6 have planted a papyrus bed on their sand table. In their study of soil, they compare different kinds of soil to find which is best in which to grow pansies.

Low and High 4 have been interested in making clay books or tablets to put in their museum.

Low and High 3 are enjoying "traveling in old and new ways." The boys are making a train, a railroad track and a tunnel.

Low and High 2 are making books and pictures about their trip to the Wren's Nest.

Low 1 are finishing up their farm. They also made some rabbits.

Low and High Kindergarten have a monkey that High 6 gave them. They are watching everyday for a butterfly to come out.

In all classrooms in our school the children are not only learning about soil conservation, but they are really using the soil by planting all kinds of seeds to make their rooms, homes and community attractive.

In Low 6, Miss Callaway's class, the boys made seven flower "flats." We planted seven kinds of flower seed in these flats.

Miss Hogan's class gave a splendid assembly on soil conservation and flowers.

Spring borders are being made in all classrooms. They look bright and pretty.

We haven't had a happier experience this year than having Minnie Hamilton, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Hamilton, missionaries to China, talk to us about living experiences in China.

Minnie is just a sixth grade child; she stood on the stage and talked to us with the ease of a grown person.

GARDENS AT STANTON
PREPARED FOR SPRING

All the children of the sixth grade who have been out with measles and mumps are now well and have returned to school.

During the last few days of lovely spring weather we have been very busy getting our gardens ready for the summer, and planning different methods to prevent soil erosion on the school grounds. All of our gardens are on the side of hills, so we have quite a problem.

The P-T. A. gave the kindergarten a large linoleum rug, and the children are thrilled sitting on the floor for their story-telling.

Superintendent's Message

March 27, 1938.

My dear Boys and Girls: What kind of a home are you helping to make now? What kind of a home will you help to make when you establish one of your own? These are two questions I wish you would discuss with your teachers and with each other. The closer association given to us by any of our social institutions is our home life, and the closer we associate with people the more difficult it is sometimes to get along together. The more we know about each other and the closer we live to each other the more opportunities for conflict come into our lives, but the reverse of this proposition is also true. The closer we live to each other the better chance we have to serve each other, and the more opportunities we have to make ourselves dear to each other. How are we using these opportunities in our homes?

And then there is the great question that will come to all of you sometime before very long, and that is what kind of a home are you going to establish for yourselves? How careful and thoughtful you should be as boys and girls in your treatment of each other when you realize that out of those with whom you associate now, you may some day select your mate—your husband or your wife—your family, your own home life! No subject is more important than the attitude of boys toward girls and girls toward boys. Whether it is small boys or older ones, or large girls or tiny ones, each should have the utmost respect for the other; to treat one another as ladies and gentlemen; to work with each other in helping to make the community better; and to strive earnestly to learn each other well so that from the great number of boys and girls with whom you associate you may be able to select the proper one to fit into your lives and help make you better and to make the world better.

In the attitude we assume toward others, the spirit of helpfulness that we display and in the service that we render to each other each of us is building a character that will help or hinder us in establishing the right kind of home life. "How can my life today in school help me to make my home better today, and to make a better home of my own as the years go by?"—this is one of the most important problems which face every boy and every girl.

Fulton County School News

Central Park School.

A unit of study on Georgia has been worked out by Mrs. Webb's sixth grade at Central Park school, in East Point. The pupils have studied the history, geography and possibilities of their state and have been very interested in the project.

The whole school sponsored a moving picture at the local theater recently to raise funds and each grade realized a benefit from it.

A newspaper which was entirely a pupil-directed activity was published by one of the seventh grades at Central Park. The co-editors were Charles Wallace and L. E. Casey.

The same seventh grade has made puppets, dressed them as historical characters, built a puppet theater out of a goods box, and has presented plays which they have written themselves. L. E. Casey wrote an especially good play.

Liberty-Guin School.

The seventh grade at the Liberty-Guin school is preparing to get out the April edition of their Herald. As an English lesson each pupil wrote an article for the paper and the best ones will be published.

Some used school activities for their subjects and others used items of current events.

Katherine Rainwater has been selected from the school to take part in the healthy play to be given by Fulton county pupils for Mrs. Roosevelt on Monday, March 28.

Joneta Burdette wrote the best essay in the ready writers' contest and Corinne Atkinson will present Liberty-Guin in the county-wide spelling contest.

George Chapman has been elected president of the fifth grade. Before electing officers the class studied methods of official elections and made posters in connection with it.

The second grade pupils are reading health stories and trying to learn to practice health habits. The third grades are also stressing health and have two pupils representing a doctor and a nurse to check up on health habits each morning. Thomas Webb and Bessie Mae Kirby recently held these duties.

Jernigan, secretary of Junior Red Cross was out to talk to the pupils last week.

Chattahoochee School.

The seventh grade at Chattahoochee school has a home maker's club which presented an assembly program last week. Home making was the theme, and Whistlers' "Mother" was posed by Juanita Compton as a background for the rest of the program.

The sixth and seventh baseball teams are enjoying their new equipment given by the P-T. A. The marble tournament is well under way with Miss Mauldin as sponsor.

A glue club has been organized and will make its first appearance on the daddies' night program.

Two hundred and sixty-five new library books have been added to the school and the pupils are anxious to begin reading them.

Bolton School.

The Bolton seventh grade has elected the following pupils as officers: Frank Merritt, president; Evelyn Harper, vice president; Doris Allen, secretary, and Carolyn Bolton, treasurer.

The patrol boys have been presented new belts and badges by Officer Thomas. He also showed a safety moving picture to the pupils when he visited the school.

Next Monday the teachers and P-T. A. will entertain the upper grade pupils at a party, and on Friday a party will be given for the lower grades.

The pupils enjoyed a talk by Rev. Harold C. Smith at a recent assembly.

The school grounds are being improved and flowers planted by Mrs. Adams and the seventh grade. A bird house contest has closed and the prizes were won by W. T. Evans, Donald Sewell and Leo Carlton.

New Yorker Comes Here for a Day
Just To Visit Home of Childhood

Prentiss B. Reed Welcomed Back to Atlanta by Mrs. Ida Belle Greer, Owner of Property Once Owned by His Father.

A longing to see the home of his childhood brought a former Atlanta here from New York for a one-day visit last week, it was disclosed yesterday.

Mrs. Ida Belle Greer was working in the garden of her home at 730 Boulevard, S. E., when the man tapped at the gate.

"My name is Prentiss B. Reed," he said. "My father once owned this property, and I spent my boyhood here. May I come in and look around a while?"

Mrs. Greer remembered the name John C. Reed in the abstract of the title to the property. She listened sympathetically to Reed, a pleasant-mannered, middle-aged man, told his mission.

"I've come all the way from New York just to see the old home," he said. "I've been wanting to come for years, for I always loved the place. I spent so many happy hours in this house."

Mrs. Greer invited him in. "Why, it's beautiful!" he exclaimed. "That was father's library. Often in the evening I would lie on the floor by his chair, while he worked on a case for next day's court."

And these other rooms are exactly where I thought they would be. How have you kept everything so lovely? The house and grounds are nicer now than when we moved away in 1905. I'm so glad I've come."

Reed remained for an hour, drinking in the view of Grant park from the veranda of the house, as memories of forgotten days were called to mind.

At last, hesitatingly, he entered a waiting taxicab.

"I'm going back to sell insurance again in Manhattan," he said to Mrs. Greer, "but part of me will forever remain in Georgia."

DEKALB RED CROSS
DRIVE INAUGURATED

DeKalb county's twenty-first annual Red Cross roll call was inaugurated at an organization dinner last night at the Decatur Woman's Club, when workers in the new campaign were given final instructions.

Dr. Philip Davidson, head of the Agnes Scott College history department, is chairman of this year's campaign.

Dr. Davidson urged workers to cover every section of the county, pointing out that the drive is to go to every home and business in the county.

The drive, during which 3,000 members will be sought in the county, will continue through April 2.

Dr. Davidson urged ministers of all churches in the county to make announcements of the local campaign from their pulpits tomorrow.

Mrs. Maria D. Harper, new executive secretary of the DeKalb Red Cross, has announced the following sub-chairmen of the campaign who will work under Dr. Davidson:

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—

An early rally failed to hold in today's stock market and a last-minute burst of selling swept leaders down two to five points.

Losses, on the whole, ranged from fractions to two points, but there were a few relapses of 5 or 10 points.

With today's short session the market finished one of its worst weeks since the sharp break last fall. The ticker tape was bedlam at the beginning and end of the 2-hour proceedings and transfers totaled 1,383,370 shares, the largest volume for a Saturday since October 23, 1929.

The Associated Press average of 30 stocks was off 7.4 of a point at 116.3, a new bottom since March 6, 1935. On the week the composite was down 4.9 points, the fourth consecutive week's setback.

The breadth of today's session was indicated by the fact 899 individual issues changed hands, several hundred more than usual at the week end. Of the aggregate there were 618 declines, 197 advances and 194 were unchanged. New lows for 1935 were registered by 559 stocks.

The list slipped at the start, with overnight dumping of additional liquidation from discouraged holders depressing virtually all groups.

Offerings were soon absorbed, however, and leaders performed a quick about-face that converted initial declines running to 2 points or so into advances of as much as 10 points and put the recording machinery in arrears about 3 minutes while the run-up lasted.

The pace then slowed and traders began to cash in profits. Another slide then got under way which picked up momentum in the last half hour and landed most leaders at lower levels of the week. Mild support appeared at the last and extreme declines were averted in some cases.

Steele led the day's recovery attempt, but they reacted with only minor fractions at the end.

Unwarranted Pessimism in U. S.

Rising Steel Production and Increased Electric Power Output, Reports Financial Writer.

During the absence of Charles F. Spence on his annual two weeks' vacation, "The Weekly Financial Review and Outlook" will be written by George T. Hughes.

NEW YORK, March 26.—There is no point in minimizing the severity of the recession, but there is no point in magnifying it. One is as much of an error as the other, and either may be costly. No one denies the fact of business recession.

The Department of Commerce, which in this speech may be said to reflect the official view, admits that the last four months of curtailment at the close of 1932 "wiped out" most of the gains registered since 1930. The President admits it, although he stoutly denies New Deal responsibility.

If, also, judgment is to be preserved, it is essential that, as far as possible, emotion and prejudice be set aside. For most of us, that is a condition extremely difficult to fulfill, but intelligent appraisal is out of the question unless just that is done.

Simple Explanations Rejected.

The natural impulse for business is to assess all the blame to administration policies and the natural attitude of the other side is to assert that "selfishness, on the part of a few" is the real barrier to recovery. Now, it is true that business sentiment and business itself have been seriously affected by heavy taxation, onerous restrictions and the fear of government competition. It may be, too, that there are "selfish interests," unwilling to make concessions necessary to industrial revival. It is a mistake, nevertheless, to over-emphasize the part played by politicians and by industrialists, individually or as a group. The truth is that the deflation, which is still continuing, although it is now spreading to other parts of the world, cannot be explained so simply.

The first symptom of the trouble to come was not primarily political, but financial. It was the contraction in bank credit, which in a year and a half ago and which is still continuing, although in a somewhat different form. Next was the downward turn of commodity prices, which started last spring and which also is still in progress.

Moreover, the deflation has checked this headway that to gain it is not to be accomplished merely by repeating certain tales, desirable as they may be on other grounds. Inventories have to be worked off, and supplies, accumulated in anticipation of an inflationary price rise which never came, have to be used up.

Although the business news of the week is not particularly encouraging, it has its favorable items. Steel production is rising counter to the normal seasonal trend. That is true also of electric power production. Automobile output just about holds its own, and there was a decline in building construction. These changes may not be significant of recovery, but at least they are not indicative of a resumption of the normal downward trend. The danger is that businessmen will be unduly influenced by the break in the stock market. The recent decline in stocks does not necessarily forecast a similar recession in business.

Last week, it was the foreign situation which provided the disturbing element in the week's news. The domestic outlook, for the time being, attention is diverted from Europe, but there is no assurance that another crisis is not in the making over there. The French financial situation continues critical. The British government refuses a specific pledge of aid to the Czechs, but no one can tell what would happen if Hitler should decide to move farther into the southeast.

Private advices from London point out that Germany has obtained very little material wealth or advantage from its absorption of Austria. The gold and foreign exchange she acquires is non-existent. The Austrian trade balance was achieved with the help of tourist expenditures; which are sure to fall off now. British, French and American visitors are not going to flock to Vienna under Nazi control.

These very general and somewhat elementary observations are pertinent, for this is the stock market, and the Wall Street community, which takes its cue from the stock market, acted as though the deflation would never end. Of course, they know that this is not so. Every recession passes sooner or later and every deflation breaks itself out if allowed to. The qualification is added because now, as in 1929, there are demands that "something be done."

The house banking and currency committee, only the other day, decided temporarily to drop that feature of the Patman bill calling for government ownership of the Federal Reserve Banks and to concentrate on a mandate to the governors of the Federal Reserve Bank to raise the commodity index or the so-called price level until full employment of all persons able and willing to work shall have been achieved, and until the price level shall at least reach the all-commodity index of 100 as established by the Department of Labor for the year of 1926, which for the years 1914-30, inclusive.

The gloom in Wall Street is understandable by the recession in Wall Street's own particular business, entirely aside from the general situation. One hears constantly reports of this or that house disorganizing, or merging, or some other firm. A good many of these reports are likely to prove true. There is not enough business in the Street to go around, and the Street will have to take the medicine it has so often prescribed for others, namely curtailment. This writer at least does not believe that trading is fixed permanently on its present low scale.

THREE WOMEN HURT AS HIT-RUN DRIVER RAMS AUTOMOBILE

Negro Held by Police Says
He Helped Right Other Car in Accident.

Three generations of Atlanta women—a grandmother, her daughter and her granddaughter—were severely injured yesterday when a speeding automobile crashed into their car and turned it over at the intersection of Atlanta avenue and Martin street.

Mrs. W. T. Leslie, 35, driver of the car, was pinned beneath the steering wheel until bystanders righted the overturned auto.

The automobile which struck them careened wildly down Martin street and overturned. The six-foot negro driver leaped from his roadster and fled on foot before police arrived, witnesses told officers.

A negro listed as James Harper, 28, later was arrested and turned over to city police on "suspicion of hit-run accident." County Policemen P. F. Bradford and W. L. Duncan arrested him on Jonesboro road. Police said he signed a statement saying he leaped from the overturned roadster after it struck the car driven by Mrs. Leslie but did not leave the scene until after helping right the woman's car.

Mrs. Lula Cox, 81, suffered severe bruises and a possible fractured leg but was not in serious condition, relatives said at Georgia Baptist hospital, where the three were taken.

Her daughter, Mrs. Mary G. Guard, 60, was in "critical" condition last night. She suffered severe head injuries and a badly torn right hand, it was said. Mrs. Leslie received head injuries and bruises but her condition was not regarded as serious.

All of the women lived at the home of Mrs. Leslie, at 33 Bates avenue, N. E.

The crash occurred about 3:30 o'clock.

Three Generations of Atlanta Women in Auto Wreck

After crashing into an automobile in which a grandmother, mother and daughter—three generations of Atlanta women—were riding, the negro driver of this overturned roadster fled on foot from the scene of the accident. He later was arrested. The roadster shown above hurtled on after overturning the women's automobile, went out of control and overturned.

year-old insurance agent were injured yesterday in auto-pedestrian accidents. The insurance man was victim of a hit-run driver while police struck off the other two accidents as "unavoidable."

The two boys, Charles Peaby, of 139 Dahlgreen avenue, and Samuel Harris, of 844 Park street, were not hurt seriously. Charles received a broken leg when he dashed out into the path of an oil company truck at Fair street and Moreland avenue, while Samuel received a fractured shoulder when he stepped into the path of an automobile pulling away from the curb, police said.

C. A. Fretwell, 65, of 1079 West Peachtree street, was knocked down at West Peachtree street and Linden avenue intersection by an automobile which sped away. He was taken to his home and treated by a physician for bruises and shock.

Police launched a search for the hit-run driver, described by witnesses. No cases were booked against the oil truck driver, A. R. Chalker, 37, of Marietta, or against the autoist, H. H. Lewis, 32, of Peoples street.

2 MINISTERS INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

The Rev. H. L. Byrd, presiding elder of the Athens-Elberton district of the Methodist church, was in "serious" condition tonight at Emory University hospital following an automobile accident.

Hospital attendants said the minister's neck was broken.

The Rev. B. L. Betts, pastor of the Oconee Street Methodist church, Athens, was suffering with a broken arm. His condition was described as "fair."

The Athens clergymen were brought to the hospital in an ambulance from Jackson, attaches said, near where the accident occurred late today.

'Dividend' Is Paid Political Backers

FREEPORT, N. Y., March 26. (AP)—Something new in politics came out of Freeport's recent municipal election—a 21 per cent "dividend" for 41 citizens who financed the Home Rule Party's unsuccessful campaign.

W. W. Sutton, the party's chairman, ordered a balance remaining after costs of the campaign had been paid returned today to contributors. Associates explained his rather unorthodox political move in this way:

"It's his first venture into politics—he doesn't know all the old rules yet."

I. O. O. F. OF GEORGIA TO MEET THURSDAY

Commanding Patriarch Militant of World Adams Will Speak.

A state-wide meeting of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held Thursday night at the Red Men's wigwam, 160 Central avenue, under supervision of Dixie Canton No. 5, patriarch militant.

Arthur G. Adams, general commanding patriarch militant of the world, will be principal speaker. General Adams has been a member of the lodge since 1910. He has served 22 years as district attorney of Tompkins county, New York.

Frank C. Bowen, captain of Dixie Canton No. 5, will preside. W. B. Walker, grand high priest of the grand encampment of Georgia, will introduce the grand lodge encampment and Rebekah Assembly officers.

D. L. Nichols, department commander of the patriarch militant of Georgia, will introduce General Adams. The arrangements committee includes Frank C. Bowen, Fletcher W. Laird, H. J. Bridgewater, George Avery, P. A. Abercrombie, J. F. Goodwin, W. B. Walker, E. E. Graham, R. W. McGill and D. L. Nichols.

General Adams was initiated into Ithaca Lodge No. 71, and served as noble grand in 1912. In 1913 he joined Iriquois Encampment No. 16 and served as chief patriarch in 1917. He was elected grand master of New York in 1928 and was appointed to his present post in September, 1937.

MRS. SUSAN E. G. SLOAN SUCCUMBS IN MACON

MACON, Ga., March 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Susan Estelle Guyton Sloan died tonight at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Gavin, here. She had been ill for many years.

Mrs. Sloan was the mother of Mrs. Robert J. Flournoy, of Columbus; C. Guyton Sloan, Mrs. Willard M. Murphey and Mrs. Gavin, of Macon.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Burghard-Connally Chapel here.

Odd Fellows Speaker

ARTHUR G. ADAMS.

SEA LABOR CLAUSES WILL BE REWRITTEN

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP) Chairman Thomas, Democrat, Utah, of the senate labor committee, said today that labor provisions of the merchant marine bill would be "almost completely rewritten."

At a meeting today, Thomas said, the committee instructed representatives of the labor board, the Labor Department and the maritime commission to draw up a complete substitute "stressing the spirit and theory of the national labor relations act."

HALF OF NLRB STRIKES END WITH AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(UP)—The National Labor Relations Board announced tonight that more than half of the 9,150 labor disputes it has settled since 1935 have been ended by agreement of labor and capital.

Through its efforts, the NLRB said, 519 threatened strikes involving 131,589 employees, have been averted and an additional 1,113 strikes have been settled and 177,127 workers reinstated after strikes or lockouts.

WHY

WHY— do men with families and necessary money and income delay the purchase of a home?

WHY— did they not buy during the past few years when prices were lower?

WHY— in the face of increasing real estate prices, do they still delay?

WHY— do they postpone home ownership in the face of steadily increasing rentals and the scarcity of desirable living quarters?

WHY— do they postpone home ownership when there is a supply of fine homes to be had at favorable prices?

WHY— with loan money plentiful at the lowest interest rates this generation has ever known, do these family men remain inactive?

WHY— when a home is the most desirable thing that money can buy, do they hesitate?

WHY— when more happiness in the realization of home ownership can be bought than can be had through any other source, do they procrastinate?

WHY— in this day of golden opportunity, do they wait?

For your own security, for your family's sake, for the protection of your future—WHY don't you definitely decide on home ownership today?

Atlanta Music Notes

By MOZELLE
HORTON YOUNG

Georgia Composers Honored.

Four Georgia composers will be honored at the musicale to be presented by the music group of the Studio Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Worcester Jr., 3660 Peachtree road, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Worcester is chairman of the music group and in charge of this program.

The composers whose works will make up the program are Hugh Hodgson, head of the fine arts department of the University of Georgia, and Franciszek Zachara, head of the piano department of Brenau College, both concert pianists, as well as composers, and Clifford K. Pullen and Joseph Lee Edwards, both Atlanta businessmen who make music and composing a hobby.

Mr. Edwards will play his own piano compositions, "Sun Dance," "Prelude," and "Dark Waters."

Three piano compositions composed by Mr. Hodgson will be played by J. T. Pittman, young Atlanta pianist. They are "Polka Dots," "Minuet in Old Classic Style," and "Ichauway Negro Dance."

The program will close with Mr. Zachara playing his own "Concerto in E Major." Doris Hancock will play the orchestral part and third movements, and Martha Thigpen will play the second piano part for the second movement.

Music Club's Final Program.

The season's final program of the Atlanta Music Club will be given at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium at 8:30 Tuesday night. Featured on the program will be the Emory Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, Irene Leftwich, pianist, and Minna Hecker, coloratura soprano. Accompanists for the Glee Club will be Richard Felder and Carl Felder.

The Glee Club will open the program singing three numbers, "Come and Trip It," Handel; "Come Again Sweet Love," Dowland; and "Maiden Fair, Oh Deign To Tell," by Haydn.

This group will be followed by two piano solos by Miss Leftwich, "Sonata in D Major," Scarlatti, and "Ronod, Opus 11," by Hummel.

Miss Hecker will be soloist with the Glee Club in the "Inflammatus et Accensus," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater."

Miss Leftwich will play the "Prelude, Choral and Fugue," by Cesar Franck.

And the program will close with the Glee Club, with Miss Hecker again as soloist, singing Mark Andrews' "The Highwayman," based on a poem by Alfred Noyes.

Following the program there will be a reception in the ballroom of the club, to which the entire membership is invited, honoring Mrs. Thad Morrison, retiring president, and her executive board, and Mrs. Harold Cooleidge, the new president, and her executive board.

St. Louis Symphony Program.
The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will be presented in the All-Star Concert Series at the Fox Theater at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. Vladimir Golschmann is the conductor. This is a return engagement of the St. Louis orchestra, they having made a tremendous success with Atlanta music lovers in their concert here last season.

The program is one rich in symphonic beauty. The symphony to be played is Sibelius' "Symphony No. 2, Opus 43, in D Major." Other works on the program are Berlioz's overture, "Roman Carnival," the Ballet Suite, "Cephalé et Procris," by Gretry-Mottl; "Waltzes," from "Der Rosenkavalier," by Strauss, and "Palovetian Dances," from Borodin's "Prince Igor."

Young Artists' Club.
The monthly meeting of the Young Artists' Club will be held at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night at the home of Alice Gray Harrison, 43 Golf circle, N. E.

Junior Division Program.
The Junior Division of the Atlanta Music Club will give their monthly program at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Studio Arts building. Margaret Fraser is counselor of the division.

In and About Atlanta Orchestra.
The In and About Atlanta High School orchestra is holding weekly rehearsals with a view to presenting two programs this spring. The orchestra has been invited to play for the opening session of the Georgia Education Association on April 14, at the city auditorium. It is hoped that Arthur Williams, from Oberlin, Ohio, who is coming to Georgia to act as judge in the State Music Festival, will conduct the orchestra in this performance. The orchestra will play also for the city-wide high school concert on May 5.

At the last meeting the following officers were elected: President, Herbert Karp, from Boys' Club.

SPRINGTIME IS NEW SKIN TIME
Harsh winter winds roughen, darken skin, but Nature is kind. It "flakes off" outer layers (invisible to the eye), helps you to new lighter skin. But this slow action must be speeded up and Black and White Bleaching Cream hurries natural "flaking off" of outer layers of skin—leaving it fairer—lighter. It also aids in removing blackheads and acts as an antiseptic dressing for pimples and blemishes due to external causes. Get Black and White Bleaching Cream today—Money back if not satisfied. 30c, 50c jars. Trial size, 10c. At drug and toilet goods counters.

IRENE LEFTWICH.

FRANCISZEK ZACHARA.

MRS. HAROLD COOLEIDGE, newly elected president of the Atlanta Music Club, who with other newly elected officers of the club will be honor guest at the reception following the program at the Atlanta Woman's Club Tuesday night.

German folk song with a new musical setting by a young Atlanta pianist, George Maro Waters, and "Thy Beaming Eyes," by MacDowell. Mr. Waters will play her accompaniments. Laura Shallenberger, pianist, will play the final section of Liszt's "Concerto in E Flat." Mr. Waters will be at the second piano for this number.

Edith Adair West is chairman of junior radio programs for the federation and has arranged this program and three others, to be presented over WSB on April 12, 19 and 26, at 5:15.

Fountain-Hough Rites Announced.

ADRIAN, Ga., March 26.—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fountain announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Fountain, to James Edwin Hough, of Atlanta, the ceremony having taken place on March 19 at the Epworth Methodist church in Atlanta, with Rev. Wallace Rogers officiating.

Mrs. Groover Martin presented a program of music. Hal Smith served as best man for the groom, and Miss Georgia Anne Hannah was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant.

The lovely bride wore a beige suit trimmed in blue fox with navy accessories. Her flowers were of sweetheart roses and gardenias. Her only ornament was a gold bracelet belonging to the groom's great aunt, family heirloom over 100 years old.

Miss Hannah wore a navy ensemble with navy accessories. Her flowers were navy roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hough will make their home at 526 Hardendoff avenue, N. E.

Miss Johnson Becomes Bride of Mr. Hunter.

Of interest is the marriage of Miss Kathryn Laura Johnson to Leyton Bullock Hunter, both of College Park. The ceremony was performed on March 12 in Chattanooga by Rev. C. M. Pickler in the presence of a few close friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Smith, formerly of College Park.

The bride was lovely in a light blue ensemble with navy accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses showered with valley lilies. Mrs. Hunter is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Johnson and sister of Thomas Johnson. She received her education at Russell High and G. S. C. W. For several years she has been on the faculty of the Samuel R. Young school in College Park.

Mr. Hunter is the son of Mrs. W. P. Hunter and the late Mr. Hunter. He is the brother of Eastman, Pressman and Perry Hunter, of Atlanta; Horace Hunter, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. J. Willis Moore, of New York city. He was graduated from Georgia Tech in the class of 1936 and has since been connected with the Southeastern Underwriters Association.

BLAKELOCK EXHIBIT GIVEN TO MUSEUM

'Moon Magic' To Be Exhibited Permanently in Atlanta.

By ELLEN ST. JOHN BARNWELL.

"Moon Magic," a glorious painting by R. A. Blakelock, returns to Atlanta—this time to stay!

It was an outstanding favorite in the Robert C. Vose collection shown at the High Museum of Art in January. Having come from Boston, today it enters the permanent exhibit at the museum and may be seen without charge.

In the right-hand corner of the canvas there is an arrow head painted in crimson which blocks in the signature—Ralph A. Blakelock. Although this is added proof that it is an original by the greatest painter of moonlight it also reveals his years spent with the Indians. Up and down the rivers and across the prairies he lived with the roving redskins and absorbed from them their reverence of nature.

Settles in New York. But he turned from the life of the wigwams to settle in New York. There with his wife and nine children he suffered extreme poverty. When the buying public finally discovered the value of his paintings he could enjoy neither the fame nor wealth. Soon after he died in a mental institution.

In this picture, "Moon Magic," he captured in oils that vibrant, illusive splendor of moonlight in a summer's sky. In sparkles on a turbulent brook and transforms an overhanging tree into an intricate pattern of black lace. Technical balance is perfect and much of the radiant effect is gained by juxtaposition of color.

Listed in Cyclopidia. This valuable painting is listed in Champlin's cyclopedia of "Painters and Paintings," volume 1, and is considered a splendid example of the master's work.

The picture is presented to the museum through the graciousness of the Friends of Art, and the contributions of Mesdames George B. Hinman, Herbert Oliver and George Winship.

The Friends of Art numbers among its members many prominent Atlanta businessmen whose purpose is to collectively purchase works of art for permanent exhibit at the museum. There is no charge of admission and the museum is open to the public from 9 to 5 on week days and from 2 to 5 on Sundays.

COBB WILL DISCUSS FEDERAL FARM ACT

Former AAA Director Will Address Kiwanians.

Cully A. Cobb, president of the Ruralist Press, Inc., will discuss the "Effect on the South of the Federal Farm Act" at a meeting of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club, at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Ansley hotel.

Cobb has been closely associated with the problems of agriculture for many years. He came to Atlanta in 1919 as editor of the Southern Ruralist, and in 1933 was placed in charge of the cotton program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. In 1936 he was made director of the southern division of the AAA. He resigned in September, 1937.

While serving as president of the American Agricultural Editors' Association from 1923 to 1928, he conducted agricultural study tours of western Europe, Canada, Mexico and the United States. He is a director of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and chairman of its livestock committee. His address Tuesday will be broadcast over radio station WAGA.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 27, 1938.

NOW FOR TEMPERANCE

The rules and regulations for the control of legal liquor sales in Georgia promulgated by Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head should insure orderly, decent handling of the business in those counties which have voted for legalization of distilled alcoholic beverages.

Following a complete clarification of doubtful points in the law's interpretation, by the careful ruling issued by Attorney General M. J. Yeomans, Commissioner Head has issued the official rules by which liquor is to be handled by distillers, wholesalers, warehousemen and retailers. These rules are plain and there seems to be no room for misunderstanding. Which is as it should be.

Georgia, in abandoning the well-meant but futile attempt to outlaw whisky by total prohibition, has provided a means for its sale which should leave no room for the bootlegger. The citizen will in future be able to purchase a reasonable amount of legal liquor at reasonable prices. He may thus uphold the law and do his part in taking out of the control of the criminal element the liquor revenue which has been the cause of so much crime during the so-called "dry" era.

At the same time the liquor business will provide a proper and welcome new source of legitimate revenue for the state. The money which bootleggers have been getting will now be devoted to the advancement of the state's well-being.

Under the new system the cause of true temperance should be advanced. It is strictly up to the citizens of the state to so obey the law and so conduct themselves that the evils which arose, both under the ancient saloon system and under the prohibition law, will not recur.

In some states where somewhat similar systems of state control have been adopted there have been unfortunate revelations of official grafting in operation of the law. The Georgia regulations provide every possible safeguard against this. Commissioner Head must keep the grafters out of the Georgia set-up. If any such taint was suspected in this state, it would be the officials charged with the operation of the law who would suffer most. From Commissioner Head down they must see that no such suspicion may arise here.

It is now possible to buy, in orderly manner, good quality liquor under legal, orderly conditions. The man who continues to patronize the bootlegger is not a good citizen, is not an asset to the state. It becomes both the duty and the privilege of every Georgian to observe the law scrupulously, himself, and to give full support to the enforcement officers in their task of preventing violations of the law.

For a quarter of a century Georgia has attempted to enforce an unenforceable law. Now that liquor is legalized and its sale is strictly regulated, it is up to state, county and city officials to see that those regulations are enforced.

There must be no graft; the bootlegger must be eliminated entirely, and the cause of true temperance must be advanced. Good citizens can see that these objectives are gained by giving their fullest support to the officers charged with enforcement of the law.

THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Once again the Red Cross roll call sounds. Tomorrow the volunteer workers take the field for the annual enrollment of members.

Fired with enthusiasm for the cause, under the urge of able leadership, workers will vie with each other for the distinction of doing the best job.

Services performed by the Red Cross for the benefit of those in distress are inestimable. The good accomplished in relieving suffering is too well known for detailed enumeration. In times of disaster, when demoralization so often holds sway, the Red Cross steps in for the sole purpose of helping the unfortunate victims. When floods, earthquakes, epidemics strike, no matter in what section of the nation, the Red Cross is the first to reach the scene with a helping hand and a word of reassurance. The stricken, the demoralized take heart, for they realize they have not been forgotten.

But there must also be no forgetting when all is serene and disaster does not stalk the land. Enrollment now means that in times of distress the unfortunate sufferers will not then be forgotten.

Mr. Chamberlain, who was advertised to grapple with realities for the championship of Europe, turns out to be another pro wrestler who mislaid the scenario.

THE AMERICAS DRAW CLOSER

War threats in the Old World have accomplished for the New World a condition long devoutly sought with but little success. For years there has been a deep need for a closer relationship and a better understanding among the countries of North and South America, both individually and collectively.

Now that the Four Horsemen ride the European skies, straws in the wind reveal the natural reaction that the attention of the American nations is being turned more to their neighbors north and south. Travel booking to European ports, New York reports say, has dropped sharply and tourists are casting an eye to the lands of the Caribbean, the south Atlantic and the south Pacific.

Nor will they be disappointed. The pity is that voyagers from the United States have not sooner discovered the beauties of South and Central America. No sight in Europe can surpass Rio de Janeiro's exotic loveliness, no harbor can rival this chief port of Brazil. Side-walks such as one never finds in Paris, once-gay Vienna or romantic Venice (they have them there, too), will intrigue the visitor. The hospitality and comparative lack of greed for tourist cash will be a welcome relief. Southward then from Rio roll the ships of the South American trade, staunch and comfortable, to Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, with its magnificent buildings, its lovely gardens. A journey to the hinterland of Argentina is both enriching and enlightening. Rosario, for example, is colorful and intriguing.

The train and plane passage over the Andes is a never-to-be-forgotten experience, not even to be found in the Rocky mountains. Then Santiago and Valparaiso in Chile. From this little nation, sandwiched between the Andes and the sea, the traveler will find new adventure in Lima, Peru, after an unusual journey from the seacoast. Then the Panama Canal. From there home, or a prolonged trip along the north coast to squatty Cartagena with its narrow sidewalks and, on occasion, knee-deep mud if you slide off at the proper place; not by any means a place to miss, however, with its historic background. Along the coast or over to Trinidad, with Port of Spain the lure, the Blue Grotto wherein to swim in a lovely underground setting and then to view the asphalt fields, bubbling like trouble.

The chances for new adventure to the south are beyond compare and at the same time may bring new understanding and closer friendship among the nations of this hemisphere.

A CURE FOR PELLAGRA

Pellagra, long a major disease affecting southern economy, is, apparently, about to fall before the march of science. By a more balanced diet the incidence of this condition has been retarded. Now medical authorities report that nicotinic acid promises to cure pellagra.

Experiments have been conducted at Duke University, the University of Cincinnati, the University of Wisconsin and by the United States Public Health Service. The cautious Southern Medical Journal reports the discovery. In each instance the acid has produced startlingly quick results. It must be administered by a physician. It is not to be confused with nicotine and there is no evidence that smoking or chewing tobacco has the slightest effect on pellagra.

The potential value of the discovery can readily be seen in the estimate of 400,000 persons affected by the disease in the United States. The cure will mean more to the south than any other section, since a majority of the cases occur in this section. It will rehabilitate thousands of persons, enabling them to resume normal pursuits.

The cure alone will not mean enough unless it is accompanied by a universal adoption through this section of the balanced diet. The "three-M" diet—meat, meal and molasses—has been blamed for the disease, and the adoption of a more balanced ration has in the past few years reduced the number affected by the disease. Science has provided the apparent cure, but it is up to the south to so provide that the cure will, in a few years, be unnecessary except in cases where diet is not a factor.

HEROIC FAILURE

Another saga of the Polar skies comes to an end. Sir Hubert Wilkins is home after one of the most daring, but futile, ventures in his long career. He blazed a new trail of bravery and fortitude across the northern skies in his disappointing hunt for the missing Soviet flyer, Sigmund Levaneffsky, and his five comrades.

With characteristic intrepidity and doggedness he and his Canadian pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, and their associates have braved the gales and fogs of uncounted reaches of Polar skies on the errand of mercy.

Almost daily came new confusions to balk in part their mission. Recently a dispatch recounted that "Our magnetic compass gave us most of our troubles. Many times it behaved like a waltzing mouse, dancing around and around and often reading 20 to 30 degrees off the correct direction. It was only by means of checking the gyro compass against the sun that we were able to keep track of our position." But half the story of this venture has come in Sir Hubert's first-hand stories to the North American Newspaper Alliance. The rest we must read between the lines.

His hunt is ended, its intent unfulfilled. Thousands of miles of flight, where trouble meant death, end in futility. Success escaped Sir Hubert's grasp. Nevertheless, those who have followed this heroic expedition can but say: Well Done!

If world atlases seem to go out of date quickly, think of the Russian "Who's Who."

It can be assumed John McCormack would not be averse to becoming president of Ireland. Such, at least, is the tenor of a late remark.

Readers who have lasted through 121 pages of farm law say there's nothing in it that lets you sue a seed catalogue for breach of promise.

Once again, spring cleaning rears its ugly head. And now to throw one's self down headily in the dark, where the davenport used to be.

Mere threats in Europe are winning victories that once called for long and painful wars. The hand that cradles the rock now rules the world.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NORMAN DAVIS' INFLUENCE

WASHINGTON, March 26.—This week, Norman Davis, whose savagely ironic official title is "Chairman of the American Delegation to the General Disarmament Conference," made one of his bi-weekly visits to Washington. He paid a long call on the President before the White House entourage set off for Warm Springs; he dined with his special cronies, Secretary of State Cordell Hull and RFC Chairman Jesse H. Jones, and returned to New York as quickly as he came.

The Davis visit is worth recording because the Davis position in the Roosevelt administration is seriously underestimated. He is generally described as the President's European ambassador-at-large, and thought of as a sort of prominent international traveling salesman. Actually, he is an immensely important presidential adviser on all foreign affairs.

Indeed, when Secretary Hull's recent National Press Club speech was in the planning stage, Mr. Davis was the first choice as the man who should voice America's rather desperate insistence on the maintenance of international law. He had a large part in preparing the speech, and only failed to deliver it because it was decided at the last moment that it was better to keep him as a backstairs operator.

Text and Pretext

By M. ASHBY JONES.

ARE WE IMMORTAL NOW?

The modern man is essentially practical. He does not hesitate to carry his practical viewpoint into the realm of religion. In the business world his ready challenge is, "What's the use?" So he is ready to question the practical value of the issue, "Is death the end?" Good and sincere people of this type hold that if a man lives his best type it makes no difference whether he is mortal or immortal. If immortality is something which is to happen to one, I confess I should be quite in sympathy with the practical view which would advise that you live your best today and let tomorrow take care of itself. Refuse to borrow trouble, or cross bridges before you get to them.

From my standpoint, however, immortality is not a question of coming events. It is a question of the nature of the life which you are now living. Are you immortal now? If you have a tiny bit of substance in the palm of your hand, and the question is what to do with it, you will want to know what it is. If it is a pebble then throw it away, but if it is a seed you will want to plant it with the most intelligent care. If a teacher should tell you that he thinks your boy has the making of a great musician, it would be folly to answer that it will be time enough to meet that question when he is a man. You want to know now something of the possibilities of his personality in order to know how to guide his development. So I would reply to the practical skeptic in regard to immortality, quietly can one know what is the best life to live today unless he knows something of the nature of this life, and what are its possibilities. It seems to me obvious that a man's own judgment as to whether he is a spirit living in a body, or merely a body—whether he only inhabits a world of the living, or whether he lives also in an unseen, intangible world—will largely determine what he shall do today, and how he shall do it.

There is a real sense in which every man is striving to adapt himself to that mode of living for which he thinks he is most capable. Unconsciously perhaps he is striving to fulfill what he conceives to be his destiny. It is the underlying presumption of our daily practice that we use things for the purpose for which they are made. This of course depends upon the nature of the thing itself. What was it made for? So in one's own life what he shall do largely depends upon what he believes he is.

From this standpoint the question of immortality is a most vital social question. One's attitude toward other men is determined by his evaluation of a human life. One of the first considerations in estimating the worth of anything is the question of durability. Is it made of a substance which will endure? So is stuff out of which a human life is made transient or permanent. If one can look into the eyes of another man and discern a light kindled from the altar of the eternal, it must give an added sense of the dignity and value of life.

The more clearly and distinctly one comes to believe that every man has the capacity to endure always—to withstand the shock of separation of spirit and body, and to pass out into a large arena of activity, the greater value will be placed upon human life. This faith will profoundly influence his treatment of other men. The babe in the cradle gains added value because he has within him the making of a man, the capacity for growth and development. It would be interesting to inquire how much of our legal code which guards the safety of human life unconsciously grew out of belief that man is immortal

Georgia Federation Welcomes Three New Clubs Into Its Fold

Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs welcomes into the bonds of fellowship three new clubs, and predicts a long and useful affiliation. Smyrna Woman's Club comes in as a group I club, with 25 members, and is composed of the sections, Social Club, Book Club, Shakespeare Class and Young Matrons' Club, which operate as one group known as the Smyrna's Woman's Club. The object is mutual helpfulness, and counsel, and to unite the influence and service of women in promoting educational, civic, social, and moral advancement in the community. Mrs. W. A. Quarles is the president; Mrs. J. G. Morris, secretary; Mrs. Robert Motter, treasurer.

Boulevard Park Junior Woman's Club, of Atlanta, has a per capita membership of 10 young women, with Miss Joyce Hendrix, president; Dorothy Chambliss, secretary; Gloria Smith, treasurer. The club is organized along lines of the senior group, and will participate in the projects of the Boulevard Park Woman's Club.

Tau Delta Theta is a high school sorority of junior girls who are in group "B," being affiliated. Elise Dowling is president; Edwina Barr, vice president; Carol Lasler, secretary; Raymond de Alexander, treasurer; Lillian Willoughby, scribe; Mrs. O. J. Willoughby, sponsor. Other members are Betty Bagby, Beverly Barrow, Charlotte Callaway, Cathron Cantrell, Jean Clarkson, Hazel Gilbert, Florida Hater, Joyce Henrix, Josephine Lawrence, Margaret Long, Arline Metzger, Virginia Paul, Mara Roach, Doris Sullivan, Betty Walker, Frances Warnock, Joel Whitlock.

Officers elected to serve the Stone Mountain Woman's Club are: Mrs. J. T. Harris, president; Mrs. J. C. Almond, first vice president; Mrs. J. C. Jordan, second vice president; Mrs. J. F. McCurdy, treasurer; Mrs. John Harty, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Tuggle, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. S. Perkins, parliamentary.

Mrs. R. H. Waugh, president of the Albany Woman's Club, will have as guest during the state convention in Albany, April 26-29, her sister, Mrs. Fred Pease, of Harbor Beach, Mich.

At the convention of women's clubs in Macon, Mrs. W. W. Stone, of Wrens, was elected president of the sixth district to succeed Mrs. Leo Browning, of Cochran. Other officers are: Mrs. Leonard Booth, Macon, first vice president; Mrs. Carl Nelson, Dublin, second vice president; Mrs. L. S. Leach, Cochran, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Duggan, Jeffersonville, treasurer.

The date of the fourth district convention of federated clubs has been held to April 1 and will be held in Hogsansville. Mrs. B. A. Hogan is president of the hostess club and Mrs. C. J. Killete is president of the district.

Cedartown Women Give Georgia Day Luncheon at Club

A Georgia products luncheon featured the Georgia Day program of the Cedartown Woman's Club, held with the U. D. C. chapter and the Legion auxiliary. Trays of Georgia fruits, vegetables and flowers decorated the tables, and on each place card was a fact about Georgia and a tiny flag. Presidents of groups introduced were Mrs. F. F. Rountree, Mrs. E. D. Turner and Mrs. Margaret Post. Speakers gave the history of Georgia from the founding of the colony. Miss Anne Brumby, county school superintendent, gave the history of education in Georgia, and Miss Ethel Harp, matron of the Harp Home for Children, told the history of this interesting Cedartown home, with which the club is closely affiliated, and gave $500 toward the first building erected. Sewing for the home is work that is done by the club's members, and the Cedartown club is also a charter member and leading spirit in the Presbyterian auxiliary which grew out of the Presbyterian Missionary Society. She does not take her citizenship nor civic and religious duties lightly and scoffs at being an honorary member of anything.

Tococia is now a thriving town of over 5,000 people, but Mrs. Ramsay was 15 years old before the first residence was built in Tococia. This house was built by her brother-in-law, Andrew Ramsay, and was a two-story house, the ground floor being used for a store and the family domiciled upstairs. It was here to her sister, Mrs. Zaidie Jarrett Ramsay, the first wee white daughter of Tococia was born.

Eighteen years before Tococia was incorporated as a community, Mrs. Ramsay was born in 1871 in the historic old home now occupied by the Turnbull family on Tugalo river about one mile from Jarrett Manor and four miles from Praetere Place. Both of these homes are occupied by her relatives and both are colorful in local history, one as being preserved from the time of Indian warfare and the other as the hideout of Robert Toombs at the close of the War Between the States before his escape to England. Parents of this remarkable woman were Thomas Patton Jarrett and Eliza Hackett Jarrett. She received her education at Southern Masonic Female College located at Covington at that time, graduating in 1876.

Mrs. Ingram Presides At Talbotton Club

Mrs. Claud Ingram presided at the March meeting of Talbotton Woman's Club, and in the absence of Mrs. Brooks Culpepper, the secretary, Mrs. W. L. Perryman read the minutes. The program, presented by department of education, was directed by Mrs. G. L. L. Tison. Taking part were Dorothy Culpepper, Katherine Perryman, Miss Virginia Persons, Mesdames Ralph Hobbs, A. O. Hill, Leonard Trussell, Ben Tyler, C. M. Calhoun and H. P. Weston.

Social hour hostesses were Mesdames F. R. Harrod, Albert Baldwin, Rosa F. E. Rick, Harry Reeves, Greer Maxwell, Harry Baldwin, Dixon Olive, J. R. Wilson, Misses Virginia Wilson and Carolyn Spier.

Crawfordville Club

The president, Miss Martha Flint, presided at March meeting of Crawfordville Woman's Club. Ways and means committee reported curtains hung in the library of the community house and food supplied for the library. Circulation of 557 books was reported with six new books added. Miss Mary Carson was in charge of the program, featuring a song by Nell Taylor and Ralph Stephens; a sketch of George Foster Peabody, by Mrs. Jack Hebert; reading in memory of Helen Keller, by Mrs. Frank Pate; discussion of spring gardening, by Walter Chapman, and a song by Valena Nash. Hostesses were Mrs. George Markey, Mrs. Ewing Daniel, Misses Mamie Daniel and Elizabeth Blackmon.

Eighty-Year-Old Mrs. Ramsey Seals Tococia Club Cornerstone

Mrs. Laura Jarrett Ramsey is pictured when she recently sealed the cornerstone in a Masonic cornerstone laying of the new Tococia Woman's Clubhouse.

By MRS. RICHLAND ADDISON, President Tococia Woman's Club. Eighty years old! And yet when I reached the clubhouse grounds on a bitterly cold day recently I found her not only showing the colored men what to do, but she was actually placing some of the bricks in the walk they were laying. She seems endowed with some inexhaustible energy and interest—physically and mentally—Mrs. Laura Jarrett Ramsey, widowed mother of six children, three of whom she survives. One daughter, Miss Laura J. Ramsey, is employed in the regional office in Atlanta.

Mrs. Ramsay is a charter member of Tococia Woman's Club and has for a number of years been treasurer; she is a charter member and treasurer of the Tococia chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and she is also a charter member and leading spirit in the Presbyterian auxiliary which grew out of the Presbyterian Missionary Society. She does not take her citizenship nor civic and religious duties lightly and scoffs at being an honorary member of anything.

"Flowers and Gardens" Is Meeting Subject

March meeting of Stone Mountain Woman's Club was held at the home of Mrs. John McCurdy, with Miss Grace McCurdy as co-hostess. The meeting was made interesting by Mrs. J. F. Griffin, her subject being "Flowers and Gardens." Mrs. Griffin had a soil tester which she explained, and named some seed authorities. Afterward the meeting was open for round-table discussion.

Mrs. Bill Jordan, the safety chairman, outlined plans for a contest to be held among high school pupils. The best essay on "Safety" will receive a prize, and will be published in the newspaper. Executive board recommended that $50 be added to the building fund for a new clubhouse. The money was made recently at a dance sponsored by the club.

Seventh District Meets in Dallas.

Mrs. John Boston, president of the district, states that Seventh district Federation of Women's Clubs meets in Dallas on April 5, with Mrs. C. B. McGarrity, president, as hostess chairman. The day will be given over to the reports and the work of clubs. On the program for musical se-

Macon Women Plan Erection of House In Baconsfield

Mrs. Leonard Booth, chairman of the clubhouse committee for Macon Woman's Club, in the erection of the new club building at Baconsfield park will launch the financial plan of selling bonds of small denomination to Bibb county residents. These bonds will pay interest and will mature in five years and thus provide opportunity for Maconites to aid in securing a civic center and at the same time to realize on an investment.

The clubhouse will be erected as a memorial to the late Senator A. O. Bacon. "Of course we will gladly accept donations also," Mrs. Booth said. "But we will show an auditor's report and present our financial plan from a business standpoint."

For three years, the old clubhouse in Baconsfield park has shown a net profit of $400 a year, as an average, so that the club feel they can amortize the bond issue without difficulty.

The Pilot Club, Business and Professional Women's Club and Macon Woman's Club have combined forces on the project and the WPA has approved a $6,000 clubhouse. The combined clubs will raise approximately $1,500 for Macon's part of the needed fund. WPA will provide money for labor and will give $1 for each $2 raised by the city for materials.

The new clubhouse will face the avenue of Mimosa trees on the North avenue side of the present clubhouse site. Clubrooms will be provided that will seat 300 at luncheon tables or seat 400 in chairs at meetings. The plan is so arranged that three rooms, 26 by 30 feet, can be used separately or the three may be thrown into one to provide for large groups. A removable stage will be installed so that it is available when needed and may be stored when lunches are being served.

A modern kitchen and serving room will make it possible for the club to provide meals for various groups. Plans include a small room for board meetings and a screened porch where small groups may be served. The second floor will be living quarters for the club hostess, Mrs. Elmae Ellis League is the architect.

On the building committee with Mrs. Booth are Miss Mamie Vinson, Business and Professional Women's Club, and Miss Lucile Johnston, Pilot Club. The house will be available to anyone in Macon. The land in the park belongs to the city and the house erected there is Macon's property.

Prominent Women Visit in Wadley

Guests of the Wadley Woman's Club for the March meeting were Mrs. Ed Stapleton, president of Jefferson County Federation of Clubs; Mrs. J. C. Kilgore, county treasurer; Mrs. W. S. Boyd Jr., and Mrs. George Stapleton, of Stapleton. Mrs. Stapleton was introduced by Mrs. M. A. Evans and spoke on the club work being done in the county. Miss Sadie Johnson, the president, announced that Wadley Club would be host to Jefferson County Federation on April 1. The entertainment committee will be Mesdames M. A. Evans, J. R. Tripp, J. D. Peacock, J. W. Futral, J. J. Hall, H. L. Garner, E. J. Smith.

As chairman of the Ella F. White endowment, Mrs. H. L. Garner directed a program on the foundation. Miss Elizabeth Evans told the story of the endowment fund and emphasized the slogan of the jubilee year, "Make an Effort," and $5 was contributed. Mrs. Ralph Malone, of Bartow, and Mrs. F. H. Moxley furnished the musical numbers. Tributes to deceased members, Miss Virginia Thomas, were read by Miss Elizabeth Evans. Welcomed as visitors were Mrs. Lynwood King, of Savannah, and Miss Pauline Petersen, of Macon, both former residents of Wadley. Hostesses for the social period were Mrs. J. W. Futral, Mrs. C. F. Hall, Miss Annie Futral, Mrs. J. J. Hall, Mrs. L. G. Smith.

Mrs. Stewart D. Brown, Royston, Elected President of Sixth District

The convention of the tenth district brought Royston Woman's Club hostess, much to jubilate over. They won a coveted place on the founders' roll of the Ella F. White endowment; the president, Mrs. Stewart D. Brown, was made district president; and the club was awarded the Alford cup for having the highest score for achievement. Another source of gratification was the fine attendance, 137 registered and received the welcome from the hospitality committee. Under the leadership of Mrs. A. N. Alford, of Hartwell, the retiring president, the district has advanced along all lines of activity and Mrs. Alford has won a warm place in the affections of the clubwomen of the state.

The attractive programs were printed in silver in celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Ella F. White Foundation. Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Allman, parents of Mrs. Alford, were present and gave the invocation, honoring their daughter. Other speakers brought the total contributions to $100 and put the district on the founders' roll of Ella F. White and warmed the cockles of the heart of the chairman, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, who spoke for the fund.

Mrs. Stewart Brown assisted Mrs. Alford in presiding and Mrs. Branson James welcomed visitors. Mrs. Willis Wells responded and Mrs. J. W. Bailey, of Athens, led the devotional. Musical numbers were rendered by Miss Nell Scoggins and Professor L. H. Persells.

As state commander for the women's field army for the cancer campaign, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of an illustrated story of the disease. Roll call of presidents brought encouraging reports from clubs represented. Featured speaker was Mr. J. I. Allman, of the State Department of Education, who gave an inspiring address on "Education for Citizenship." Mrs. A. P. Haley, of Lavonia, brought a fine report on the work of the Memorial service honoring members lost by death was conducted by Mrs. J. W. Gholston, of Coles.

Favors at luncheon were tributes of love to Mrs. Ritchie from the hostess president, Mrs. Brown. On each favor was a picture of Mrs. Ritchie, candidate for the tenth district for the office of recording secretary in General Federation of Women's Clubs, and complimentary lines in verse were written by Mrs. Brown. A silver horseshoe for good luck was attached. Passed at the afternoon session was the motion to pay the outgoing and the incoming president $25 toward expenses to state and executive meetings. In her report as chairman of the department of Junior Clubwomen, Mrs. Hiram Whitehead announced two new junior clubs organized and that Corner Juniors won the contest for the club contributing the largest amount to the Stewart D. Brown scholarship at Tallulah Falls school. Courtesy resolutions were read by Mrs. Roy Wallace, of Rutledge.

ing weather and soil conditions developments in plant material changing styles in garden architecture, all need continued study for the betterment of the individual plots; while a wider conception of gardens presents problems in local beautification and conservation of natural resources.

Club work falls into three main divisions: Programs to interest the beginner and to instruct the initiate; study courses, which mean an exchange of experience or university work; and project—applied gardening used in flower shows, tours and civic improvement. The direct activities of garden groups are easily tabulated but their greatest accomplishments are felt more than seen. They are the attainment of the spirit! One has only to wander through a well-gardened neighborhood to sense the charm and peace within their homes.

Again, in every community, the garden-minded carry the gospel of preserving a fertile and beautiful America for future generations. They point the way to glorious living for today and tomorrow. Plan for the observance of National Garden Week—this week in April.

that a full annual report can be made. Mrs. C. E. Glausier, state chairman of art, reviewed some of the district reports showing the wide scope and interest in this division of the fine arts department. It was voted to send $10 to the Ella F. White endowment fund. A nominating committee appointed consists of Mrs. Feeney, Mrs. Glausier and Mrs. Roberts.

The program was in charge of the fine arts department with Mrs. P. Sheffield as leader. The rhythm band from the grammar school played and a vocal trio sang, with Mrs. Foley at the piano. There were displays of oil and china paintings, and an interesting exhibit of old things, some over 100 years old. Mrs. Cooper Powers and Mrs. Royal Daniel entered a collection of letters and books showing autographs of Margaret Mitchell, Robert Loveman, Theodore Dreiser, H. L. Mencken, Alexander Woolcott, Dorothy Parker, O. O. McIntyre, Don Marquis, James Street and others. In the flower competition, Mrs. G. L. Harris won in the large arrangements and Mrs. Barker's pansies won in the small group.

Jefferson Clubwomen Vote on Project.

Jefferson clubwomen met recently at the home of Mrs. W. H. Califf with Mrs. John Faulk as co-hostess. The president, Mrs. E. Methin, presided, and it was voted to sponsor the selection of "Miss Twigs County" in co-operation with the Junior League of Macon.

The first and second winners will be presented with cash prizes, and the first winner will appear with winners from 32 other counties in Macon's spring fashion revue at the city auditorium on March 30 in Macon. Mrs. C. A. Duggan is chairman.

A program on Georgia and Georgia resources was presented by Mrs. Faulk. Taking part were Mrs. Milledge White, Misses Mary Hart Whitehurst, Pauline Burke and Mrs. Duggan. Mrs. Methin led the devotional and Miss Willa Hasty sang.

Miss Butrick Weds Donald Shannon Jr.

Miss Winifred Butrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Butrick, of Detroit, Mich., became the bride of Donald L. Shannon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Shannon, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a ceremony taking place in the rectory of Sacred Heart church. Father Edward McGrath officiated.

The young couple was married before an improvised altar of palms and ferns silhouetted against which were three seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Mrs. R. T. Barrett, sister of the groom, was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a slate gray suit with navy blue accessories and a navy blue off-the-face hat. Her shoulder bouquet was of Joanna Hill roses.

The bride was given in marriage by John D. Reeves and they were met at the altar by the groom and Edward Hornbuckle, his best man. She was becomingly gowned in a hyacinth blue wool crepe suit and she wore matching accessories. She wore a turban to match her suit and this had a shoulder-length veil of navy blue. Her flowers were lavender orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left on a wedding trip and on their return they will reside in Atlanta.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Card, of Ontario, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hill, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Lucy J. Butrick, grandmother of the bride, of Detroit; and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Butrick, parents of the bride, of Detroit.

Miss Brinson Weds Henry I. Bussey.

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 26.—The marriage of Miss Leona Scranton Brinson and Henry I. Bussey took place here last Sunday. Rev. Henry Waters, of Claxton, performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother, Monroe Cargyle Brinson.

Edward Heagerty, of Valdosta, and Scranton Brinson, brother of the bride, lighted the altar candles. Music was furnished by Miss Marguerite Hargreaves and Billy Seaman.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Edward Heagerty, of Valdosta, was her sister's only attendant. She wore a light blue sheer crepe model and her hat was an old-fashioned poke bonnet of similar shade. Her flowers were pink sweet peas.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Monroe Cargyle Brinson. She wore a navy blue wool suit with squirrel trim. Her blouse was of pink chiffon and she wore a smart hat of Toyo straw. She wore a shoulder bouquet of rapture roses and orange blossoms. The groom's best man was William Brannen, of Statesboro.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Cargyle Brinson entertained at an informal reception. Mr. and Mrs. Bussey left by motor for their honeymoon trip to North Carolina. Upon their return they will reside at 804 Gilmore street.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mrs. Edith Blain Brinson and George Robert Brinson, prominent citizens of Waycross. For the past few years she has held a position with the law firm of Wilson, Bennett and Pedrick. Mr. Bussey is the son of Mrs. Nellie Waters Bussey, of Savannah, and the late Herman Bussey, of Columbus. He attended Newberry College and the South Georgia Teachers' College. He is connected with the Seybold Baking Company, with headquarters in Waycross.

Miss Ruth Shippey Weds John Austin.

Of cordial interest was the marriage of Miss Ruth Shippey and John Southern Austin, of Dunwoody, which was solemnized on March 19 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Shippey, at 2166 Peachtree road. The Rev. W. W. Cash officiated.

Mrs. Austin attended North Avenue Presbyterian school and is a graduate of Agnes Scott College.

Mr. Austin attended Emory University and is connected with Rich's, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin are residing at 2411 Shenandoah avenue, northeast.

Bagwell-Bell Rites Are Announced.

HARTWELL, Ga., March 26.—The marriage of Miss Cornelia Bagwell and George Bell took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Emory Bagwell, on March 19.

Rev. R. D. Hodges, pastor of the Hartwell Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the two families and a few close friends. The musical program was rendered by Miss Eloise Temple. The candles were lighted by Mrs. Jimmie Smith and Miss Katherine Nelms.

The bride's titian coloring was emphasized by her costume of blue alpaca with accessories of blue. Her flowers were pink rosebuds and valley lilies.

At the informal reception which followed the bride's mother was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ernest Nelms, Mrs. Charles Nelms, of Athens, and Miss Mary Zellars.

The young couple left for a short trip through the Carolinas, and will reside at Hotel Hartwell on their return.

Out-of-town guests included the groom's mother and brother, Mrs. W. D. Bell and William Bell, of Sardis; John Sims, of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James Parrish, Miss Irene Carter, Benson, Matheson, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelms, Miss Katherine Nelms, L. Miss Pendleton To Wed Mr. Oliver VALDOSTA, Ga., March 26.—Of interest throughout the south is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Coleman Pendleton of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hope Pendleton, to William Wiley Oliver. The marriage to take place in April.

Miss Pendleton is the second daughter of former Mayor and Mrs. Phillip Coleman Pendleton, and her sisters are Mrs. Thomas Gordon Cranford, of Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Mrs. Emmerson Bell, of Valdosta. Her mother is the former Miss Sue Corner, of Savannah.

The bride-elect attended the Georgia State Woman's College at Valdosta, and following her graduation she spent six months in Japan, and in Tokyo, she was the guest of her brother and sister, Captain and Mrs. Thomas Gordon Cranford at the American embassy, Captain Cranford being assistant military attaché at that time. She is a member of the Mystery Club and an active member of the Junior Service League.

The bride-elect's father has been mayor of the city and president of the Chamber of Commerce; he now serves as a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank and of the First Federal Loan Association and president of the A. S. Pendleton Company.

On her maternal side the bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Corner, of Savannah, and on her paternal side she is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Shaw Pendleton.

Mr. Oliver is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Warrington Maxwell Oliver Sr., leaders in the social, civic, business and religious life of the city. His brothers are Maxwell and John Oliver, both of Valdosta, and Robert Oliver, of Nashville, Tenn. The bridegroom-elect is a member of the popular and widely known "golfing Oliver family."

On his maternal side the groom-elect's grandparents are Mrs. W. W. Williams and the late Wiley Williams, of Statesboro. His mother was before her marriage Miss Belle Williams, a gifted singer. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. John Warrington Oliver, of South Carolina.

Mr. Oliver is a graduate of the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the S. A. E. fraternity. He is a member of the Val de Osta Club.

Due to a bereavement of the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. A. S. Pendleton, the marriage will be a very quiet affair.

Miss Mary Malone Will Wed John White at April 20 Service

Of prominent social interest is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. James Comer Malone of the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Mary Malone, to John Jordan White, the marriage to be solemnized on April 20. Miss Malone is the eldest of five children, her sisters being Misses Carolyn, Dorothy and Sarah Malone. Her brother is James C. Malone Jr.

The bride-elect is a popular member of younger society and is a recent addition to Junior League circles. She is a member of the Girls' Circle for Tallulah Falls school and of the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school and of the Pi Pi Sorority. During her enrollment at North Avenue Presbyterian school, Miss Malone enjoyed wide popularity and was crowned Napsionia, the highest award to be bestowed upon a student attending the school. She was also elected president of the student body and served as president of the Cecilian Dramatic Club.

Miss Malone graduated last June from Agnes Scott College where she was active in the Glee Club and was elected twice as a member of the May Court.

The bride-to-be has traveled extensively, including several months in Europe with her parents and sisters.

Miss Malone's parents are numbered among Atlanta's most prominent citizens, her father being vice president of the Retail Credit Company and a leader in the city's business, civic and club life.

Mr. Malone is a native of Jasper county, Georgia, where for several generations his family has been prominently identified with that section of the state. The late Thomas Jefferson Malone, a prominent planter of Jasper county, was Mr. Malone's father and his mother was before her marriage, Miss Mary Lucy Comer, member of the well-known Comer family of Georgia and Alabama. On her maternal side the former Miss Comer was a representative of the Simms and Lee families of Georgia and Virginia.

The bride-elect's father spent his early business life in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he was associated with the Retail Credit Company. He returned to Atlanta 17 years ago for residence.

The bride-elect's mother was formerly Miss Josephine Kirkup, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kirkup, of Cincinnati, and was a prominent figure in the city's social life. Joseph Kirkup, retired manufacturer and banker, is Miss Malone's maternal grandfather. Her maternal grandmother was formerly Miss Carrie Johnston, member of the Johnston and Ross families of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Mr. White is the son of Mrs. Robert Hugh White and the late Mr. White, of this city. His mother is the former Miss Mary Small, member of a prominent Macon, Ga., family, whose pioneers settled in South Carolina. The distinguished Lowe family of Virginia is also listed among the groom-elect's maternal relatives.

The groom-elect's father, the late Mr. White, was counted among Atlanta's most beloved and valuable citizens. He was the founder of the Southern Wood Preserving Company and served as its president for many years. Mr. White belonged to the Jordan and White families of Delaware, North Carolina and Georgia. The groom-to-be is a brother of Robert Hugh White Jr. and William Emmett White, of this city, and of Mrs. White Hancock, of Sea Island Beach, Ga.

Mr. White attended Georgia Military Academy, the Peacock school, and Georgia School of Technology. He is a member of the Alpha Pi High school fraternity, and of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and he belongs to the Druid Hills Golf Club. Mr. White is now secretary of Southern Wood Preserving Company, of Atlanta and Chattanooga.

For Mrs. Wade Boggs.

Mrs. Wade H. Boggs, of Shreveport, La., who is visiting in Atlanta for a few days, is being welcomed by her friends here. On Tuesday, from 3 to 5 o'clock, the Lucian Lamar Knight Class of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Boggs was a former teacher, will entertain at a tea in her honor at the home of Mrs. W. C. Shepherd on LaVista road.

Grammar School Romance Revealed In Malone-White Announcement

By Sally Forth.

ONCE upon a time a little red-haired girl by the name of Mary Malone occupied an adjoining desk with a little boy of the same age by the name of Jack White in the fifth grade at Highland Avenue school. Mary and Jack lived in the same neighborhood, so they played together, studied together and oftentimes Jack carried Mary's school books for her. Their friendship continued through the teen age, but it was not until three years ago that Jack and Mary began having frequent dates.

The announcement made today of their betrothal reveals the final chapter of their romance, which reads like a story-book tale, and which will have its culmination on April 20 when titian-haired Mary becomes Mrs. Jack White.

According to the calendar, the date set for the ceremony is the first Wednesday after Easter Sunday. It is a happy coincidence that the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Malone, were married on the Wednesday following Easter Sunday in 1914, although the date fell on April 15 during that year.

The Druid Hills Methodist church, where the families of the future bride and groom have worshipped for a number of years, will provide the setting for the wedding.

It is easy for Sally to visualize the picture of loveliness that the little red-haired girl of only a few years ago will present when she descends the long aisle to become the bride of handsome Jack White.

HAVE you heard about the recent week-end visit that Dorothy Sanford and her cousin, Martha Merritt, paid to Martha's sister, Sally Brentnall?

On Saturday, the two came to the sudden conclusion that the thing to do was to ride to Birmingham, surprise Mrs. Brentnall, and spend the remainder of the week end with her. At the end of the long drive, they arrived not a little weary and no doubt anticipating a warm welcome.

They rang the doorbell. There was no answer. They tried the door. It was locked. In short, the apartment was closed and Sally was spending that week end in Huntsville, Ala.

Martha and Dorothy headed for Huntsville. They arrived—just in time to tumble into bed for the night—and awoke the next morning eager to finish the week end in fine style and make up for all the hours lost in driving. And Sally? She awoke feeling that she simply must go back to Birmingham that day.

Hence, Dorothy, Martha and Sally spent Sunday driving back to Birmingham, but—hard as it seemed to believe—the week end was over! Dorothy and Martha got up the next day and drove back to Atlanta!

TINY SARA GLENNIS HEAD bids fair to follow in the footsteps of her lovely mother, Mrs. Philip Head, of Miami. At least she inherits some of her mother's popularity for scarcely had she made her debut on this mundane sphere than she began receiving flowers from masculine admirers.

Her first shoulder bouquet was sent from Marietta as the gift of young George Harrison Jr., Mrs. Head, you remember, is the former Glennis Hancock, of Marietta, and she and George's mother have been lifelong friends, having grown up together. The latter was before her marriage to Atlanta's Captain George L. Harrison, Irene Malone, popular Marietta belle. Both small Glennis and George Jr. are representatives of some of Cobb county's most prominent families, and their natural heritage doubtless includes keen admiration for each other.

A DUO of Miami Beach's most popular sub-debs, Peggy Dunham and Sally Smith, is spending the spring holidays in Atlanta. Peggy and Sally are classmates at Chatham Hall in Virginia, where their popularity is equal to that which they enjoy at Miami Beach.

Peggy is visiting her cousin, Jacquelin Thiesen, in Ansley Park, and Sally is the guest of her father, Lorrain Gould Smith, on West Peachtree street.

It is Sally's first visit to Atlanta, but Peggy has visited the Jack Thiesen family often and her visits here are always anticipated with pleasure by a wide circle of friends. Peggy's mother, as you know, is the former Margaret Traylor, a sister of Mrs. Thiesen. Sally and Peggy are just about the prettiest pair of blondes to visit this city in many moons. Of the tall, stately type of beauty, the Florida belles make a striking twosome as they flit from one social gayety to the other where Atlanta's college boys and girls

Mr. and Mrs. George Veazey are in Greensboro, where they are visiting their sister, Mrs. Mary Veazey Hollis. Mr. Veazey is convalescing from an illness of several months.

Dr. Thomas Crenshaw is improving from a serious illness at Emory University hospital.

Mrs. Herman Elsas, of New York city, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Elsas on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Misses Corrie Rhodes and Sue Chapman, of Orlando, Fla., are spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Rawls on Sterling street.

Adams—Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Adams, of Douglas, announce the marriage of their daughter, Kathleen Miriam, to Wyman Earl Watson, of Atlanta, the ceremony having taken place here on February 26. The couple will reside in this city.

The above group of prominent Atlanta equestrians was snapped last week by The Constitution staff photographer as they started out for an early morning canter through Atlanta's woodland trails and bridle paths. The quartet pictured at the right include from left to right Mrs. William Ward Jr., Walter Von Lambeck, of Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Frank Quentin and Mrs. Carl Ramspeck, who will be among the participants in Atlanta's forthcoming horse show to be presented at Fort McPherson.

Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Orr, who were hosts at a hunt breakfast last Sunday honoring Walter Von Lambeck, of Rochester, N. Y., to whom Mrs. Orr is serving a cup of coffee. Mr. Von Lambeck, an internationally famous horseman, is spending two months here and will remain for the Atlanta horse show, scheduled for May 6, 7 and 8. Dr. Lon Grove and Mrs. Calvin Sandison, who attended the breakfast, are shown at the right.

Editor Gives Resume of Convention Of State D. A. R. in Columbus

Fortieth annual state conference of the Georgia Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, convened the past week in Columbus as guests of the Columbus chapters, Oglethorpe, George Walton and Button Gwinnett, of which Mesdames Mark Mote, Frank David and James T. Nuckolls are the respective regents. The conference was presided over by the state regent, Mrs. John S. Adams, of Dublin, and will go down in D. A. R. history as one that was most outstanding from a standpoint of brilliance and accomplishment. Much praise is due the Columbus chapters and the city for the splendid manner in which every detail of the conference was carried out for the elaborate entertainment provided and the many courtesies extended the guests.

The main feature of the session was the election and installation of officers for 1938-40.

The following ticket was unanimously elected: Regent, Mrs. W. H. Hightower, Thomaston; first vice regent, Mrs. T. C. Mell, Atlanta; second vice regent, Mrs. Stewart Colley, Greenville; chaplain, Mrs. T. J. Sappington, Eastman; recording secretary, Mrs. E. B. Freeman, Dublin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mark Smith, Thomaston; treasurer, Mrs. J. D. Wadsworth, Columbus; auditor, Mrs. O. D. Warthen, Vidalia; consulting registrar, Mrs. Y. H. Yarbrough, Milledgeville; librarian, Mrs. J. M. Simmons, Bainbridge; historian, Mrs. P. D. Boardman, Griffin; consulting registrar, Mrs. Eliza Candler Earhman, Decatur; curator, Mrs. R. H. Humphrey, Swainsboro; editor, Mrs. J. M. Bravner, Atlanta; assistant editor, Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, Madison; and Mrs. J. L. Mims, Hawkinsville; assistant editor, Mrs. T. J. Sappington, Eastman.

State executive board and credentials committee met on Monday preceding the formal opening that evening. Color and pageantry marked the formal opening at the First Presbyterian church.

Addresses of welcome were extended by Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney, honorary state regent and past vice president general, Hon. C. Wilson, mayor, and General Asa Singleton, commandant of Fort Benning. The state regent, presented by Mrs. Mark Mote, regent of Oglethorpe chapter, spoke on the sesquicentennial celebration of the constitution of the United States. Miss Nancy Horne, of Brownwood, winner of Georgia D. A. R. good citizenship pilgrimage, was presented by Mrs. John W. Daniel.

Governor Rivers, presented by Mrs. Adams, spoke on "National Defense." A reception followed, at which the U. S. C. Colonial Dames, American Legion, Auxiliary and City Federation of Women's Clubs were hostesses. The State Officers' Club, of which Mrs. Max Land is president, held its annual breakfast and business meeting on Tuesday.

The first business session was on Tuesday. Reports of the regent and all state officers showed a year of activity and outstanding achievement. A feature of the program was the presentation of 14 bound volumes of Bible and tombstone records, collected by the chapters, to the State Department of Archives and History, in honor of the state regent, Mrs. Adams. They were accepted for the state by Mrs. J. E. Hays, state historian. Seven volumes were presented to Mrs. Adams to carry to Washington to give to the national society. A motion was made by Mrs. Howard McCall that four copies of the original Bible records be given to the Georgia Historical Society at Savannah, in honor of the state regent.

Mrs. John M. Slaton, of Atlanta, for many years state chairman of correct use of the flag, was significantly honored by the state society. In the name of the Georgia chapters, Mrs. Bun Wylie presented to the state society a handsome silk United States flag, in honor of Mrs. Slaton. The historical map of Georgia, prepared under the direction of Mrs. R. J. Travis, of Savannah, state chairman of this phase of work, was accepted with thanks and Mrs. Travis presented copies to several national officers and distinguished guests.

Mrs. John L. Marshall, state regent of South Carolina, asked that Georgia D. A. R. take over the only remaining room in the building at Tommassee, the approved D. A. R. school, in South Carolina. It was suggested by Mrs. Gaffney that the C. A. R. be allowed to have a part in this work and that it be done in honor of the incoming state regent.

The delegates motored to Fort Benning, where luncheon was served at the Officers' Club, with the three D. A. R. chapters hostesses. Later a divisional review was held, the courtesy being extended by General Singleton, and was an exceptional honor as it is rarely given except to the secretary of war or to the entire staff of the President of the United States. The memorial service, conducted by the state chaplain, Miss Annie Crawford, was held later. At this time a special candle was lighted for the late Mrs. Herbert Franklin, honorary state regent. Miss Matthews gave her address on approved D. A. R. schools at this session.

Wednesday morning's session featured the awarding of trophies. Elijah Clarke chapter, of Athens, won the Helen Rogers Franklin trophy for general excellence and the radio prize of $5, offered to chapter doing best radio work. Baron DeKalb chapter, Decatur, and John Houston chapter, Thomaston, won the $5 cash awards offered by Mrs. Hightower for best work in motion pictures. Katherine Stanley Daniel trophy, for largest number of historical papers sent in, went to Stephen Heard chapter, Elberton. The state regent's cash award for best national defense work went to John Benson chapter, Hartwell, with John Houston chapter winning second place. The May Phillips Mims trophy, for best publicity, was won by Elijah Clarke chapter with second place going to Hawkinsville. John Houston chapter won the cup for largest number of subscriptions to D. A. R. magazine. The Mrs. Moreland Speed award for best essay in home-making, written by pupil in domestic science department of high school, went to Pulaski chapter.

Miss Pegram Weds Mr. Howard Today At Church Ceremony

Of interest is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Pegram of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ernestine Pegram, to Lawrence O'Hear Howard, son of Chesley B. Howard and the late Mrs. Howard, the marriage to take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Dr. Louie D. Newton will perform the ceremony in the presence of only members of the two families and a limited number of close friends. The young couple will be unattended.

An ensemble of blue sheer has been chosen by the bride for her nuptial costume and her accessories will match. Mr. Pegram will give his daughter in marriage.

After the ceremony the young couple will leave for Florida and Charleston and after their return will reside here, where Mr. Howard is connected with Rich's.

The bride is a popular member of the younger set and was graduated from Girls' High school, where she was a member of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Her sister is Mrs. Carlos G. Wilson, and her only brother is Ernest W. Pegram Jr.

Mr. Howard is a member of distinguished families of the south. He is the youngest son of Chesley B. Howard and the late Margaret O'Hear Howard. On his maternal side his grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Hear, of Charleston, and on his paternal side his grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Bostwick Howard.

His only brother is Chesley B. Howard Jr., and his sisters are Mrs. W. N. Hulsey, of Memphis; Mrs. Julian Barrett, Mrs. J. B. McLamb and Mrs. Ted Lewis, of LaGrange. His aunt is Mrs. A. B. Patterson, of Barnwell, S. C.

Mr. Howard is a graduate of Boys' High school, later attending Georgia Tech.

Valdosta Belle To Wed Mr. Luke

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 26.—The announcement made today of the engagement of Miss Pauline Pearl Brewster and Harry Lankford Luke, of this city, will be read with interest by a wide circle of friends in the state. Their marriage takes place June 5 at the First Methodist church here and will unite prominent and pioneer families.

The bride-elect's grandfather is the late Henry Brewster, who was Griffin, with second place going to John Hudson chapter, Thomaston. Visits to Atlanta Gardens Mark Close of Annual State Pilgrimage

Mrs. George Adair is pictured in the garden of Mrs. J. Bulow Campbell on Andrews drive. Mrs. Adair will be the Junior League hostess at the gate of Mrs. Campbell's garden when it is shown on April 2 as part of the tours of Georgia gardens. Shown with Mrs. Adair is Cocco, Mrs. Campbell's Alsatian police dog. Seen in the background is the gate leading to the formal garden and a flowering apple tree.

The second annual pilgrimage of the Garden Club of Georgia will close in Atlanta on April 1, 2 and 3 when 14 gardens in this city will be shown under auspices of Henrietta Eggleston hospital for children. Mrs. Jesse Draper, pilgrimage chairman for Atlanta, has arranged the three days' schedule.

On Friday, the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mrs. J. J. Goodrum, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hentz and Mr. and Mrs. Warner Martin will be open for the tour. The gardens of the Brandon estate are famous for its collection of daffodils. This garden is also noted for its flowering fruit trees, wild azalea and old-fashioned bulbs.

Enclosed by a serpentine wall is Mrs. James J. Goodrum's garden. To the left of the regency home is a star pool and back of this is the "theater," a small outdoor stage drop of tree box with a row of willows to present a curtain of waving green. A walled formal flower garden, a boxwood maze of clipped boxwood to form Mrs. Goodrum's initials, a camellia house beyond a Chinese pavilion are other features of this garden.

The garden of Mr. and Mrs. Harris features an entrance of rock work with colorful miniature plants and bulbs, rare varieties of daffodils and borders of spring flowers.

Though only two years old, the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hentz shows much development. Planned on three levels, the lower level of this garden is an old-fashioned circular garden with geometric box bordered beds entirely enclosed by southern evergreens.

In the former garden of "Somerset House," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Martin, box bordered beds carry out the color scheme of white, yellow, russet and orange with spring bulbs and perennials. The entrance to "Somerset House" is an unusual cobblestone courtyard with velvet lawns bordered by box.

On April 2 will be shown the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McEachern Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilby, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bulow Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. James Floyd. "Woodhaven," the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Maddox, with 75 acres of lawns, gardens and woodlands, includes a magnificent terrace bowl. On the terraces low hedges of box hold in the massed bloom of peonies, irises and larkspur, while the lowest level is centered by a pool and Italian marble figures of the four seasons against dusky green shrubs give names to "The Bowl of the Four Seasons."

The two new gardens included in the list for Saturday are those of Mr. and Mrs. McEachern and Mr. and Mrs. Wilby. A lawn approaches the McEachern home beyond which is a walled terrace of roses. Paths lead to a pool in a woodland glade. Fine planting of native dogwood, azalea and wild flowers characterize this garden. Adjoining the McEachern's the Wilby gardens include shrubs and evergreens, with one of the best collections in this country of rare holly. A greenhouse and a camellia house add interest to the grounds of this estate.

"Belvoir," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, is characterized by a series of enclosed boxwood gardens. Back of the house is a lawn encircled with boxwood centered by a pool and to the right is a formal garden with a marble figure of Pan and nymph. The Italian note in these gardens is emphasized by figures and marble benches against green backgrounds.

"Boxwood House," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd, is approached by a driveway bordered with purple foliaged plum trees and English boxwood. Old millstones form the path of the formal garden featuring two fine examples of lead statuary.

On Sunday the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McDuffie, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cooney will bring to a close the second annual pilgrimage of the Garden Club of Georgia. A rectangular formal garden with a tall clipped arbor vitae hedge is entered from the horseshoe stairway of the home of Mr. and Mrs. McDuffie. At one end of this garden is a classic Georgian gazebo. Formal beds of tulips, irises and other spring flowers give charm to this garden. Beyond the formal garden is a rose garden.

Brilliant massed color effects are the characteristic note of the grounds and garden of Mr. and Mrs. Finley, with a tall open work wall, a wall fountain, English boxwoods and masses of Japanese azaleas among its features.

In Druid Hills, the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harris are outstanding among Atlanta gardens. The formal garden is centered by a sixteenth century Venetian well head of weathered marble and flanking the well are old metal sprinkler pots brought from Dijon. On a lower level is a green garden, leading to a still lower level where a brick bordered lily pool holds Spanish fountain figure. A rose garden and an outdoor living room and other features of this garden.

"Coon Hollow" lies at the foot of Druid Hills, and the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cooney, have developed a series of gardens in eight levels. The natural setting requires informal development and Mr. and Mrs. Cooney have been most successful in wild flowery planting on its steep wooded hillsides, one of which holds an interesting hillside shrine.

Tickets may be purchased at the gardens or at the headquarters at the Biltmore hotel. The gardens will be open at 10:30 each morning. Assisting Mrs. Draper are Mrs. Frank Lamons, president of the Henrietta Eggleston Auxiliary; Mrs. Robert Pegram and Mrs. Paul Hulfish, co-chairmen with Mrs. Draper; Mrs. Beverly DuBose, headquarters chairman.

What Has Happened to Justice?

By PETER LEVINS.

When 5-year-old Nancy Glenn failed to come home for lunch last Labor Day, September 6, 1937, her mother decided that some playmate had invited Nancy to eat with her. But when it got to be 3 o'clock, with no sign of the child, Mrs. Margaret Glenn began to worry, so much so that she summoned her husband, Joseph, an accountant, who was spending the holiday at a near-by golf course.

Glenn hastened to his suburban home on Fayette street, Philadelphia. He talked to Virginia Ganter, Nancy's Sunday school teacher, apparently the last person to have seen the child that morning. Nancy had been riding her new tricycle which she had received on her fifth birthday, three days before. Mrs. Mary Greentree, a neighbor, had also seen the golden-haired girl on her tricycle, which had been left in the paved alley beside the Glenn home.

The father started to make a tour of the neighborhood, accompanied by his 7-year-old son, Joseph-Jr., and two other boys. When this hunt brought no results, Glenn decided that Nancy might have wandered into a deserted stretch of woods known as "Nolan's Farm," about three-quarters of a mile from home.

Glenn turned his car into Upsal road, which bisects the area, and drove along the dirt-rutted road until he came to an obstruction in the form of a battered, 50-gallon tire oil drum. Rather than risk cutting his tires, he told Joseph to get out and pull the sheeting aside.

The lad did so—and then came a cry that froze his father's heart. Said Joseph: "Daddy, here's Nancy now!"

Glenn got out of the car, and saw the crumpled form of his daughter, face down in a mud hole. There was about three inches of water in the hole. Glenn gathered the child in his arms, drove home, then rushed with her to the Jewish hospital, where she was pronounced dead. Then he took her to the morgue.

AUTOPSY SHOWS CHILD DIED BY DROWNING

The autopsy, performed the next day by the Coroner's physician, Dr. William Wadsworth, showed that Nancy Glenn had died by drowning. Mud and pebbles in the lungs indicated that she had not been dead when she was placed in—or when she fell into—that hole in which she was found. There was a bruise over the right eye and scratches on the neck.

How had it happened? The press speculated as to whether the child had been struck down by a hit-and-run driver who had tried to cover up his trail or whether she had been deliberately murdered. Mayor S. Davis Wilson offered a reward of $500, although the homicide squad declared in a statement that death had been accidental, due to a fall.

Nancy was buried on September 9 in West Laurel Hill cemetery. Hundreds had viewed the little body as it lay in its coffin at the undertaker's. Friends and neighbors sympathized with the parents—there was one other child, Janet, four months—and agreed with them that this could not have been an accident.

On September 29 a coroner's jury of six persons ruled that death had been due to accidental drowning—a verdict which did not satisfy the Glenn family or their neighbors.

One of these neighbors was Mrs. Greentree, who had seen Nancy on her tricycle that Labor Day morning. After the inquest, while Mrs. Glenn drove Mrs. Greentree home, the latter mentioned something which aroused the mother's suspicions. It developed that, a day or so after the tragedy, Mrs. Greentree had remarked to a neighbor that the police should question "that blonde girl," whom she had seen with Nancy not long before the child disappeared.

The neighbor had said, "Oh, that's Mary O'Connor. She's too nice to be mixed up in anything like that."

Now, when Mrs. Greentree related this to Mrs. Glenn, the latter said, "That's the girl who hit Joseph some time ago. I guess she should be questioned. I'll tell the mayor about this because nobody can convince me that Nancy's death was an accident. Somebody must have put her in the hole."

She conferred the next day with Mayor Wilson, who assigned Detectives John T. Murphy (head of the mayor's sex morals squad), Warren H. Murphy and Francis G. O'Connell to the case. Their investigation culminated on November 21 in the arrest of Mary Keenan O'Connor at the home of her grandfather, Charles J. O'Connor, head of a bottling company at Merchantville, N. J.

Mary O'Connor, 19, very much the athletic type, was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Connor, who lived four doors from the Glenns on Fayette street. Her father, a former Villanova athlete, taught mathematics at the South Philadelphia High School for Boys. Fond of sports himself, and extremely devoted to his curly-haired daughter, he had done everything to encourage her interest in athletics.

The girl had attended a parochial school in Philadelphia, the Camden (N. J.) Catholic High school, Temple University, and Immaculata College, near Malvern, Pa. She played first base on the high school baseball team, and starred on the basketball and track teams. Some high school chums called her "Tarzan" because of her strength; close friends called her "Petey." Matriculating at Temple in the fall of 1935, she took an arts course and also did some physical education work, although she did not become an outstanding athlete at Temple.

From June, 1936, until September, 1937, she had not attended school, and then she matriculated at Immaculata, specializing in mathematics and physical education. Three weeks before her arrest she left Immaculata on sick leave. She did not go to her own home but to the home of her grandfather.

After a week in Merchantville, Mary had been taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases, commonly known as Kirkbride's. She had been released on November 20, the day before she was arrested. The doctors at Kirkbride's, according to reports, had found her sadistic but not insane.

On the 21st the detectives first visited the O'Connor home on Fayette street, then hastened to Merchantville. When they asked Charles O'Connor about his granddaughter, he said she was ill. However, Mary did come downstairs within a few minutes. She asked Captain John Murphy not to say anything in front of her grandfather because she didn't want to worry him.

When O'Connor had left the room, the suspect turned to Captain Murphy and said, "I might as well tell you. I did it. I have been very depressed and it has been on my conscience."

HER CONFESSION IS MADE PUBLIC

They took her to headquarters in Merchantville, her grandfather going along, and the next day her confession was given to the press. It was not signed. She had refused to sign the statement without counsel and without her father's advice. It was given in the presence of the three Philadelphia officers and Sergeant Lloyd J. Hasson, of the local force.

The confession, which the prisoner dictated and then corrected, as to spelling and punctuation, with her own fountain pen, follows:

"About 1 p. m. on Labor Day, I saw Nancy Glenn in the alleyway in the rear of our street; at the time I saw her a small girl had my bicycle out on a ride. At that time Nancy Glenn made a couple of remarks to me. I don't know what they were.

"When the girl returned with my bicycle, Nancy asked me to take her for a ride. I said 'no,' and started to go away on my bicycle. I had to go slowly because I had a flat tire. I rode out Upsal street to where they found Nancy dead. Nancy had followed me.

"I was on the path by the cornfield and I saw a farmer working in the field. About three yards from where Nancy's body was found I slid on the bicycle and I had to stop.

"As I got off, some loose change fell out of my pocket onto the road. Nancy was walking toward me and I called Nancy and asked her to help me find the money and I would give her a penny. And then she could go home.

"She then helped me pick up the money. Then Nancy started to pick up berries and I had an argument with her not to eat the berries. Then Nancy wanted me to take her back home on the bicycle. I said 'no.'

"Then I got angry and struck her on the chin with my fist and she fell down and lay still, and I thought she must have hit her head on something. Then I felt her pulse and as far as I know it wasn't beating.

"I then rolled her over on her stomach and her face was down in the hole in the water. I think her face was in the water.

"I looked around and saw this big piece of tin lying in the bushes, so I pulled it out and laid it over Nancy. Then I got on my bicycle. I was very nervous and finally went home."

Removed to the Camden county jail, Miss O'Connor stayed awake all night because (according to Captain Murphy) she was afraid she would talk in her sleep. She waived extradition, and on the 23d was taken to Philadelphia for a hearing before Mayor Wilson. Her attorney, William A. Gray, one of the best in town, made a determined effort to get her out of the hands of the police and into the county prison.

It now became known that Mary and her parents had attended the laying-out of the dead child; that Mary had confessed to her parents that she had hit Nancy, and that Mrs. O'Connor had since lost twenty-five pounds through shock and worry, and that Mary had told her best girl friend, Mrs. Marie Phillips, that she was responsible for the child's death.

Detective Murphy stated that the prisoner had told him that, after the tragedy, she had gone into a near-by cemetery and burned the gloves she had worn, and that she had then gone to the home of a friend (John Dunleavy) to wash the mud off her legs and shorts. She had not told Dunleavy anything of what happened.

On the afternoon of the tragedy, the officer continued, Mary had gone for a drive with her parents. When they returned they saw a crowd hunting for the missing Nancy Glenn.

Mayor Wilson, sitting as a magistrate, held the prisoner without bail on the strength of her unsigned statement. Attorney Gray objected to the mayor "usurping the authority of every magistrate in Philadelphia."

Later that same day Mrs. Phillips, Mary's best friend, who had become the bride of Chester (Chet) Phillips, a bookkeeper, two days before the death of the Glenn child, was taken into custody. At first charged with being an accessory, this charge was quickly abandoned, and she won her release as a material witness under $500 bond.

Chet Phillips and his bride, the former Marie Kibler, an attractive girl of 25, had both starred on the American gymnastic team at the Olympics in Berlin. They had wanted to get married at that time but the Olympic rules would not permit this. Marie had continued as a member of the Philadelphia Turngemeinde team while Phillips completed his education, graduating from Temple last June.

COUPLE KEPT MUM THROUGH LOYALTY

Mrs. Phillips told the police that Miss O'Connor had visited her the day after the death of Nancy Glenn and shown her newspaper accounts of the tragedy, saying, "I am responsible for this." The horrified bride had summoned her husband, to whom Mary told the same story.

They had not gone to the authorities, she said, through loyalty to the O'Connor girl, but would have come forward immediately had any one else been accused. She said that Mary's father called on her several days later and asked her how she knew about it, and she related to him everything Mary had told her.

Robert O'Connor, in the meantime, made statements in which he said that Mary could not have committed the crime because she had been out for a picnic with him and Mrs. O'Connor all day. Moreover, Mary had often written letters in high school, accusing herself of many things, and sending them to teachers, signed with the names of other girls. He said she seemed to have a "complex" about having committed robberies.

It was also reported that Mary had once held her mother's head over an open gas jet in order to "see how she would look if she were dead," and that Mary had suffered some sort of emotional fit after her best friend married. Neighbors declared she never seemed to have the slightest romantic interest in members of the opposite sex.

Attorney Gray won first against having the prisoner re-enact the crime; and he also obtained a habeas corpus which removed his client from police custody and placed her in Moyamensing, the county jail.

It was then disclosed that her father had conferred with Judge John J. McDevitt, an old friend and well-known political figure in Philadelphia, on Thursday, November 18, two days before Mary's arrest. He had told McDevitt he suspected that his daughter was somehow involved in the death of Nancy Glenn.

Others at this conference had been Attorney Gray, his partner, Frank Anderson, City Solicitor Joseph Sharfstein, Assistant District Attorney E. Lipschultz and Captain Murphy.

Mr. O'Connor, according to statements given the press by McDevitt, said he had told Captains James Ryan and George Richardson on November 19 of his daughter's worry about the case because she had had "peculiar complexes" before.

It was Judge McDevitt who ordered Miss O'Connor removed from police custody and confined in Moyamensing.

The judge told reporters that Mary had a lot of ego and that it was quite possible she had nothing whatever to do with the tragedy. He thought it likely that she was getting a big kick out of it all. Mr. O'Connor had told him, he continued, that he had become worried about her and had consulted Dr. Michael A. Burns, a psychiatrist.

Dr. Burns had advised sending the girl to Kirkbride's for observation and treatment. During her stay at the hospital, which the patient had not enjoyed, she had told a nurse that she killed Nancy Glenn. Soon after learning about this, the hospital authorities had told O'Connor to come and get his daughter. He had then taken her to his father's home in Merchantville.

The day after the hearing in Philadelphia, Mayor Wilson caused a sensation by announcing that new charges would be launched against Mary and her friend, Marie Phillips. The accusation, he said, was based upon an alleged occurrence the previous summer while the two girls were counselors at Camp Happy, the city institution for underprivileged children.

According to the mayor, one John Joseph Tunney, 27-year-old stevedore, who had worked at the camp as a laborer while serving a three-month disorderly conduct sentence, had called upon him and revealed that he had witnessed an act of intimacy. This act, said the mayor, was a crime punishable by seven-and-a-half to fifteen years in prison. Marie Phillips struck back vehemently, declaring that Tunney's story was a terrible falsehood. Her husband also asserted that there couldn't be a word of truth in this accusation.

So the Heiress Wed a Dude Cowboy

Barbara's new husband is a dude rancher and big game hunter, a happy compromise between the wild and woolly West and the effete East.

Cowboy Kenneth Glaze was too much of a he-man, Barbara said.

By POLLY PLAYFAIR

MOTHER knows best... sometimes.

Barbara Monell, heiress to a $15,000,000 nickel-plate fortune, had her mind set on a he-man husband, a lithe Lochinvar who'd come riding out of the West to carry her off in a cloud of dust and a clatter of hoofs. But mother had other ideas. And now that the excitement has died down, Barbara has her he-man on a second venture, and mama has one, too.

For a time it looked as if Barbara, who is now happily honeymooning amidst the scenic grandeur of Colorado Springs with her second husband, the handsome, bronzed Henry Hoder, might have been wrong when she refused to listen to the parental words of wisdom that were poured into her ears during her first romance. After all, her first cowboy husband did turn out to be too much of a he-man. But this time Barbara made sure that things were going to be much different.

It was just ten years ago that Barbara startled not only her own family but the entire Park Avenue and Newport coterie by marrying Kenneth Wilson Glaze, ex-cowboy and proprietor of a harness shop in Colorado Springs. It was one of those love-at-first-sight romances, but when Mama Monell first heard of her daughter's intention to wed an ex-cowboy, she, figuratively speaking, hit the ceiling. What she actually did was to take the first train West and try to stop the match. But tears and arguments proved futile.

Eventually, Mrs. Monell gave the young couple her blessing, but even so the wild west romance went on the rocks. Three years after her marriage, Barbara took the long, long trail to Reno and was granted a divorce on the grounds of cruelty. Glaze was so much of a he-man, she testified, that every time another man looked at her he went insane with rage and if she ever danced with another, he'd invite him outside.

Despite the fact, however, that her daughter's romance turned out so badly, Mrs. Monell must have decided that there was something to this "he-man stuff" after all. For a year after Barbara's divorce, she married a handsome, six-foot viking, Frederick W. Vetelsen, hunting and yachting enthusiast.

Mrs. Monell, the social registerite widow of the late Ambrose Monell, president of the International Nickel Company, was a lonely woman when she met Vetelsen, a naval architect.

So what was there for Barbara to do but try again? After all, it was her own contention that he-men made the best husbands. But when she married for the second time—just a few weeks ago—Barbara compromised a little. For Henry Hoder, her second tall and bronzed Western husband, isn't a wild and woolly cowboy. He's a dude rancher and a big game hunter and his acres at Victor, Colorado, are vast indeed. Barbara thinks she's struck the happy medium.

Lovely Barbara Monell is certain her dressed-up cowboy is O. K.

How "Emory-ites" Prepare for Exams

By CALVIN KYTLE.

This has been a hectic week at Emory University.

Students circulate the campus reciting aloud chemistry formulas; letter-writing ceases, coffee sales hit a new high; dormitory lights go off at daybreak; "Do Not Disturb" signs go out on fraternity houses, invitations to social functions are ignored.

It's exam week!

Exam week occurs three times this year, it's true, but repetition never seems to dull the activity, suspense, and turmoil which is a part of the traditional period. Students cram. Professors observe it all with Chaucer's attitude of twinkling amusement as if saying: "Well, we've been telling you things all quarter—now, you tell us."

And students accept their challenge. They cram some more. They spend quite a lot of time devising schemes to save time, and stay awake at night thinking of ways to keep awake longer. For all too bitterly do they realize that upon their final examinations depend the quarter's grades.

Students employ various methods of studying. Some sit in straight-back chairs before desks, while others lie on their beds for comfort. The theory of the first is that absorption in study will alleviate the pain in the back caused by the hard chair. Only strong-willed students can use the latter method, since there's too much temptation to fall asleep. To prevent this, many prefer the floor to the bed.

Medical students have handed down to freshmen their secret for keeping awake. They use a concentrated sugar which provides immediate energy. Enthusiastic, freshmen Jones Hogsed, Haygood Pearce, John Cotten and Harold Johnston consumed a quarter pound each of the food substance the night before their first exam last Tuesday.

This energy-building food cures that tired feeling at midnight, only to cause a let-down sensation the next day, equal to a hangover. But by 12 o'clock exams are over for the day, and students take the afternoon off, get some blessed sleep, and wake up in time for supper, to begin preparing for next day's exams.

Exams hit all hard, but they hit hardest the members of the Emory Aces, campus dance band, who unluckily always have an engagement the night before. They find that the only way to study is to alternate the latest swing tunes with the history of the French revolution. They study between numbers. One thing sure—what with trumpets blaring in their ears, they don't find it difficult to stay awake.

Members of the Emory Aces—campus dance band—have a difficult time through exam days. They inevitably have to play on the night before. Here, Ed Brannen is seen absorbing knowledge between numbers, with saxophone ready for instantaneous use.

The candid camera caught Clarence Glaussier, of Quitman, in the position he finds most relaxing for last-minute exam studying.

T. Hicks Fort, leader of the Aces, is an unfortunate student in law school. During final exams for the fall quarter last December, he decided that a little study was necessary to pass. So, relinquishing his baton for a week and fortifying with coffee and a radio, he spent the time in the pursuit of knowledge. The next Friday night, minus 48 hours of sleep, he appeared behind his customary spot with a saxophone. Fellow musicians vow that while the band was playing "I Love You Truly," he fell asleep. They also hope that dancers did not think those snores were discords.

Charles Irvin and John Harwell apply the theory of alternation to study. They sleep for three hours, then study for three hours. They claim that their system isn't tiring, and it's the best they've used, even if the alarm clock fails to ring at the end of the three-hour siesta.

Studying knows no convention of time or place. On the street car, in the bath tub, in the barber chair, at the meal table—all are popular. Emorites learn their lessons (and all of them aren't moral) on dates, at show intermissions, and while driving around the campus.

Phi Beta Kappas at Emory say they have the best method of preparing for exams, although no one agrees with them. They claim it is best to keep up regularly with the daily assignments, then before exams take the night off and go to a picture show. Phi Beta Kappas alone are capable of this idealistic procedure and in spite of their example, the majority of students still resort to old-fashioned "boning."

Co-eds at the University cram, too. Olivia Harrison, of Hapeville, studied until 4 o'clock one morning then got up at 6 to study some more before her 8 o'clock class.

"I may be abnormal," she says, "but I can't sleep in the daytime. Although, I felt dead from noon on, I couldn't sleep. I had another test the next day and spent all that afternoon studying. But believe me, the night after my second exam, I went to bed at 9 o'clock and slept until 1 o'clock the next afternoon. In all, it took me the whole week end to regain that lost sleep."

A favorite method of cross-country enthusiasts at Emory is to arise at 6 o'clock the morning before exams and run a mile or two before breakfast. Not only does it work up an appetite, they say, but it also makes them mentally alert. They do not recommend this program, however, for the man not in training.

Studying with the picture of the girl back home affords inspiration, asserts Sigma Chi Bob Knox, of Thomaston. The danger in this method is that in alternating between the study of the book and that of the picture, the weak student is likely to allow his thoughts to meander back home with the girl, and before he stops dreaming, it's time to go to bed.

Exam week has become an institution at Emory.

Fraternities serve black coffee to boarding members at 10 p. m., believing that a timely recreation period stimulates learning capacity.

Students regard the process of study as a business, and apply systematic techniques that would shame many businessmen. Studying is a task. It involves self-discipline, will-power, and perseverance. Educators today disapprove of "cramming," say that students learn not by cramming, but by daily appliance. But Miss Mary Richards Colvin, history teacher at O'Keefe Junior high school disagrees.

"Cramming is valuable training," she opines. "After all, two-thirds of the facts supposedly learned in college will be forgotten anyway, and cramming teaches one to learn things, assimilate facts, at the moment. This ability to learn in haste is a trait invaluable in any vocation. A lawyer has to bone for a big case and a writer has to cram in preparation for a big story. The ability to cram won't hurt any professional man."

Emory professors are sympathetic with students. Realizing that freshmen are bewildered, that some of them probably do not know how to study, each year during orientation week they give a series of lessons designed to help the "rat" plan his study.

One point emphasized by professors is the value of a daily schedule. They urge freshmen to budget their time, and to conscientiously schedule activities, allotting so many hours to recreation, so many to meals, so many to study.

But a week later, an inventory usually reveals

The sickly lad who grew up to be Bobby Jones, greatest golfer of the age.

Sidney Wood was so frail he had to live in Arizona—today he's a terror in tennis.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

THE doctor was very solemn. "Madam," he said, gravely. "I know you can be brave and I want you to try to be now. Your son won't be like other boys after this. It is doubtful that he'll ever be able to walk again..."

Twenty years ago...A schoolhouse fire in Kansas...And in the bedroom of a prairie farmhouse, neat and prim like a party dress, an 8-year-old boy lay there, wide-eyed, listening to his mother's sobs—and knew they were for him. He was so badly burned that there remained only the grim, blackened fragments of what had been a pair of legs.

Glenn Cunningham, the miracle man, with his wife and baby.

They Wouldn't Take NO for an Answer!

But, even before that first heartbreaking sob stopped on a smothered catch of breath, the little boy looked hard at the wall paper and reached a resolve. He'd fool them. He'd fix it so everything would be right for her again. He would walk.

Walk? How one does rant sometimes. Why, he's the greatest runner in the world today. He's the holder of eight world's records and only recently at Hanover, N. H., he added the ninth and greatest, the one-mile run in the well nigh incredible time of 4 minutes 4 1/10 seconds. He's the Man with the Million-Dollar Legs.

Why, in fact, he's just naturally Glenn Cunningham, the matchless, the superb, the supreme.

What miracle of science, you ask, made this possible? Who was the sorcerer with the scalpel who re-created human tissue where once was wasted sinew, pathetically like a thread? Is this great New Cure available to all? It is, of course, and it's not new and the magician is a man named Cunningham and the miracle is himself. Science simply has no prescription for Courage.

No need to study the literature of the uplift societies or the wall mottoes of Erasmus.

Do you remember Robert T. Jones? Who'll ever forget him? The greatest golfer that ever lived. And Gene Sarazen? One of the greatest.

As rugged as a couple of railroad ties, aren't they? Endowed by Nature to dominate their chosen field, weren't they? Yes, they positively were not. Jones, as a young boy, was pale, wan and as skinny as a clothespin. You could have blown him over with a nice, refined sneeze and there is even an old story that, at one period, he was given less than a year to live.

In any case, he was the vague type known as "sickly", and might very well have wound up wearing a wheelchair for a reefer. But he gave it the old mind-over-midriff routine and—well, he just didn't wind up, that's all.

As for Sarazen, if the same thing happened today, he would have been one of those boys in an "iron lung". At 17, he contracted empyema, a disease from which recovery is rare and, even then, seldom complete. The other patients in the hospital ward were very querulous.

"Get him out of here, get him out of here," they kept saying to the doctors. "Let him die some other place."

In time, he did go out of there, and on his own feet, but it was distinctly understood by everyone that his number was up and that only by following the sun, as might a pet lizard, could he hope to delay death. In fact, if there was anyone who didn't thoroughly understand all this, it must have been Sarazen for, from the moment he set foot outside the hospital, it wasn't his purpose to delay or deter death, but to defeat it, and nothing was going to stop him, not even a Scotch professional golfer, who was looking for an assistant.

Squinting suspiciously upon the applicant, he asked our hero his name.

"MacSarazen," said he—and got the job.

Then there's the very notable case of the matron from Kansas City. At the age of 30, bedridden; all but lifeless from pernicious anaemia. It wouldn't be long, they said, and so she decided not to wait for the end but to go out and face it.

Once there, it took a heroic effort to stay but she tottered through eight holes of golf, and collapsed. A week later, she did better—12 holes.

Today, at 44— hale, hearty and vital—there's probably no finer woman golfer in the country. For, surprising though it may seem to the thousands who know her by sight and photograph, the lady I've been talking about is Mrs. Opal S. Hill, several times a national semi-finalist.

There's Sidney B. Wood, of such frailty in his youth that he was forced to live much of the time in Arizona, but who fought back to achieve probably the highest honor within the gift of lawn tennis, the Wimbledon men's singles title.

There's Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion, whose torso was so lacerated and ravaged by fire that his life was despaired of, and also the Dartmouth linesman of the early twenties who received serious consideration for quite a few All America football teams. But I doubt if some of the selectors knew that he had only one arm.

There's the legend, too, of the club-footed man at Princeton. But, first, he was at Yale, or maybe in my strictly comparative youth, I've reversed the details for, if it happened at all, it was back there in the dark ages when football was played by men with long hair and buck teeth and, if you lived, you got your varsity letter. Anyhow—

Our man came out for the first day of practice at New Haven and was idling along the sidelines when he overheard something. An assistant coach was speaking, not wisely, but too loud:

"We'll have to get rid of that chump with the club-foot, somehow," he said.

The assistant coach was wrong about that. They didn't have to get rid of the man at all, for that night he bowed himself out forever from under the New Haven elms and went on down to Princeton, where he beat Yale single-handed with his terrific line plunging, which is a charming story, even if wholly untrue.

And, finally, there's Ray Kiser. You don't know him? The South does—as the roughest, toughest, rowdiest party it has ever been its pleasure to behold in the ring. One night he was down seven times in the first three rounds against a parous gent who called himself Ramblin' Rufus Miles, of Georgia, but they paid off on a draw.

Another night he, with the able collaboration of one Jimmy Reed, gave Sir Malcolm Campbell, the great British automobile driver, the shock of his life. Waiting to make his "run" at Daytona, he had gone over to see the "sparring"—and they gave him Kiser and Reed!

There had been a previous meeting between the pair at Jacksonville and it hadn't been at all genteel, so the first thing Kiser did was to pay Reed a social call in his dressing room.

"Listen, you dot-and-dash," said he, menacingly. "You fight me right tonight—or referee or no referee—I'll kick you till you're bow-legged."

The first thing Reed did was to reach into his own hair, rub off some colodion and smear it across the other's face, half-blinding him. Bellowing like a bull, Kiser reached into Reed's hair, poured himself a waft of the same bouquet and smeared it right back. And when finally he felt that he could see well enough to know what he was about, he came out of his corner at the start of a round, wound up—and they began kicking!

From then on, they bit, clawed, snarled, gouged and actually stood each other on their heads, with a riot being narrowly averted when Kiser aimed and landed a final kick as Reed was climbing through the ropes after the decision.

Meantime, do not mistake this Kiser person.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill—bed-ridden at 30, today a title-cracking golfer.

He was no clown, but a first-class welterweight; good enough, in fact, to fight Tony Canzoneri, Jackie Kid Berg, Sammy Mandell and others.

Few, though, ever knew that he got into boxing in the first place because he was anaemic and had been working out in gymnasiums with the idea of building up his insipid blood pressure. And fewer still knew that his left was practically an empty glove; that two fingers were wholly blown off and the other two were amputated at the second joint by dynamite in his youth.

They cheer Cunningham wildly now, actually fawn upon him at the slightest provocation. But once, if there were cheers, hisses drowned them.

Because of the imperfect blood-supply in those otherwise perfect legs, he has to warm up on the track for seemingly endless periods—and the fans thought it was swank. He always bobbed his head back and fourth in a somehow irritating gesture, but—"I was riding on trains all the time between here and Kansas," he explains, "and you get into the habit of slouching down in your chair. I was only trying to loosen up my neck muscles."

"As for my warm up, I must have at least an hour and the temperature must be at least mild. Otherwise, I can't warm up at all and there's been times when I've run five miles trying to do it."

When Spring comes to Connecticut, he's going up to visit a bed-ridden boy he's never seen, put on a track uniform and stage a workout for this one-person gallery. It all came about through a letter the lad had written. Was Cunningham's quick sympathy traceable to the hurt he must have felt in front of those adverse crowds during his early appearances in New York?

"No-oo," he said, slowly. "You see, I was a crippled boy myself once and I lay, lonely and helpless, in bed for almost six months."

And suddenly you found yourself back in that Kansas farmhouse, with its dainty chintz curtains, its rag rugs and highboys and the dignity of its silence.

You were listening again to the little boy who said he would—and then did!

Why, in the last year (which may account in good part for his current success) his legs have actually grown bigger. The old, dead tissue is falling out, like a decayed tooth—defeated at last. He's developed new flesh and muscle and skin, as might a five-year-old.

What was that idealistic ditty about curing ourselves with which Emile Coue, the Frenchman, so charmed us a few years ago? Never mind! Old Mike Murphy, the Olympic coach, did it much better.

With Cornell leading by 11 to 0 back around the turn of the century, Old Mike stalked disdainfully into the Pennsylvania dressing room between halves and, impaling everyone with a stern eye, he thundered:

"You can't beat a team that won't be beaten!"

P. S.: The final score 12 to 11.

Poetry Is Born as Chop Suey Burns

Mrs. Sieg is the mother of two charming children with whom she posed for this picture. Edward is nine years of age, and Geraldine seven.

By WILLIAM G. SUTLIVE.

"When we smell the chop suey burning, we know a poem is coming on."

This is the way Edward Augustus Sieg explained the spark of genius which makes the poems of his wife, known as Gerald Chan Sieg, appealing to her many readers.

"If she has the sudden notion to write, she writes," he continued, as Mrs. Sieg interrupted to credit him with inspiration and encouragement for her works.

"Just whenever I see something very interesting, to write about it comes quite natural," she said, "and he is always patient and helpful."

Mrs. Sieg, a writer since she was 11, has established herself as an outstanding Georgia poet, and the most widely known of any in her own city—Savannah. She has also obtained national recognition.

As a high school student she twice won first place in contests sponsored by the Poetry Society of Georgia. She continued writing after she married—even if the chop suey burned—and two years ago two of her poems were set to music by Miss Molly Bernstein, accompanist to Dusolina Giannini, and were sung by the famous soprano during a tour of the United States and Mexico.

A number of Mrs. Sieg's works have appeared in outstanding literary magazines, among them "Asia," "Atlantic Monthly," Anthologies, the New York Herald Tribune, and others. Mrs. Sieg says she enjoys her work very much and "every minute I spend in writing poetry is a blissful one."

"War Landscape," one of her more recent poems, was printed in the magazine, "Chinese Digest."

As the title suggests, it is a landscape in words, depicting the scene of a village of fishermen before and after the coming of marauders from the air. No emotion flows from the pen of the writer but simply a scene of war's devastation and horror.

"Just when I see something very interesting to write about, it comes quite naturally," says Mrs. Edward Augustus Sieg, of Savannah, the only recognized Chinese poet in America.

And the loud laughter of children in dusty street,

Then the roar of planes,
The scream of bombs,
The long wild wail before the dreadful stillness,
The dragging hours until the gray of dawn.

A boy with both feet crushed
And fevered lips that utter whispered moans.

Flies buzz in the grass.
Ants crawl along the bamboo splinters.
Over the Yangtze climbs the burning sun.

Born October 1, 1920, and christened the Chinese name Chung K'am Yeng, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chung Chan, Mrs. Sieg was given the American cognomen, Gerald Chan. When 11 years of age, she was attending private classes under the direction of Mrs. A. V. Chaplin, of Savannah. "At this time I wrote my first poem, consciously," she said. "I remember quite distinctly the title was 'My Rose.' Mrs. Chaplin was sweet enough to say she thought it was marvelous. She encouraged me in my work.

"My first poem to acquire recognition was 'Tutankhamen,' which I wrote while attending junior high school," said Mrs. Sieg. "The verse was written upon the request of my teacher, who asked everyone in the class to write one." The following week the poem was printed on the school page of a Savannah paper. "That was really my start. From then on I continued writing at short intervals.

"While in the second year of high school I wrote 'The Sad Lady,' which was one of the poems set to music by Miss Bernstein," continued Mrs. Sieg.

This poem won first prize in a student contest sponsored by the Poetry Society of Georgia. The next year she again was awarded first place in the same contest, this time with the writing "Tsi La-Noh."

Mrs. Sieg has been a member of the writer's group of the poetry society for a number of years and has won seven first places in contests sponsored by that organization.

Although she married at the tender age of 17, Mrs. Sieg has found what she believes to be a great advantage in marrying young. She is the mother of two very charming children, Edward, aged 9, and Geraldine, aged 7. The children have the characteristics of both the mother and father. They are quite obedient and never once disturbed their parents during an interview for this article. Mr. Sieg is of American and Latin-American descent while Mrs. Sieg is Chinese.

"By marrying at an early age," stated the young lady, "people have more opportunities, more to look forward to. They enjoy the romance of life and there is the wide world to gain and nothing to lose." Writing the poem, "Laundryman," Mrs. Sieg had

Why Garbo Listened to a Real-Life Love Story

By HELEN HARRISON

ROMANCE with the world's leading virtuosi is getting to be an old Hollywood custom! The one-time "nine o'clock town", having acquired a precocious culture, is playing its own behind-the-scene dramas to the lyrical cadences of rhythmic batons—with the accent on love!

The stars, "mad about music"—but good music—are madder, perhaps, about the music masters. And Garbo, rated by some the greatest of them all, is the most recent to fall under a maestro's spell...

From behind the cloistered walls of the old Villa Cimbrone at Ravello, Italy, whereon were posted signs reading, "No visitors until further notice", and close to the romantic Naples of Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton, the unmistakable strains of another classic love-song have been holding the world spellbound. There on a crag 300 feet above the cobalt blue bay, under her real name—Margaret Louisa Gustafson—Garbo, perhaps for the first time, completely stripped herself of the trappings of a tinsel world she has long quipped it over. In the Villa Cimbrone were chaperones and the great Stokowski, former conductor of the celebrated Cincinnati and Philadelphia orchestras. Together Greta and the maestro strolled the flowered-bordered terraces where, he told friends, he came "for a vacation to compose, like Wagner", who once occupied the Villa Cimbrone. Four armed carabinieri, representing the local constabulary, and several huge dogs roamed the grounds to guard this symphonic duet from the eyes of curious villagers eager for a glimpse of "donna mis-teriosa" (the mystery woman), in a town humming with rumors.

For this time, in all truth, Garbo "wants to be alone"—with Stokowski!

To further prove it they spent one whole day together on the Isle of Capri—where life flows in the soothing tempo of a song, for these are Artists with a capital Adagio! Here, in a setting so lovely that no harsh or blatant note is likely to upset its fragile harmony, the thirty-two-year-old Academy Award winner and the distinguished white-haired musician, now fifty-six, discuss past, present and—future!

The psychologists find interesting material for study in the attraction of the maestros for the movie stars. They see definite reasons why the Garbo who spurned the screen's greatest lovers is attracted to Stokowski. For one thing, the psychologists point out, music is an emotional stimulant. The motion picture studios have long realized this, using various types of music to help the actors and actresses reach a desired mood in the filming

When the Heart-Hungry Greta, Who Had Spurned the Screen's Greatest Lovers, Fell Under the Spell of Stokowski, Stormy Petrel of the Podium, She Swelled the List of Film Beauties Mad About Maestros, in Their Search for Romantic High Notes of a scene. Sensitive, temperamental Stokowski not only is a superb musician, but he is a man of magnetic personality and refinement, a man whose cultural attainments are far above those of most Hollywood figures. That there is a natural affinity between types such as Garbo and Stokowski is obvious to the scientist, according to

A section of a strange new portrait of Garbo, at right, by Martin Kosleck, exhibited in the Los Angeles Museum. The sauce-pan hat indicates her love for her own cooking; the glasses her dislike for the public gaze. The complete picture depicts her holding a pipe in one hand, exemplifying her liking for manish clothes; in the other hand is a penny—she's thrifty, you know.

Stokowski reached for a difficult star, even as he reaches for those difficult passages in a symphonic ensemble.

Dr. Theodore C. Newman, noted New York endocrinologist.

"Their emotional and temperamental reactions," he says, "meet in a mutual attraction which grows partly out of the demanding nature of their work. Both being artists, they have countless points of common interest. And their sensitive natures react alike to the constant strain of an artist's creative effort. This reaction often takes the form of a quickening of the emotional responses."

And thus, says the scientist, a great love comes into being.

A great musician interprets the fervent mood of an operatic love song... a screen star thrills millions with the burning intensity of her interpretation of a role...and in their own real-life romances, the artists re-enact the emotional crescendos they created in the world of make-believe. To them, the unreality of the screen play's romantic tinsel and glitter is clear. But nevertheless they build their dream castles, carry on their courtships in stage-like settings and transplant to the everyday world the fantasies of their artistic existence.

Stokowski has long been the Stormy Petrel of the Podium, and his fiery temperament is a striking contrast to the languorous aloofness of the great Greta.

The white-haired maestro is no musical recluse, shutting himself off from worldly contacts. Twice before, he has been married; the first time to Olga Samaroff and later to the former Evangeline Brewster Johnson. Both of these matrimonial experiences ended in the divorce court.

Striding about the conductor's platform, disdaining a baton, Stokowski directs his orchestra with wide and vigorous sweeps of his sensitive hands.

His controversies with the directors

Illustrated by Stuart Hamilton.

No celluloid romance for the woman who portrays great love as Hollywood sees it. Yet no dream of the scenarist could surpass the lovers' plans for their romance. Italian skies, the rush of the sea — and why not the fabled voyage of all poetic lovers, in a Venetian gondola?

Philadelphia Symphony made history. Favorite apartment color motif treuse, black and silver, and his of -hued pajamas and lounging have long been marks of his in-ity. Once he startled a swanky e by stepping to the front of ductor's stand and thundering e to those who had greeted his nance with salvos of applause. "Strange beating of hands," he t has no meaning to me. It is disturbing. We try to make ve like music, and then in between s this strange sound you make." e startled the studio attendants Oing up for an important radio by nce attired in golf tees. Before aping the tonal tumult of one of la modern composers, he shed his thollar and tie. "Stokowski shouted, "we o on much longer with these eighteenth century conventions. In rehearsal we take off everything and play. In concert, we have all this stiff nonsense."

Garbo may compare him, as women are prone to do, with others who have aspired to her love. With Maurice Stiller, for one, famed director, who brought her to America, an unknown, ultimately to enact Fame's leading role, while he returned alone to his Sweden to die in comparative obscurity. There was the dashing Jack Gilbert, too, whom she might have married, but didn't and who was said even at his untimely death to cherish a deep affection for the beautiful, aloof blonde. There was, of course, the carefully publicized romances with handsome George Brent and Rouben Mamoulian, but none was destined to reach fulfillment.

Another achievement of music over the things that matter in Hollywood is the marriage of Ann Harding and Werner Janssen. Prelude to the motif of maid and maestro was their common love of music, and the young composer made overtures with all the eloquence of his fluent gift.

"Werner," says his statuesque bride, "has a brilliant future; his career is much more important than mine." Objecting, Janssen replies: "I don't think we can do without you, sweet," which, at the moment, makes a perfect score!

A further merging of conductor and fair lady brings the spotlight to rest on the melodic Lily Pons — equally at home before the diamond horseshoe and on the silver screen — and the Russian musician, Andre Kostelanetz!

Lily and Andre are completely fused in their interest and their careers — and a great conductor holds sway over more than his orchestra.

But wait, society is also getting the swing! Ogden Goelet, music-loving scion of one of America's most socially-prominent families, recently divorced, is learning that "Refrain", in the musical sense, means to "go back and do it over". His plans include marriage with Maria Zimbalist, daughter of the famed violinist, and the singer, Alma Gluck.

But what, you ask, is to become of such handsome Hollywood bachelors as Tyrone Power, and Bob Taylor, David Niven or Brian Aherne, to name just a few? Are they to be forever relegated to the bench while the somewhat older, less handsome but divinely gifted "stars" of the symphony concert halls do a Pied Piper?

Haven't they read "How to Be Popular in Ten Easy Lessons?" For heaven's sake, as Gracie Allen would say:

"Are they men or are they maestros?"

BOOKS and Their Authors . .

French Revolution.

LOUIS XVI AND MARIE ANTOINETTE. (During the Revolution.) By Nesta H. Webster. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. 448 pp. Illst. $5.

Nesta H. Webster's previous studies in the French Revolution have made her an unquestioned authority on the period; but she has not hitherto devoted special attention to elucidating the personal characters of the unfortunate Louis XVI and his tragic Queen, whose story is incomprehensible and meaningless without a study of the character of her husband.

The first volume of Mrs. Webster's study, subtitled "Before the Revolution," has already been welcomed by both the reading public and the critics. It has been described as "a book to be read carefully by all students of history." Another critic finds it "well written, thoroughly documented." While still another speaks of the "illuminating details with which the historical occurrences of the period are handled." The present volume continues this important work.

Where the Queen is concerned it is not a question of "yet another book on Marie Antoinette," but a reply to the fresh calumnies which have recently been published against her. The theory of a love affair between her and the Comte de Fersen is shown to be based on no valid ground of proof, while the accusations of opposition to reforms and of betraying the interests of France are refuted by documentary evidence.

Mrs. Webster's biography is so complete and so thorough that it seems bound to supersede the works of previous writers, and to rank as the standard account of the long-drawn-out tragedy of the ancien regime in France.

Human Side of Opera.

OPERA FRONT AND BACK. By H. Howard Taubman. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. 400 pp. Illst. $3.75.

Grand opera is an institution, an art and a business. From the front it all appears so pleasing and simple that not one in a hundred ever think of the vast organization, the work and the schedules that must function to produce this effect for the audience.

Mr. Taubman has written a book which deals with the flesh and blood of life in the opera house—not synopses of the stories or biographies and chatter about singers, but about what makes the wheels of opera go round and how they move. No book so far published on the subject is so complete, so varied, so detailed, or written from such a vast supply of exact and fascinating information.

There are chapters about the performance itself; what the audience sees and hears, and what the audience does not see and hear; about the preparations for a performance; about the 12 months job of arranging for an operatic season—from planning the repertory and engaging singers to buying a new swan for Lohengrin or a new dragon for Siegfried.

fried; about the singers, their virtues, failings, peculiarities; the conductor, stage director, chorus and ballet master, supers and stage crew.

There is also a portion of the book devoted to the audience—with its principal division of the music lovers, the old guard, and the transients, with what they like and why they like it all considered. The book is full of good stories about leading figures of the operatic stage, is written by one who knows his subject and has not neglected a single phase of it.

The author is associated with the music department of the New York Times and has long been familiar with operatic and musical affairs and personalities. His subject is handled in a masterly manner and his book will be read with interest by all who have attended grand opera performances, and those who desire to be informed.

Another Man's Poison.

ALCOHOL: ONE MAN'S MEAT. By Edward A. Strecker, A. M., M. D., and Francis Chambers Jr. The Macmillan Co., New York. 230 pp. $2.50.

The physician will want this book to aid him in treatment; the patient will find it his most hopeful and helpful guide; his family and friends will treasure it as their most valuable source of understanding; students and teachers will welcome it as a beacon of truth; any others into whose hands it may fall will be the wiser for perusing it.

Repeated failure in treating the alcoholic has led many eminent physicians and hospitals to either refuse this type of case or to accept it with reluctance and little hope of progress. Dr. Strecker himself believed that the treatment of the alcoholic was, in the main, a thankless and humiliating task, but gradually he learned that there was a great deal more to the understanding and treatment of alcoholic addiction than was to be found either in drugs, in the regimes of hospitals and sanatoriums, or in the rough and ready psychology of persuasion, working on sympathy, or frightening and threatening. The coauthor of this book is no armchair philosopher; he himself was an alcoholic who managed to profit from his experience with all the usual methods of treatment and not only produced a cure in himself, but has gained a staunch reputation in helping others.

His treatment plan has stood the test of time. Francis Chambers is now Associate in Therapy, Institute of the Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, where Dr. Strecker is chief of service.

The plan of treatment utilized by Strecker and Chambers is largely re-educational, embracing strict regulation, psychological and physical treatment, one merging into the others, of course. The patient will not be solicited; he must seek treatment voluntarily and understand fully the seriousness of his condition. There must be abstinence from alcohol during the period of therapy, and the patient must realize he is never regarded as well until he is convinced that the remainder of his life is to be lived on a non-alcoholic basis. The psychological phase of treatment consumes about 100 hours spent in conferences with the therapist, where emphasis is on the production of a conditioned reflex in respect to alcohol. Finally, the main objective of treatment is not to produce abstinence, but to attain emotional maturity. It is not complete unless every effort is made to secure the understanding and co-operation of the family.

"We feel," say the authors, "that the most satisfactory treatment of alcoholism consists of an intensive psychological-re-educational approach, reinforced by a sensible correction of physical damage, and particular attention to a carefully considered nutritional program."

Action and Color.

THE STRUMPET SEA. By Ben Ames Williams. Houghton-Mifflin Co., Boston. 338 pp. $2.50.

Missionaries, south sea islanders, whalers, a pretty woman, good and bad men who sail the briny deep, are the characters around whom Ben Ames Williams constructs a plot and writes a vivid and colorful story that holds interest from beginning to end.

The natives of the south seas are shown to possess an innocent waywardness, coupled with friendliness toward whites who treated them right, but vengeful when mistreated.

Rescued from a situation that was fraught with danger, the young missionary and his wife spend months aboard a whaler, during which all that is good in some men come out and all that is bad in others precipitate trouble that can only end in death, either to the good or bad element.

Effective Story.

ON MICE AND MEN. By John Steinbeck. The Modern Library, New York. 196 pp. 95c.

The author has a story which is very effective, comprehensive, and forceful, narrating art and beauty. This book, because of its being one of the national best sellers, has placed the author in the group of the first prose writers of America.

The introduction is written by John Henry Jackson and covers approximately 15 pages. Here the author's background, history, and characteristics are nicely described. Steinbeck had considerable first-hand information about Scandinavia, including Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

The characters are strongly personified, characterized, and their traits are very marked. Their slang language is accurately depicted and is highly emotionalized. The suspense throughout are properly placed. Lennie, George, Curley and his wife are the most impressive characters.

SAMUEL KAHN, M. D.

Ordinary People.

WORLD'S END. By Pamela Hansford Johnson. Carrick & Evans, Inc., New York. 318 pp. $2.50.

Arnold Brand, often jobless, had grown embittered. His faith in the world about him had faltered, and the future, to him, seemed a futility. Nothing endured except his great love for his wife, Doris.

Of these people — inconspicuous people—Pamela Johnson has written a story as appealing as anything in England's long history of literature. "World's End" follows the Brands through troublous times, through apparent defeat to ultimate triumph, through disillusionment to dreams' fulfillment, out of a world of bitterness and disappointment into the bright sun of great happiness. As she unfolds the character of these ordinary people, reveals the trivia and the intimacies of their tiny existence, she unfolds, as well, as beautiful a love story as anything in modern prose.

J. T.

War Book.

UNDERGROUND NEWS. By Oscar Millard. Robert M. McBride & Co., New York. 287 pp. $2.75.

Mr. Millard's book deals with the famous patriotic Belgian newspaper La Libre Belgique, founded soon after the German occupation of Belgium late in 1914, and published secretly and impudently in Brussels throughout the course of the war. It was a formidable and perhaps foolhardy undertaking, this business of snapping fingers under the noses of conquerors. The penalty on discovery was known to be death or long imprisonment, but the editor, van Doren, took the chance and avoided capture time after time by the narrowest squeaks. But he organized well. Only a very small and trusted group was associated with him and none of the volunteer distributors was in direct contact with the group. There were,

Clothes Make the Men—Crazy!

TAILORS MAY SET THE STYLES, BUT ONLY A WIFE CAN BANISH THE OLD BLUE SERGE

By LEONARD HALL

RALLY, MEN! For the annual drive to turn us into dressy dudes is now on!

When it comes to coatings, vestings and pantings we are a die-hard, conservative lot. Occasionally a heretic appears, but all most of us want is a simple jacket to cover the torso, and a pair of pants with the as sports-wear king; "Luscious Lucius" Beebe, New York newspaperman on the hotspot-shift, was judged best-dressed for whisking around in cutaways and ruby jewelry.

The final objective of the tailors, abetted by the girls, is to colorize the drab and conventionally-cut clothes we wear by choice.

But tailors are only cream-puff usual two legs. But will the tailors and our women folks leave us in peace with our shiny blue serge? They will not. Every year the cutters and basters launch a vicious attack on our colorless rig-outs, and their strongest allies are our women, whose pet idea is to turn the old male moths into pretty butterflies.

The tailors, almost daily, stir up the situation with their plotting, which includes picking the usual best-dressed gents. President Roosevelt won the most recent crown of love and beauty for his appearance in a double-breasted dinner jacket, or "tux", as we called it at old North High. A Clark Gable, who does something in the films, got the nod punchers when compared with the women.

When they get all toggled out like lilies of the field for a cocktail debauch, they don't want to drag along a mess of jimpson weed miscalled a man. They want their boy to look so dandy that all the other girls will twitter: "Who is that thrilling-looking thing with Gladys?" So we're in for it.

My case is typical, for my storm and strife is a power in the Fashion World, and we had no sooner met and ignited than she began infecting me with clothes-consciousness. Gripped by love, as I was, I gave in. At the time I owned one suit—nominally black, but growing green from age—and two neckties, both polka-dotted with cafeteria gravy. She promptly burned these dismal rags, and turned my poor old body over to a first-rate tailor. As for haberdashery, she soon bulldozed me out of pure white shirts and into dark-colored, or thousand-mile chemises, complete with the proper ties. I admit that the general effect was good. If the girls didn't gasp with delight when I stumbled into the parlor, at least they didn't laugh.

The new trends in men's clothing carry many blessings—especially in the type called "casual", which in the old days would be called "slightly sloppy". Take the vogue for wearing coats which don't match the pants, and that's a honey. Every man's closet contains a few suit jackets whose pants have long gone past the patching point. Once mere space-wasters, those dear old coats are now valuable assets.

The king of casual suits is Mr. Fred "Rubberlegs" Astaire, whose vestments are imported at vast cost from Bond Street and Saville Row.

The efforts of the women to spruce us up were rewarded when they discovered the modern cut called "the English drape". This sort of swank suiting has nice shoulders to build up the chicken-breasted, high-peaked lapels and a neatly nipped waist. And the trousers are roomy at the top, and pleated! Twenty years ago a man would have gone crazy and cut people if anyone tried to put him in pleated pants—but today they are worn amiably by box-fighters, bowling champions and those gangsters still outside the cooler.

The cute trick in this dido is extra roominess in the shoulders, which gives more ease and play in forking up the ham and cabbage.

The tailors now say that no less than three-fourths of the men's raiment in the country is chosen by women, and that our mousehood far outruns our manhood.

But all is not lost. Only the other day I sneaked into the tailor shop, sneered down a fancy stripe picked for me by the little woman, and chose a plain but handsome blue, but don't tell her!

Despite all the attacks, we American men are stubborn and we'll keep on dropping into our pet shop and mumbling: "Well, Jake—just make me up a blue serge."

"We still cling to shreds of freedom, in spite of cooling tailors and brow-beating women!"

APRIL IN THE VEGETABLE GARDEN

By W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN.

April is gardening month in Atlanta, not by proclamation of the President, the Governor, or the Mayor—not because of any laws that can be passed, changed, vetoed or voted upon—whether we like it or not—but our close kinship to the soil makes us all like it—it is gardening time again.

When April comes, dogwoods prepare to cover Atlanta with their most beautiful of all snow—it is gardening time. Proclaimed by Mother Nature by a thousand signs, felt by every plant, animal, and man—it is here—now is the time to plant your garden.

It is important that thorough and proper preparation be made for the plants and seeds before they go into the ground. Remember that each seed is a tiny life that at best may have some difficulty in living.

WHAT TO PLANT IN APRIL.

BULBS-ROOTS: Gladiolus, dahlias, cannas, tuberose, elephant ears, fancy leaf caladiums and German iris may all be planted this month.

FLOWER SEEDS: All of the annual flower seeds such as ageratum, sweet alyssum, snapdragon, asters, nasturtiums, candytuft, cosmos, forget-me-nots, gaillardia, baby's breath, larkspur, portulaca, sunflower and a dozen others may be planted this month.

FLOWER PLANTS: All kinds of bedding plants may be planted now.

GRASSES: Grass mixtures as well as Kentucky blue grass may be planted now.

SHRUBS: Roses and shrubs are growing now and will appreciate a good fertilizing.

VEGETABLE SEEDS: All of the vegetable seeds may be planted during this month.

VEGETABLE PLANTS: Plant tomato, pepper, eggplant, cauliflower, celery, sweet potato, cabbage and onion plants now.

In many ways vegetable life is an interesting simple procedure. There are but three essentials—sunshine, moisture and food. Through a thorough consideration of these three essentials we may be able to grow vegetables to greater advantage, probably better able to grow all plants, either flowers or vegetables.

Plant foods have always been and always will be of tremendous interest, since they are the very first essentials of proper plant growth. I have always preferred the name plant foods to the name fertilizer, but through the feeling that a better understanding might be made through the words plant food.

Plants may take food from the soil only through the water in the soil. In other words, when the plants through their roots take water from the soil to carry it to their leaves, they hold whatever foods that are in the water. For this reason, it has been often said that the mechanical condition of the soil is more important than the chemical condition. A soil in good condition is well supplied with decayed manure, vegetable matter or peat moss, and is very fibrous. It is easily worked, and is teeming with bacteria, which work is to release the plant food which most soil contains.

There is a simple rule applicable to most gardens that by its observance will supply sufficient humus and plant food. For each 1,000 square feet (a plot 50x20) broadcast either one wagon load of stable manure or one bale of peat moss—also 50 pounds of some good high grade commercial fertilizer of an analysis about 12-4-4. Plow or spade these materials into the soil thoroughly and rake the ground smoothly ready for the rows to be laid off for the seeds and plants.

Now comes the greatest pleasure in vegetable gardening—what will we plant? Fortunately, at this time, almost everything from artichokes to zucchini may be planted.

Every garden should have an assortment of the unusual standard vegetables, such as beans, beets, cucumbers, squash, eggplant, corn, okra and tomatoes. But to have the finest garden, which means the best, most luscious, tender vegetables the varieties must be carefully chosen.

Many varieties of vegetables are produced and offered for sale in every seed store, not for the home garden but for the market, which means with sufficient hardness that they may be shipped hundreds of

WHAT TO DO IN APRIL.

PRUNING: All of the flowering shrubs that have bloomed this spring, such as January jasmine, forsythia, Japanese quince, spiraea thunbergi, may and should be pruned now. The other flowering shrubs that will bloom before June should be pruned directly after flowering.

FERTILIZING: Fertilizer for the lawn, flowering shrubs, flowers and vegetables should be at this time of the year a high-grade commercial fertilizer which is very active. This fertilizer should be a complete plant food with an analysis of 10-4-4.

SPRAYING: Roses should be sprayed every two weeks with Massey dust. For all kinds of insects that appear, use a pyrethrum spray. For mildew on crape myrtle, scale on privets and ligustrums, use volck or any good oil emulsion spray. Peach trees should be sprayed with mulsoil sulphur and arsenate of lead during the spring and summer. Use pyrox for apples, pears and plums.

miles and arrive in an apparent fresh condition. These are not for us—in the home garden. We want varieties that are tender and crisp—that cannot be shipped but must be hurried into the kitchen for immediate preparation.

Some of these choice varieties are the beans, the All-America Gold Medal Winner Tendergreen Stringless. In five years' time this variety—tendergreen stringless bean—has demonstrated a wonderful, deserved popularity.

There is a new radish—for home use only—called glowing ball. We have seen this radish grown in greenhouse and out-of-doors and think it is the finest we have ever seen or tasted. A round, smooth, scarlet radish with a short top.

The perfected Detroit, but 1934 All-America winner, has a better color with fewer white rings than any beet yet introduced. It is uniform in shape, a rather early round variety of good flavor.

Other vegetables that may be planted in April are butterbeans, both bush and running varieties, tomato, pepper, cabbage and onion plants, Irish potatoes, onion sets, collard seeds, pumpkin, corn, squash, okra, turnips, mustard, gale, English peas, spinach and watermelons.

We want to pause here, having mentioned beans, to remind you of the old-fashioned rule. Nowadays we leave out old-fashioned rules, but somehow or other they seem to be true—plant beans on Good Friday. Good Friday has always been the bean planting day in Atlanta and the old-timers will tell you that no frosts will come after Good Friday, but that there will be one during the week of Good Friday, yet the weather has been so warm we feel sure many will want to chance a few beans before that time. Having said this about Good Friday, and if you plant your beans we may have a chance to say "I told you so."

For the height of pleasure in the vegetable garden, raise some unusual ones. Many vegetables that are not usually grown here in Atlanta can be grown with but little trouble. Surprise yourself and your neighbors with some real unusual varieties, cauliflower, Italian broccoli, Brussels sprouts, Chinese cabbage. Cabbage and collards all require similar care, yet few gardens boast of either cauliflower, broccoli, Chinese cabbage, or Brussels sprouts. These four members of the cabbage family should be planted in rich, well-manured soil and should be fed often with a good complete plant food. In the event there is a dry hot spell during the late spring, water thoroughly twice each week.

In one corner of your garden, reserve a space for the herbs. Catnip, dill, sage, thyme, lavender, chives, mint and pepper grass should be found in every garden but are seldom seen. Be first with these novelties in your neighborhood.

If your place boasts a tiny spring

Questions, Answers On Garden Subjects

By MRS. FLETCHER PEARSON CROWN

Question: When do you replant spider lilies?

Answer: After the tops die down, which is usually in June.

Question: Do you pull off the dead flowers from narcissi and hyacinths? Does it do any harm either way?

Answer: For the neatness of the garden, all dead blossoms should be kept cut off. Then, too, any plant with faded blossoms left on will use up a great deal of energy in making seed. I much prefer that all faded blossoms be kept cut.

Question: What should I use now with which to spray my roses?

Answer: I like Bordeaux mixture at this stage of development. It will be a clever idea to continue to spray each week, whether the roses seem to need it or not. Once you let black-spot develop you will have far more spraying to do. In fact you may use this same spray to protect your perennial border and use it on any plant having mildew or mold.

Question: What was it you said in our recent garden school about roses?

Answer: I hardly know to what you are referring. As a matter of fact, I talked about an hour and a half, so it is any wonder that I have failed to know what you want? There are so many important things to be said and done about roses.

Question: Is it too late to move crape myrtle?

Answer: Now is the best time of the year to move crape myrtle, also magnolias. In moving a magnolia do not fail to take off two-thirds of its foliage. Keep a close watch all summer about the watering. In fact, a mulch will be beneficial. This is also the time of year to prune crape myrtles. They are so much prettier when kept as shrubs.

Question: How can I make a dogwood tree live?

Answer: They are not difficult to transplant, and I think this is a very good time to do so. First, do not try to move a plant more than four or five feet tall. Second, be sure that the roots have not dried out. Next, do not plant too deep. Then prune rather sharply.

or stream, plant some water cress, requires no cultivation and makes wonderful salad. Another delightful salad seldom found in Atlanta, but always easily grown is green curled endives—an important direction about endive, when nearly matured tie up the outer leaves over the center to blanch the heart of the plant.

To each reader we offer a challenge to plant a vegetable garden this year—for economy, a little reason—for healthful outdoor exercise, a greater reason—for vegetables that are more tender, more delicious and more unusual than money can possibly buy, a still greater reason—but greatest of all for the more complete home life.

'Emory-ites' Prepare for Exams that all but three freshmen have lost their schedules and are using their time as desire dictates.

But upperclassmen need instruction in study, too. So several weeks before exams started this period, the Wheel, campus newspaper, and Alpha Kappa Psi, commercial fraternity, sponsored a talk by M. B. Woody, famous memory expert, on "How to prepare for exams."

Mr. Woody stressed the use of association in remembering dates, names and facts. He told students they should make a mental picture of whatever they're trying to remember.

Emorites absorbed enough of his speech to try his suggestions and found only one thing wrong with Mr. Woody's rules. Mental pictures are subject to the fluctuations of the mind.

And do their minds fluctuate!

as background an aged and lonely Chinese laundryman in a city with no one there being able to speak his native language.

While passing through Statesboro, Mrs. Sieg said she visited the only Chinese laundryman in that city. When she entered the door of his meager business establishment, his face glowed with a beam of anticipation, but dropped immediately upon learning none in the party could speak to him in his dialect of the Chinese language.

Mrs. Sieg said she was keenly sorry for the aged Chinese and felt so much sympathy for him she was inclined to write something to recall this sorrowful moment to her memory. Thus the background for the "Laundryman," one of her fine writings.

LAUNDRYMAN.

If I could hear once more
The call of dark-winged birds across the fields
Of rice and slim young bamboo,

If I could see once more
A crane with yellow legs
So straight among cool water grasses,

If I could touch again
Her hand whose fingers in their sleeve of scarlet
Are softly curled and gentle,

My soul would be content,
O gods,
To iron away eternity.

(The above poem was awarded the popular prize offered by the Poetry Society of Georgia for its yearbook, published in 1934. It was also one of the two poems set to music by Molly Bernstein and sung by Dusolina Giannini).

Mrs. Sieg was born in Savannah, the third of six children, and has always lived in that city. Her younger brother, Robert Earl Chan, is a junior at Georgia Tech. Her cousin, Wing Jung, highest honor graduate of Georgia Military Academy in June, 1936, was awarded the academy's appointment to West Point.

therefore, a minimum of chances for informers to betray its members. With incredible luck always on his side, van Doren managed to publish tens of thousands of copies each week and to make regular deliveries to the desks of the military governor and even of the Kaiser himself.

The insolence of the cartoons and patriotic vigor of the writing aided immeasurably in maintaining Belgian morale and passive resistance in the face of an apparently hopeless cause. Monsieur van Doren deserves all the praise which Mr. Millard pours on him so lavishly.

Word to the Wise.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO GET MARRIED. By Bell Wiley. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. 160 pp. $1.50.

From the vantage point of almost five years of wedded life, looking down from Olympus as it were, I believe this delightful little volume will save the young bride many a tear. The author discusses and describes the myriad detail which usually takes a year or two to assimilate in the ordinary course of matrimony. The guide to buying is, to me, the outstanding section of the book—one which will save many a heartache, and hubby many a poor meal.

Whether your young married friends have told you all the pitfalls or not, you can't go wrong if you heed a word to the wise and read and remember.

U. S. ONE. MAINE TO FLORIDA. Modern Age Books, Inc., New York. 322 pp. 95c.

The Federal Writers' Project of the Works Progress Administration compiled this book, which was sponsored by the U. S. Number One Highway Association. The volume gives the history of U. S. No. One, and describes the United States from Maine to Florida, which is traveled by tourists on the U. S. No. One Highway. The history, certain mileages, customs and various other descriptions, are concentrated, and grouped under the headings of the various states. Tourists contemplating such trips, will do well to read this book and take it with them on such excursions. There are a number of beautiful photographs illustrating scenes throughout the various states along this highway. Towards the end of the book, is a long list of annual events in the various cities and states along U. S. One. It is recommended for travelers and tourists. SAMUEL KAHN, M. D.

The Planets—Your Daily Guide

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON.

Bernice Denton Pierson, eminent astrologer, has prepared this forecast in brief for a handy reference convenient to Constitution readers. This guide will aid you, for it indicates the most auspicious time to begin any new endeavor, whether it be business, social or domestic.

-SUNDAY: The period previous to 9 a. m. should be used, for concentration and serious thought, for if you do not give serious thought to the things you are attempting, you may undertake affairs that turn out to be arduous. Between 9 a. m. and 6:43 p. m. your interest in pleasures may be too costly, and you are apt to encounter minor annoyance. The remainder of the day and evening should be most favorable for almost any line of endeavor, and the entire day will prove helpful for anything along humanitarian lines.

-MONDAY: The entire day may be considered favorable for continuation of old work, for finishing up affairs that have started previous to this time, and for social, educational and legal matters that are of a practical and substantial nature. However, this is not a favorable time to undertake new and heavy obligations.

-TUESDAY: This is a favorable morning until 11:54 a. m. for conferences, communications, travel, dealings with brothers and sisters, and for unusual lines of work. Between 11:54 a. m. and 7:53 p. m. favors dealings with those in professional walks of life, but is a most inauspicious time for affairs relating to liquids, and for anything of an underhanded or secretive nature. The remainder of the day suggests caution and avoid taking on things that may bring strain.

-WEDNESDAY: During the entire day and evening and until 4:27 a. m. tomorrow morning any sort of liability should be avoided. You may meet cold hostility and important people are not likely to be in a receptive mood. Be careful of health, and plan to use patience and conservatism in your work for you will need it.

-THURSDAY: The day and evening needs control. Avoid unpremeditated action or you will undertake more than you can handle. Such influences as surround today bring a desire for change, a wish to be up and doing regardless of consequences, an irritability against the world in general, and is not conducive to practical endeavors.

-FRIDAY: You will be the gainer if you will keep your cautions around you until 7:19 a. m. Between 7:19 a. m. and 5:03 p. m. favors minor matters, undertaking laborious duties, and sticking to routine. After 5:03 p. m. you may find people in a "don't care" mood, and you should guard against lavity and carelessness.

-SATURDAY: Intense aggressiveness and speed are likely to land you in a headlong plunge before 8:15 a. m. However, between 8:15 a. m. and 9:30 p. m. you should encounter more graciousness and deal with others tactfully. This is a favorable time for business, literary, educational, affairs, for dealings in real estate and with people who are conservative and stable, and for plans and communications. After 9:30 p. m. is apt to be a very active time, but with forethought and understanding missing.

HOW TO USE THESE INDICATIONS TO BEST ADVANTAGE.

Should you receive an important telephone call, giving you the first news you have of a certain thing, look and see if the influences at that particular time are friendly or unfriendly. The outcome of that call will be colored by the influence prevailing then.

If you wish an astrological chart covering your sign of the Zodiac, Bernice Denton Pierson will be glad to send it to you. State your birth month and date (year unnecessary). Write your name and address plainly. Accompany this with 10 cents in stamps or currency to cover clerical expenses together with self-addressed stamped envelope. Address: Bernice Denton Pierson, care Constitution Atlanta Ga. Chart will be sent promptly.

Two in Love

A SHORT SHORT STORY

By JACK LAIT

THEY were very young. And, therefore, foolish. But to them life had taken on a terrific importance.

They hoofed in the same chorus in a night club. Ed was studying art, going to school days. He hoped to be a painter or a sculptor or at least a star illustrator.

Belle wasn't particularly ambitious. She had taken some dancing and she was satisfied to let her future come around to meet her.

They met at the first rehearsal, were immediately interested in each other, and before the big opening night they were in love.

It was Belle's first show. And her fresh, pretty face and graceful, youthful figure stopped many a jaded, wandering, appraising and adventuring eye.

Belle was pelted with overtures, propositions and even gifts of some value as advance indication of what she could get—if.

She indignantly and imperiously threw off all these approaches.

Ed blazed. He'd go out on that floor and sock some of those lemme-move-in guys on their red noses. Belle was going to marry him and wanted no truck with these chasers.

The other girls applauded Belle's resolutions, thought her romance was just too ducky, but hinted that she was a chump—she could have her Ed and wear a few stones, too.

Notes, flowers and attention were showered upon her.

It was all very flattering, though it was all very annoying.

But then came a card. On it was scribbled a telephone number, and under that—"Why not ring me and have luncheon with me at the Parnasse?"

The name was one to knock a chorine's eye out.

He was fabulously rich, handsome, under 30; everyone knew him; he was the prize catch of the Big Burg; he was socially super, he was a polo-player, he patronized concerts as well as night-clubs—and he was a bachelor in every meaning of the word; though he was seen again and again with beauties of the upper brackets and the Broadway rackets, he had never been conspicuously teamed with any of them.

Belle gasped. Young and dumb as she was, she knew what she had in her hand. Peter Van Brugh Herrenden 3d! No girl had ever turned that card down. And luncheon—at the Parnasse, a tony and perfectly proper place.

No one waited an answer, Belle shut her eyes a moment and tried to think. Then she hastily snapped the card into her purse.

For the first time, she didn't tell Ed. He took her home as usual that morning; they stopped as always for a sandwich and he left her at her door with the regular kiss. Belle ran into the little apartment. Everyone else was asleep. She took out the thin card, read again the delicately embossed name, turned it and read again the written invitation and the number. She picked up the telephone and dialed.

Herrenden's man answered... Yes... Miss would accept? Could he send a car for her? No? Very well. The message would reach Mr. Herrenden. Five minutes later, Belle was asleep.

Peter sat on the waiting bench in the little lobby of the Parnasse. He was not certain that Belle would recognize him. He was sure enough that he would recognize her.

He arose as she entered, somewhat strange and bewildered, and put out his hand in such a friendly, wholesome way that no one could have doubted that they were old cronies.

"Oh, hello," he greeted her. Her cheeks went pink as he took her hand and pointed to the diningroom entrance. Francois was already bowing and leading the way toward a table for two in the very center of the room—no secrecy here.

Belle not only was excited, a trifle scared and dizzy, but she was not used to such stylish places.

But Peter soon had her at ease. He ordered for her, he talked of impersonal things, he told her some innocuous jokes—and before she half realized it, he was signing the check.

"May I send you somewhere?" he asked, as a smart, but quiet town-car drew to the curb. She muttered that—yes—she had to do some shopping. He bowed her in, didn't even offer to ride with her—merely said:

"So nice of you to help me enjoy my luncheon... then I'll phone you at noon day after tomorrow?"

Ed noticed nothing unusual about Belle that evening. He met her with the same eager eyes and explosive "Hi, babes!" If her smile was a bit forced, he didn't catch the nuance.

But he was looking at a different girl—different entirely. He had been her heart's beat a few hours before. Now he was just a raw, cheap kid—a chorus-hooper with no class, no manners, no appeal.

"May I send you somewhere?" H'mph. Could he say that? Could he say it with the born air of graciousness? "Hi, babes!" She shuddered. He could say that, all right.

It didn't take Ed long to tumble. Any doubts he might have had were sent crashing when a gossip columnist broke the item—and without any question marks. Ed braced her and demanded a showdown. He got it—curt, blunt and final.

And as Belle gesticulated for effect, he saw on her hand an emerald-cut diamond. No, not on the engagement finger; on the little one. It represented what to Ed would have been some twenty years' wages as he was fixed just then.

"And I'm quitting the show tonight," added Belle. "So I won't be around to remind you of the dear old days."

Ed took it pretty hard, of course.

He wasn't doing much any more about his art lessons, and after the show, instead of milk with Belle, he took highballs with other steppers. His dancing suffered. He was fired.

Ed went out and got roaring drunk. A cop saw him staggering dangerously through fast traffic, found out where he lived, nearby, and took him. At the steps, Ed sat down limply.

"Hi, babes," he muttered. "Why don'tcha gimme a kish?"

The cop shook his head. "Funny birds, them there chorusboys," he mused.

What Has Happened to Justice?

The Phillips couple won the sympathy of newspaper readers when this scandalous charge was made public on such flimsy, uncorroborated evidence.

Two magistrates refused to issue warrants for the two girls, because of Tunney's irresponsible character. (He had been arrested frequently for larceny, disorderly conduct and indecent behavior.) But on the 28th Magistrate Jacob Dogole issued the warrants, accusing Mary and Marie of immorality.

A hearing on the 28th on the matter of releasing the prisoner on bail developed into an exceedingly undignified battle of words between Attorney Gray and the mayor.

When Gray accused Detective Warren Murphy of nodding his head and giving directions to persons on the witness stand, Wilson remarked, "You only want publicity." Gray retorted, "With a judge like you, who is judge, prosecutor and everything else, I've got to be on my toes."

The attorney, a moment later, described the mayor as "a dirty rat." Mary O'Connor was ordered held without bail for homicide.

Next came a hearing on the morals charge, which were quickly dropped "because of the absence of full testimony." Tunney refused to describe the alleged incident or incidents upon which Mayor Wilson had based his accusation; said he was sorry he had said anything, and that he didn't intend to discuss the matter further. Magistrate Dogole, in dismissing the warrants expressed the opinion that Tunney had committed perjury.

(Subsequently Tunney was arrested as a drunkard, on his mother's complaint, and he went to jail for ninety days.)

Attorney Gray won his bail battle on the 30th when Judge L. Stauffer Oliver, ruling that no malice or premeditation had been proven, ordered the prisoner released under $5,000 bond. She went at once to her grandfather's home with her parents, who had decided to close up their own home for the time being.

The new inquest, before the same jury which had previously given a verdict of accidental drowning, was held on December 8 and this time they ordered Mary O'Connor held for the grand jury. Mrs. Phillips stood on her constitutional right and refused to testify.

Indicted the following week for murder and for manslaughter, both voluntary and involuntary, Miss O'Connor continued at liberty until her trial, which opened on February 14 before Judge Joseph Sloane and a jury of nine men and three women. It was reported that Judge Raymond MacNeille had been asked to preside but had declined. The prosecutor was Assistant District Attorney Charles C. Gordon; Gray headed the defense.

Joseph Glenn Jr. tearfully described the finding of his sister's body, and his parents told their stories. Dr. Wadsworth in his testimony said, "An unconscious person would inhale, of course, but according to all indications a latent body would not be likely to press the mouth and nose as deeply into the water as they were in this case."

He said that pressing the face down into the mud so deeply as to cause the child to have inhaled not only a quantity of mud but even several pebbles would have "required considerable force."

This all indicated that, although the defendant had said that Nancy had been without a pulse beat when she fell, the child had not been dead but had been pressed into the mud-hole.

Captain Murphy testified that the defendant had said to him, "Nancy got on my nerves and I hit her."

In her defense, Miss O'Connor told of dropping the money, of Nancy being there, of Nancy eating the berries, of her slapping the child, and of her thinking Nancy dead and covering her with the tin. She denied that she had turned her over and put her head in the water. She insisted that she had not struck the child "deliberately."

HER GIRL FRIEND IS NOT CALLED

She told of burning her gloves, of going to the Dunleavy home to wash the mud off herself in the bathroom, and of telling Marie Phillips the next day. She had not signed the confession, she said, because it was not written the way she said it.

Her testimony, and that of twenty-nine character witnesses, completed the case for the defense.

Prosecutor Gordon had not called Marie Phillips as a witness for the state, and he left the degree of murder entirely to the jury. His adversary argued that there had been no wilful premeditation, that the only evidence was the defendant's story and that therefore the jury had to accept her full story.

Judge Sloan in his charge told the jury that they must acquit if they believed Mary's story. He barred no degree.

After fourteen hours of deliberation the jury, on February 18, returned a verdict of not guilty. They had taken three ballots. The acquittal, announced by Foreman John di Gildo, did not bring the usual cheers from the crowd. On the contrary they booed.

VERDICT PROVOKES OFFICIAL INQUIRY

The newspapers immediately started to boo, too. They asked:

Why hadn't Prosecutor Gordon put Marie Phillips on the stand? Why had he cross-examined the defendant so sketchily? Why didn't he try to break down her story? Why weren't the people from the hospital called? Why was no other evidence produced except the piece of tin sheeting?

Members of the jury now began making statements. Mrs. Alice Modesta, of the jury, said she was sorry now that she had voted to acquit; another blamed the foreman; a third said that on the first ballot six had voted for life imprisonment, three for involuntary manslaughter and only three for acquittal. Why, the jurors asked, had Gordon pressed for a murder verdict rather than manslaughter?

By February 24 the howls were so insistent that the Ruth Legislative Commission decided to conduct a secret investigation covering three points:

1. Why the coroner's first verdict had been accidental drowning.
2. Whether any powerful interests had been at work and what they were.
3. Why the jurors had changed their minds.

It was reported that the Glenn family had been asked to allow the defendant to plead guilty to manslaughter, but had insisted on a charge of murder.

On the 28th the Philadelphia Inquirer stated:

"Responsibility for the acquittal of Mary Keenan O'Connor in the death of 5-year-old Nancy Glenn rests upon public officials who, in their desire for publicity, ignored rudimentary police work to assume direction of the investigation."

The newspaper said that Mayor Wilson had been named by a member of the commission as one official responsible for the fiasco, since he had personally taken charge of the case. The Inquirer said that:

Detectives of the homicide squad did not reach the scene of the tragedy until 10 p. m., six hours after the body was discovered.

Detectives were prevented by high-ranking officials from taking the routine steps of any investigation.

They were prevented from isolating the ground around the spot where Nancy was found.

They did not make casts of footprints or bicycle tire tracks.

They made no study of the terrain. They did not question residents of the section who might have seen the child enter "Nolan's Farm."

"When we got there at 10 o'clock that night," one of the detectives told the commission, "we found the mayor and a number of police commanding officers. We were told there was nothing for us to do and to go back to city hall."

What was Justice in this case? Has Justice triumphed? What has happened to Justice?

HEAVY SILVER LACE is used in this youthful dinner dress worn by Constance Bennett. The cord edge of the bolero jacket is repeated in the simple tie around the waist. The platinum bracelet and necklace of pearls are the accessories selected by Miss Bennett for this gown.

MISS ROSE JACKSON, of Roswell, who was winner of The Atlanta Constitution essay contest on the U. S. Constitution on sesquicentennial of ratification by the states in 1788. Miss Jackson attends the Milton High school at Alpharetta, Ga.

200-YEAR-OLD CYPRESS TREES—Once each year the water in the 250-acre cypress garden at Charleston, S. C., becomes so heavy with tannic acid caused by the bark of the cypress trees that it must be drained off. Gardeners then plant 40 tons of bulbs and in the spring, its owner, B. R. Kittredge Jr., invites visitors to paddle in canoes to view an array of flowers and marine beauty.

AMATEUR CAMERAMAN'S ART—Among the more than 200 photographs representing the work of amateur cameramen in 18 countries, chosen for display in Rockefeller Center Galleries in New York city, is this photo "At Sea" by C. A. Musgrove, U. S. A. More than 1,000 photos were submitted for the display.

LUISE RAINER, Austrian actress, and Spencer Tracy were recently awarded top acting honors for 1937 by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science. Miss Rainer was selected for her performance in "The Good Earth" and Spencer Tracy was honored for his performance in "Captains Courageous." In the photograph are, left to right, Louis B. Myers, Luise Rainer, Mrs. Spencer Tracy, who received the award for her husband who was ill, and Frank Capra, director and president of the awards.

THIS FAWN was found by Marie Sawyer, of East Jaffrey, N. H., when he was seven months old. He is now the family pet and seems to have undergone the feminine influence as regards to the fluffy necktie he is wearing.

NAME _____ ADDRESS _____

AMERICAN DESIGNERS are creating all types of summer party dresses in cotton. Jean Yewell, radio star, wears this example of Swiss cloque organdy flecked with confetti dots in red, green, blue and yellow. Grosgrain ribbon, in matching colors, outlines the demure neckline, the short puff sleeves and the three deep flounces of the skirt.

JULIE GIBSON, models this shining Alice blue satin which was designed for her. Above the full skirt, the bodice is finished with puffed sleeves and a square, off-the-shoulder neckline. The girdle, is wide and made entirely of sequins.

(Right) SCINTILLATING SEQUINS are the secret glitter in this hat. The designer makes it for evening covering a skull cap with square sequins in steel blue and edging a blue veil with them.

ONE MILLION SEQUINS AND GOLD take form in this evening gown chosen by Rose Stradner, lovely Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer actress. Each sequin is one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter.

(Right) OVER A SILVER LAME fitted slip Florence Rice combines white net to fashion this lovely evening dress. The bodice is fitted with layers of net suggesting sleeves. Silver sequins form the girdle and are scattered around the skirt.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

AS TARZAN DIRECTED THE BUILDING OF THE FORTIFIED TOWN, ONE MAN RAISED HIS VOICE AGAINST HIM.

HE WAS HENRIK SMIT, WHO SAID: "WHY DO WE ALLOW THIS OUTLANDER TO RULE US? ARE WE TOO WEAK TO ORDER OUR OWN AFFAIRS?"

"HE IS WISE AND JUST," ANSWERED JAN VAN BOEREN: "AND HE IS OUR SALVATION AGAINST THE SAVAGES."

"HE MAY BE IN LEAGUE WITH THEM," SMIT INSISTED; "---PREPARING TO BETRAY US."

THE PIONEERS SCOFFED, AND TARZAN WONDERED WHY THIS MAN WAS HIS ENEMY.

DESPITE THE FELLOW'S SLURS, THE APE-MAN WAS A HERO, AND THE MAIDENS STOLE SHY GLANCES AT HIM.

BUT ANNITJE'S PERSISTENT FLIRTATION WAS BOLD AND SHAMELESS.

OLD LADIES WAGGED THEIR HEADS AND SAID: "IT IS PLAIN THAT SHE IS NOT OF OUR KIND."

TRUE, ANNITJE WAS OF STRANGE ORIGIN. AS A CHILD SHE WAS FOUND IN THE VELD T AFTER THE MASSACRE OF HER UNIDENTIFIED PARENTS.

THE VAN BOERENS ADOPTED HER, AND SHE GREW INTO A VAIN, HIGH-TEMPERED GIRL, AN ALIEN TO THESE SIMPLE FOLK.

TARZAN WAS COOL TO HER BRAZEN ADVANCES, AND ANNITJE SMARTED UNDER THIS BLOW TO HER VANITY.

THUS HER FANCY FOR HIM TURNED TO HATRED, AND SHE VOWED REVENGE.

NEXT WEEK:

HOGARTH-

Tarzan the Fearless—in an effort to save others from human sacrifice before the altar of a pagan god, finds himself facing the same ghastly death. Follow "Tarzan the Fearless" every day in The Constitution.

AFTER SPOTTING THE ESCAPED CONVICTS, BOBBIE LOST NO TIME IN CARVING OUT A PAIR OF WOODEN GUNS. MARGIE WAS SENT HOME - OUR TWO HEROES ARE NOW ABOUT TO MAKE THE CAPTURE.

SH-H-NOW'S OUR CHANCE-

WELL, BUMPS- LET'S CRAWL INTO THIS CAVE AND GRAB SOME SHUT-EYE-

YEAH, SPIKE- I'M TIRED- WE'VE BEEN ON THE GO ALL NIGHT-

PUT UP YOUR HANDS! WE GOT YOU COVERED!

WE KNOW WHO YOU ARE - SPIKE AND BUMPS -

WHY, IT'S THOSE BRATS WE LEFT TIED UP IN THAT OLD SHACK -

ESCAPED CONVICTS

SURE ENOUGH

WALK STRAIGHT AHEAD! WE'RE TAKING YOU TO THE POLICE STATION -

WHISPER - PST - LISTEN -

WON'T THE POLICE BE SURPRISED WHEN WE TURN 'EM IN -

YES - AND THAT REWARD WILL COME IN PRETTY HANDY, TOO -

HEY! LOOK OUT! BEHIND YOU!

WHAT? WHERE?

GRAB 'EM!

CAN YOU BEAT THAT! GET THIS, SPIKE -

US FALLING FOR THIS OLD GAG - JUST A COUPLE OF WOODEN GUNS!

WELL - WE'RE GONNA FIX YOU GOOD THIS TIME!

MEANWHILE - LITTLE MARGIE, INSTEAD OF GOING HOME, RAN STRAIGHT TO THE POLICE STATION -

HURRY! HURRY! RIGHT DOWN THIS ROAD -

STEP ON THAT GAS OFFICER! THERE ISN'T A SECOND TO LOSE!

STREAKY

THE CITIZENS OF MIDVILLE REFUSE TO CALL A HALT IN THE STREAKY CELEBRATION, ESPECIALLY THE MOTHERS AND FATHERS, SO GRATEFUL ARE THEY FOR HIS HAVING SAVED THE RUNAWAY SCHOOL BUS, FILLED WITH THEIR CHILDREN, FROM CERTAIN DESTRUCTION WHEN IT LANDED IN THE PATH OF AN APPROACHING EXPRESS TRAIN

WELL, SIR - I CAN SEE YE' MUST BE A STRANGER, SURE ENOUGH. EVERYBODY AROUND HERE KNOWS SARAH STREAK'S BOY

HOW DID YOU GET ALL THEM STREAKY HERO BUTTONS?

GOSH, ANYBODY CAN GET 'EM! JUST ASK FOR 'EM - THAT'S ALL! BET I GOT MORE THAN YOU, I BET!!

SAY, WHO IS THIS STREAKY EVERYBODY'S MAKING SUCH A FUSS ABOUT?

OH, ER, PARDON ME! MY NAME'S ER, JOLLY - JIM JOLLY, HO-HAW-HAW. I'M ER, HERE ON BUSINESS. TELL ME MORE ABOUT THIS LAD STREAKY -

HOW D'DO, MR. JOLLY - I'VE NOTICED YOU AROUND LATELY

WELL, WELL, THIS BEGINS TO LOOK LIKE A NATURAL BORN SET-UP, IF I EVER SAW ONE

WITH THE COMING OF NIGHT... FLARES ARE LIGHTED AND MIDVILLE CONTINUES TO CELEBRATE IN HONOR OF ITS FAVORITE SON

UNABLE TO INDUCE "SHANGHAI" TO ACCEPT A REWARD FOR SNATCHING LUCY BELLE FROM CERTAIN DEATH, THE BUS COMPANY, TO SHOW ITS GRATITUDE, HAS SCHEDULED A FIVE MINUTE STOP FOR ALL BUSES AT THE OLD ALDEN HOUSE, FOR COFFEE AND DOUGHNUTS----

OUTMANEUVERED ME, DIDN'T YOU? WHEN I REFUSED YOUR MONEY YOU REWARDED ME INDIRECTLY BY HELPING THOSE I CARE FOR MOST-

HA! HA! I EVEN TRICKED YOU MORE THAN YOU GUESS, "SHANGHAI"!

HOW DO YOU FIGURE THAT? THINK OF THE BUSINESS YOUR BUSES WILL BRING US-

HA! BUT THINK OF THE TREAT OUR PASSENGERS ARE DUE FOR - NO - WE'LL GET A LOT MORE FROM THIS ARRANGEMENT THAN YOU FOLKS WILL-

HEY! GET SET! HERE COMES THE LIMITED!

HERE! WHAT ARE WE STOPPING HERE FOR? ISN'T THIS A LIMITED?

FIVE MINUTE STOP FOR COFFEE AND DOUGHNUTS - NEW SCHEDULE - ALL BUSES -

WHAT'S THE IDEA OF THIS?

THE IDEA!

I NEVER HEARD OF SUCH A THING!

BAH! DOUGHNUTS! WHO WANTS DOUGHNUTS?

PREPOSTEROUS! OUTRAGE!

HELLO. FOLKS - PULL UP A CHAIR AND HELP YOURSELVES -

HM-M... SNIFF-- SNIFF-- HM-M!

EVERYTHING LOOKS SO CLEAN!

WHAT A REALLY QUAIN PLACE -

SNIFF! SNIFF! AH-HEM... NOT BAD!

WHY, CHILD, THIS COFFEE IS PERFECTLY DE-LICIOUS!

AND THIS ROOM! IT'S-IT'S A GEM! AND SPOTLESS!

AND WHAT SU-PERB DOUGHNUTS!

SA-A-AY! THESE ARE DOUGHNUTS!

SORRY, FOLKS - TIME TO GO -

OH! SO SOON?

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?

WELL, I'M NOT BUDGING TILL I'VE HAD ANOTHER O' THESE DOUGHNUTS -

AND SOME MORE COFFEE, SIR?

WHAT A CHARMING IDEA!

WHAT DOUGHNUTS, YOU MEAN -

WHY, I COULD SPEND HOURS IN THIS PLACE -

YEARS, MY DEAR!

HA! I COULD LIVE HERE - WHY DIDN'T I EVER HEAR ABOUT THIS BEFORE?

YOU HEARD THEM - OUR PLAN'S A SUCCESS - WE OWE YOU MORE THAN EVER, "SHANGHAI" - IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR YOU - SAVING THAT KID ----

POPPYCOCK! SUPPOSE THE DOUGHNUTS HAD BEEN SOGGY---

ATTRACTING ATTENTION-- ADVERTISING-- THAT'S ALL FINE-- BUT ONLY WHEN THE PRODUCT HAS WHAT IT TAKES TO HOLD THE CUSTOMERS--

DEEP UNDER THE RIVER

WITH MIKE MAGUIRE
FAMOUS TUNNEL ENGINEER

NOW DO BE CAREFUL, MIKE. I ALWAYS WORRY SO ABOUT YOU DON'T YOU BE WORRYING ABOUT ME, DEAR!

SO LONG, DADDY

MAGUIRE TAKES OVER FROM THE DAY ENGINEER

HOW'S THE GOING, BILL?

FINE, MIKE. WE TOOK OUT 30 CARS ON MY SHIFT

--ON INTO THE SHIELD--A GIANT TUBE--OPEN AT THE FRONT END WITH ONLY TREMENDOUS AIR PRESSURE TO HOLD BACK THE OUTSIDE MUCK AND WATER

FOG!

AS MIKE GIVES A QUICK GLANCE AROUND TO SEE THAT ALL'S WELL, HIS KEEN EYE SPOTS A GRIM WARNING

WHAT PASSES THROUGH MAGUIRE'S MIND--A "BLOW"

CR-UNCH! PL-UM!

THE DREAD, EVER-PRESENT MENACE TO TUNNEL WORKERS, AIR EXPLODES OUT THROUGH THE FACE OF THE TUBE--HURTLING MEN, TWISTED STEEL AND GIANT BROKEN TIMBERS TO THE SURFACE OF THE RIVER IN A GIANT Geyser!

MIKE SPRINGS INTO THE BREACH. WORKING HEROICALLY HE AND HIS CREW FORCE HUNDREDS OF BAGS OF MUD AND HAY INTO THE WEAK SPOT

THAT'LL HOLD IT!

THAT GUY MAGUIRE AIN'T AFRAID OF NOTHIN'

TOOT!

HOURS LATER--THE TUNNEL-MAN'S CRY OF "DRY BOOTS, BOYS!" SIGNALS THE END OF THE SHIFT

YOU MET A TOUGH SITUATION--AND STILL BEAT YOUR RECORD!

WHAT KIND OF MEAT DO YOU EAT, MIKE, TO MAKE YOU THAT WAY?

I'M GOING FOR SOME CHOW RIGHT NOW. BETTER COME ALONG AND SEE

I'M GLAD YOU LIKED THE SOUP. SHALL I SERVE YOUR STEAK NOW, MR. MAGUIRE?

FIRST I'D LIKE A PACK OF CAMELS, PLEASE. A CAMEL OR TWO WILL HELP ME ENJOY THAT STEAK ALL THE BETTER

YOU ALWAYS STICK TO YOUR CAMELS, DON'T YOU, MIKE?

CAMELS HELP MY DIGESTION GO SMOOTHLY--AND DON'T FRAZZLE MY NERVES OR TIRE MY TASTE. CAMELS ARE SURE DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARETTES. AS I ALWAYS SAY "CAMELS AGREE WITH ME!" THAT MEANS A LOT BECAUSE I SMOKE A LOT!

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT--WE SMOKE CAMELS BECAUSE WE KNOW TOBACCO" TOBACCO PLANTERS SAY

"Camel paid the highest prices to get the best of my last crop," says Edward Estes, a capable young planter. "I know tobacco and my cigarette is Camel. That's true for most planters too."

"When the best leaf is auctioned off, Camel usually gets it," says Vault Snowden, another Camel-smoking planter. "This year, they bought all my choice grade. I've smoked Camels for 19 years."

"I know Camels use more expensive tobaccos," says Harold L. Craig, a planter for 20 years. "My last crop was the best yet. Camels gave top prices for my best grade leaf."

CAMELS ARE A MATCHLESS BLEND OF FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS--TURKISH AND DOMESTIC

TAD OF THE TANKARD
BY BOB MOORE AND CARL PFEUFER

LOOSE THEM AT ONCE—AND WHEN THEY ARE FED AND CLOTHED, BRING THEM TO ME!

IT—IT SHALL BE DONE, O PRIESTESS.

TAD AND HIS FATHER ARE DRESSED AND FED BY SERVANTS OF THE MYSTERIOUS VEILED WOMAN.

IF MY LORDS HAVE FINISHED—I WILL CONDUCT THEM TO HER, WE DO NOT NAME HER, BEING AS PLEASANT AS SHE'S BEGUN.

SEND IN YOUR ORIGINAL COSTUME DESIGNS TO BOB MOORE IN CARE OF THIS NEWSPAPER

GEE, FATHER, DON'T I FEEL SILLY IN THESE CLOTHES?—WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE THIS IS ALL ABOUT?

I CAN'T FIGURE IT MYSELF, YET, LAD—IT'S AS IF WE'D DROPPED BACK ABOUT FIVE THOUSAND YEARS—WE'RE IN A TIGHT SPOT—SO WATCH YOUR STEP.

DRAW THE CURTAIN FOR YOURSELF, LORD—IT IS FORBIDDEN TO ANY OF US TO LOOK INTO THE HALL OF LIGHT UNLESS SHE SUMMONS US.

AS SPEED SWINGS ASIDE THE HEAVY CURTAIN, BOTH HE AND TAD ARE STAGGERED BY THE DAZZLING BRILLIANCE OF THE INNER CHAMBER.

DON DIXON AND THE HIDDEN EMPIRE

BY BOB MOORE AND CARL PFEUFER

LATE THAT NIGHT—A CAPTAIN OF THE MARSH TROOPS MAKES HIS REPORT TO TANIA.

WE SURPRISED TWO HUNTING PARTIES OF THE FENIANS, MAJESTY—ONLY ONE OR TWO ESCAPED.

EXCELLENT, CAPTAIN!—SINCE KUL WISHES TO PLAY AT WAR—WE WILL GIVE HIM WHAT HE ASKS FOR!

WHAT'S THIS, DOG?—WHERE ARE THE OTHERS?—WHERE IS OUR MEAT?

ALL IS LOST, KING!—THE MARSHMEN DRAGGED DOWN OUR BOATS—BUT—I MANAGED TO REACH—THE BANK.

WHILE IN THE FENS—KUL IS HEARING THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.

BAH! COULDN'T YOU DRIVE THEM OFF?—ARE YOU AFRAID OF THEM?

ON LAND, NO—BUT IN THE WATER THEY ARE DEMONS!—I GO NO MORE ON THE SWAMP!

THIS IS YOUR DOING, HAG!—WE CAN'T HUNT WITHOUT CROSSING THE MARSHES—AND IF WE CANNOT HUNT, WE DO NOT EAT—I OUGHT TO TWIST YOUR SKINNY NECK!

STOP RAVING, YOU FOOL—AND LISTEN TO ME!

OF COURSE, TANIA AND TAAK KNOW THAT WE CANNOT BEAT THEM IN THE WATER!—BUT I HAVE A PLAN—FETCH ME A SMALL STICK!

THIS IS IDLE TALK!—I HATE THEM—BUT WE MUST MAKE PEACE OR WE SHALL STARVE.

YOU ARE STUPID AS ALWAYS, KUL!—NOW I WILL SHOW YOU HOW YOU MIGHT LONG AGO HAVE HAD ALL THE MARSHLAND FOR YOUR OWN—IF YOU HAD ONLY THOUGHT OF IT.

IT WORKS!

By EDWIN ALGER

BEN WEBSTER COULD HARDLY BELIEVE HIS EARS! OLD PAT ENTED, THE MACHINIST, HAS JUST TOLD HIM THAT THE INVENTION ON WHICH THEY HAVE BEGUN WORK MAY TURN OUT TO BE A THOUGHT RECORDER! AND IS BEN EXCITED! WELL, WOULDN'T YOU BE?

AMAZING! POSITIVELY REVOLUTIONARY! IT'LL ASTOUND THE WORLD IF IT WORKS!

HERE ARE THOSE TWO TINY BUT POWERFUL STORAGE BATTERIES YOU SENT ME FOR, MR. ENTED.

AH! GOOD! WE MUST GET TO WORK IMMEDIATELY!

WILL YOU BUNK HERE WHILE WE'RE WORKING ON THE INVENTION?

YOU BET! YOU COULDN'T DRIVE ME AWAY WITH A TEAM OF HORSES!

OKAY, MY BOY, PUT YOUR GRIP IN HERE. HMMM, NOT VERY TIDY. I MUST REMEMBER TO GET THAT CLEANING WOMAN IN HERE SOME WEEK.

LUCKY I HAD THESE WAX DISCS AND THESE NEEDLES--JUST WHAT WE NEED!

WITH BEN HELPING, PAT ENTED WORKED SILENTLY AND FEVERISHLY! GRADUALLY, THE MODEL TOOK FORM BEFORE THEM. THE TINY STORAGE BATTERIES WERE INSERTED IN THE DISC AND A SMALL LOUD SPEAKER NEARBY ATTACHED.

HOW'RE WE DOING, MR. ENTED?

BE PATIENT, BEN. CURB YOUR EAGERNESS! AH, NOW I'LL COMPLETE THIS HOOKUP AND-- GEE, CAN'T I HELP?

IT'S WORKING! BUT I CAN'T HEAR ANYTHING!

STAND JUST WHERE YOU ARE! IN THAT ELECTRICAL WAVE AREA! SAY NOT A WORD!

ONE MOMENT NOW! WAIT'LL I TURN ON THE SPEAKER--LISTEN TO THAT!

WHRRR! SCRATCH! WHRRR! GOSH, WHY DOESN'T MR. ENTED HURRY? I WONDER IF IT'LL WORK? I'M SO EXCITED I COULD BUST! GEE, I WONDER IF MR. ENTED KNOWS WHAT HE'S DOING?

WHY, WHY, WHY. THOSE ARE THE THOUGHTS I WAS JUST THINKING--I-I-I--

EXACTLY, MY LAD! IT WORKS! IT'S AMAZING! BUT IT WORKS!

NEXT WEEK: AND HOW IT WORKS!
